This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. Preface

IT IS well known to the older and larger collectors that nearly all Americana, that is, books relating to this country, down to within the past ten or twenty years, have been gathered from the many private collections in Great Britain. During our recent visits to Great Britain for the purpose of replenishing our stock of the better and scarcer Americana, we have been impressed with the growing scarcity of these books in that country and during our visit last year, an investigation showed that that source of supply is all but exhausted. This means that with the supply virtually exhausted in Great Britain and there being no other country which has accumulated books relating to the United States outside of the United States, many of these books are going to be unobtainable, or when copies do occur for sale that there will be more would-be purchasers than copies.

The best of the books relating to this country written in English are now located here. At present, as this country is forming collections rather than selling them, it will be many years before these books again come upon the market if they do at all, considering the fact that by far the larger part of the copies now available are finding their way permanently into the libraries of public institutions from whence they will never again come upon the market, apart from the destruction of many copies each year by fire, etc.

In order to keep our stock reasonably complete we have been compelled for a number of years past to pay increasingly high prices and to sell the books at margins of profit which are growing closer every year. Books bought in Great Britain and on the continent this year have been purchased by us as low as it is possible to buy, yet even then the prices we have been compelled to pay, on account of the growing scarcity of the items, have been in many cases, far in excess of the prices at which, during the past five or six years, we have been able to sell other copies. It is our firm belief that the next five or ten years are going to show some remarkable advances in the prices of these books as the almost total exhaustion of the source from which this country has been drawing them is only now beginning to be seriously felt.

Bound in at end is "Fauna of Alabama," 100 pp.

Calhoun (Arthur W.) Social History of the American Family from Colonial Times to the present, with extensive bibliographies and analytical index; handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague hand-made paper; 3 large volumes, 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1917-19. $15.00. 9

The most valuable history yet published of family institutions in the United States. It deals with marriage customs, controlled fecundity, the status of parents, servants, sexual morality, education, economic and moral conditions, relations to the state, industry, society, courtship and marriage in the various states, the woman question, the new industrial order, negro relations, the old south, etc. Deals with family and social conditions in almost every state of the Union, especially New England, N. Y., N. J., Del., Pa., Ore., and the Southern States.

Confederate Vivandiere (The); or, The Battle of Leesburg, a military drama in three acts, as performed at the Montgomery (Ala.) Theatre, by an amateur company, for the benefit of the First Regiment of Alabama Cavalry. Montgomery, 1862. $35.00. 10

Evidently written by Joseph Hodgson, Jr., C. S. A. The present copy is apparently the author's own copy in which he has written in pencil the cast of the production. A copy of the program and head of the play-bill is bound in.

Unique copy.

——— War Map: Military map of Dept. of Alabama, Mississippi, East Louisiana, West Florida and West Tennessee, Lt. Gen. R. Taylor, Commanding. Contemporary photograph from the original at Department Engineer's office, Selma, Ala., Nov., 1864. Size 19x16½", folded into printed cover, slightly cracked in folds, but nothing missing. Selma, 1864. $24.00. 11

Confederate military maps are now of great rarity. The present is an unusually interesting one in that it has many manuscript additions and the railroad from Pollard to Hall's Landing has been added.

Davis (Pres. Jeff,). Inaugural Address delivered at the Capitol, Monday, Feb. 18, 1861. 8vo, pp. 8, sewn. Montgomery, 1861. $28.00. 12

The first inaugural address of Pres. Davis. An historic document of great interest. Exceedingly rare.

A story of slavery and the Civil War in Alabama.

Fleming (W. L.) Civil War and Reconstruction in Alabama; with numerous portraits, maps and other illustrations. Large 8vo, pp. 838, cloth, uncut, gilt top. New York, 1905. $5.00. 15

The first scholarly and critical account of one of the most important epochs in American History. Deals especially with Alabama, but conditions were general throughout the south.

——— Documentary History of Reconstruction: political, military, social, religious, educational and industrial, 1865 to the present time. With numerous plates and facsimiles. 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1906. $12.50. 16

Relates extensively to Alabama.

Flower (R.) Letters from Lexington and the Illinois, English settlement in the latter territory and refutation of misrepresentations of Cobbett: Letters from Illinois, 1820-21, by the same: Two years' residence in the settlement on the English Prairie, in the Illinois Country, by Woods: and Tour in the West (Ohio, Indiana and Illinois) in 1818, by Hulme; edited by Thwaites. With facsimiles and folding maps, large 8vo, pp. 358, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Cleveland, 1904. $5.00. 17

Also relates to Alabama.

ALABAMA.

Forney (Gen. John H.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Hdqrs., Dept. of Ala., and West Fla., Mobile, July 3, 1862, addressed to Flag Officer S. M. Randolph of the Alabama. 1 page, 4to. $2.00. 18

Relates to capture of British steamer "Anna." Forney was a West Point graduate, but joined C. S. A.

Fremantle (Lieutenant-Colonel of the Cold Stream Guards) Three months in the Southern States, April to June, 1863. 8vo, pp. 158. A remarkably fine copy, sewn as issued. Mobile, 1864. $17.50. 19

An unusually fine copy of the excessively rare original Mobile edition. It was printed on unprinted wall paper, and with title of two different makes. The present copy has the exceedingly scarce postscript. Most copies were issued without the postscript.

Gosse (Philip H.) Letters from Alabama chiefly relating to natural history; illustrated. 16mo, pp. 318, cloth. London, 1859. $2.50. 20

Herbert (Hilary A.) and others. Why the Solid South? or, reconstruction and its results. 12mo, pp. 460, cloth. Baltimore, 1890. $1.50. 21

Journal of Senate of Alabama, session of 1873, with index. 8vo, pp. 442, half sheep. Montgomery, 1874. $1.75. 22

King (Wm. R. of Ala.) Obituary addresses on occasion of death of; portrait. 8vo, pp. 63, cloth. Washington, 1854. $1.50. 23

Lindsay (Robert B., Gov. of Ala.) Message to General Assembly, Nov. 21, 1871, and other documents. 8vo, pp. 541, half roan. Montgomery, 1871. $1.75. 25

Medical Association of Alabama; Transactions, 1897. 8vo, pp. 456, cloth. Montgomery, 1897. 75c. 26

Military Map of Northern Mississippi and Alabama. Size 23x32, folded. Washington, 1864. $1.50. 27

Moore (War Gov. A. B.) Message to the Senate of Ala., Jan. 14, 1861. 8vo, pp. 16, sewn. Montgomery, 1861. $27.00. 28

An unusually fine copy of this very important historical document now exceedingly rare. This is his original secession message to the state senate. It relates to the seizure of federal forts and property, the financial and military measures adopted, the suspension of specie payment by the banks, the steps for raising troops, the causes leading Ala. to join the Confederate states, the embarrassed condition of the cotton market, etc.

——— Original autograph letter signed, dated from the Executive Dept., Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 14, 1860, and addressed to War Gov. John W. Ellis, of N. C. $35.00. 29

A most interesting historical document both in regard to secret negotiations among Southern States in regard to the attitude of the North, and also because of its Lincoln interest.

Governor Moore commissions the Hon. Robert H. Smith of Alabama as Commissioner of North Carolina to decide what steps shall be taken "to protect the rights, interests and honor of the slave holding states in the emergency which has been forced upon them by the election of Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency."

Mr. Smith was one of the secret delegates to the conference.

Muhlbach (L.) Henry VIII and His Court. 2 vols. 8vo, half morocco, gilt tops. A fine copy. Mobile, 1865. $17.50. 30

A most interesting example of the straits to which the South was reduced for paper toward the close of the War. The present volumes, printed in Mobile, Ala., are printed on the cheapest kind of newspaper and were bound in wall paper covers. The present copy has both of the original wall paper covers in an unusually fine state of preservation. Examples of contederate printing on wall paper are now becoming exceedingly rare, as also are examples of books printed in the South during the last year of the War.

Phillips (Ulrich B.) Plantation and Frontier Documents: 1649-1864; illustrative of industrial history in colonial and ante-bellum South. With facsimiles, 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1910. $12.50. 31

Much relating to Alabama.

Smith (Hon. Robert H.) Address to Citizens of Alabama on Constitution and Laws of Confederate States of America. 8vo, pp. 24, sewn, with the original front cover. Mobile, 1861. $17.50. 32

By a prominent member of the Confederate Congress, explaining the reasons and motives for changes in the Constitution and Laws.

Smith (Wm. H., Gov. of Ala.) Annual and special messages to general assembly at session commencing Nov. 21, 1870, and other documents. 8vo, half roan. Montgomery, 1870. $1.75. 33

Strickler (Theodore D.) When and Where We Met Each Other on Shore and Afloat, Battles, Engagements, Actions, Skirmishes, etc., during Civil War, 1861-1866, etc. 12mo, pp. 220, wrappers. Washington [1899]. $1.25. 34

Watts (Thomas H., War Gov. of Ala.) Original document signed, dated Executive Dept., Montgomery, Nov. 19, 1864. 2 pp., 4to. $4.50. 35

An important document regarding funds in the State Treasury. It also bears endorsements of P. H. Brittain, Secy. of State, and of D. B. Graham, State Treasurer.

Wood (Gen. S. A. M., of C. S. A.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Florence, Ala., Aug. 17, 1884. 2 closely written pages, folio. $6.00. 36

A valuable historical document giving a complete record of Wood's military service in C. S. A.

See also Louisiana; Darby, Voyage—New York; Busteed—Ohio; Thomas.

ALASKA.

Abercrombie (Capt. W. R.) Alaska: 1899; Copper River Exploring Expedition. Large folding map and very numerous plates. 8vo, pp. 170, cloth. Washington, 1900. $2.75. 37

Abruzzi (Duke of the) Ascent of Mount St. Elias, Alaska. Narrated by Filippo de Filippi, illustrated by Vittorio Sella, translated by Signora Villari with the author's supervision. One of the few special copies printed on large and thick hand-made paper, and very extensively illustrated with beautiful photogravure plates and text illustrations, besides folded plates, charts and maps. One largs and thick volume, imperial 8vo, bound in silk cloth with ties, edges entirely uncut. London, 1900. $25.00. 38

The above is one of the few special copies for which special plates and illustrations are prepared. It contains numerous beautifully executed photogravure plates printed on Japan paper and mounted, in addition to which it contains a large number of illustrations taken by Duke of the Abruzzi and especially furnished by him for this issue. These illustrations have beeen carefully mounted into the text. Only a few copies were prepared with these illustrations. It has long been out of print and is becoming scarce.

Humfreville (Capt. J. L.) Twenty Years among our Hostile Indians. Very extensively illustrated. Small 4to, pp. 506, cloth. New York [1903]. $2.50. 523

The author was Captain in the United States Cavalry. He presents a most interesting account of border life, the fur traders, pony expresses, and experiences among the warlike tribes, their cunning, treachery, habits, secret customs, dances, perils of travel by ox team and prairie schooner, frontiersmen, trappers, scouts, guides, Indian wooing and marriage customs, funerals, dog feasts, etc.

Deals principally with the tribes in the Southwest, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Dakota, Wyoming, Oregon, etc.—the Apaches, the Arapahoes, the Blackfeet, the Navajoes, the Cheyennes, the Omahas, the Utes, the Comanches, the Wichitas, the Zunis, the Pawnees, the Sioux, and the Snakes.

Kino (Father Eusebio F., S. J.) Historical Memoir of Pimeria Alta: a contemporary account of the beginnings of California, Sonora and Arizona; by Father Kino, pioneer missionary, explorer, cartographer, and ranchman: 1683-1711. Translated, edited and annotated by Dr. H. E. Bolton, Professor of American History, University of California. With extensive historical introduction, bibliography, analytical index, plates, facsimiles of rare early maps, plans, etc., and a new and carefully prepared folding colored map. 750 sets printed direct from the type and the type distributed. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague handmade deckle-edged paper. 2 large vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1919. $12.50. 524

The publication for the first time of Kino's long-lost history is of the utmost historical importance. Its existence contemporaneously is known only by the constant references thereto in early historical works. This manuscript is the basic source for the history of that period. The Historical Memoir is virtually a history of the entire Southwest and of the Indian tribes for the period covered. It is the source of practically all that has been known and contains much that never has been known before of the Southwest.

Very extensiveley illustrated with plates and other illustrations. Royal 8vo, pp. 286, newly bound in full buckram, leather label, uncut, gilt tops. Washington, 1896. $5.00. 554

The origin and primitive meaning of this almost universal, curious and interesting symbol is lost in antiquity. It enters into religious rites and customs throughout the world, and is generally the symbol of good luck. It existed among the American Indians, is found on the earliest American prehistoric remains, in the temples of Central America and Mexico, in South America, and among the religious customs of China, Japan, Korea, Thibet, Persia, and India. It existed strongly among the Pima and Apache Indians of Arizona; is found among Indian remains in Arkansas; in the mounds in Ohio, in Tennessee and Kansas; among the Cliff Dwellers. Among the Buddhists it had high religious significance. In Egypt it was considered the key of life.

Bolton (Herbert E., Editor) Athanase de Mézierès and the Louisiana-Texas Frontier 1768-1780. Documents published for the first time, from the original Spanish and French manuscripts, chiefly in the archives of Mexico and Spain; translated into English. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Issued in a limited edition, printed direct from type and the type at once distributed. With large folded map in colors and facsimiles. Cleveland, 1914. $12.50. 659

The papers of Athanase de Mézierès are of exceptional importance and value regarding the history of the French and Spanish regimes in Texas and Louisiana, which, to a large extent, is the history of an Indian policy. For light on the Indian affairs of what are now Texas, western Louisiana, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, during the period of the American Revolution, there is no other single group of documents in existence so important as the De Mézierès papers.

A fine set of the best and only complete edition with all the maps and plates.
Two chapters are devoted to the Indians of Calif., and two other chapters contain a relation of personal adventure among the Esquimaux, with descriptions of their peculiar habits and customs. The author gives an insight into the Californian Missions, which is greatly interesting. The Mission Fathers, long isolated from the civilized world, had become as severe tyrants in their little monarchies as any of the secular class and regularly recruited their subjects from the wild tribes of savages by expeditions against them in which fire and sword had more victims than the cord and the prison.

Betagh (Wm.) A Voyage round the World: being an Account of a Remarkable Enterprize, begun in the year 1719, chiefly to cruise on the Spaniards in the great South Ocean, relating the True Historical Facts of that whole Affair. 8vo, old calf. London, 1728. 798
Peru, Chili and California. Betagh sailed as a Captain of Marines with the privateering expedition of the Success and Speedwell, under Captains Clipperton and Shelvocke. The two vessels parted company. Shelvocke's "Voyage round the World," published in 1726, is pronounced by this writer to be a tissue of falsehoods, untrue self-justifications, and charges of mutiny and misconduct against many of his officers and crew, whose testimony would have gone against him. The truth seems to be that Shelvocke was simply a pirate, employed by British merchants, and his principal object his own enrichment, in which he succeeded.

Carson (General Kit) The Original Manuscript as dictated by Kit Carson upon which Colonel DeWitt Clinton Peters, U. S. A., founded and wrote "Kit Carson's Wild West; an authentic record of the romantic life and daring exploits of Kit Carson and his companions from his own narrative." Colonel Peters was U. S. A. Surgeon and a warm personal friend of Carson's. The notes were dictated by Carson at various dates between 1858 and 1860, at Taos, N. M. It contains many corrections by Colonel Peters in pencil. It is the Manuscript referred to in the printed volume as "The only authentic biography of himself and his travels that has ever been written . . . and for months, during his leisure hours, he was engaged in dictating his life." The manuscript comprises 113 pages, large 4to, and is dated from Fort Union, N. M., May 28, 1868. Price, $150.00. 828

An unusually interesting manuscript, both on account of its historical value, as well as of the character that it covers. It gives a very graphic account of life and adventures on the Southwestern frontiers, and of the daring exploits of the frontiersmen, Indian scouts, etc.

The Manuscript relates to the Southwest, New Mexico, California, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Colorado, the Rocky Mountains, and the various Indian tribes of that region; the hunters and trappers, Indian captivities, the Columbia River, Fremont, etc. A copy of the printed volume accompanies the Manuscript.

Rogers (Captain Woodes) Cruising Voyage round the World; first to the South Seas, thence to the East Indies, and homewards by Cape of Good Hope, 1708-1711; containing journal of the taking of the Puna and Guiaquill, the Acapulca, and other prize ships; the account of Alexander Selkirk, living alone for four years and four months on an island, etc. The second and best edition, with the folded maps in unusually fine condition, including the very scarce Moll map of the route which has been newly and carefully mounted on linen. 8vo, pp. 512, newly and beautifully bound by Riviere of London in three-quarter crushed and polished levant morocco, extra tooled back and gilt top. London, 1718. $75.00. 1083

A beautifully bound copy of this very rare voyage. Of great interest in regard to the early discoveries on the California Coast, the West Indies, Central and South America, the American Bucaniers, Buenos Aires, Mexico and its mines, the barbarous natives, the South Seas, the cruelty of the Spaniards, etc.

Apart from the importance and accuracy of the descriptions contained in this extended voyage, covering four years, it is of great literary interest as being the original account of Alexander Selkirk's living alone on an isle in the Pacific upon which Daniel Defoe based his celebrated story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk was found during this voyage on the Isle of Juan Fernandez and was rescued by Captain Rogers and his story is herein published for the first time.

The volume throughout is in remarkably good condition and offered at a very reasonable price. The last copy which sold at auction in London, namely in 1916, with the title and a number of leaves repaired and with close margins, brought £50.

This edition contains considerably more material than the first issue of 1555. Among the additions are "Nauigation and vyages of Lewes Vertomannus"; "Voyages of Spanyards round about the world"; and "Abridgement of P. Martyr, his 5. 6. 7 and 8 Decades." Lewes Vertomannus is L. de Varthema, and "The Voyages of the Spanyards" are the relations of Maxililianus Transylvanus and Antonio Pigafetta. It covers the earliest voyages to all parts of the world, including the American Continent, the Philippines, the Arctic Regions, etc.

It is the first history of America, as well as the first English collection of voyages, and the main source of our knowledge of the new world before Hakluyt. Without exception the most important work we possess in regard to Spanish and Portuguese discovery and early exploration—not only of the American Continent, but of the world at large.

Peter Martyr was an Italian, chaplain to Queen Isabella and apostolic protonotary. He gathered his facts first hand by direct and constant correspondence with the explorers of his day. In translation or abstracts, his work was the most widely circulated in the sixteenth century and is still our foundation for contemporary knowledge of the New World. His official position, personal friendship with Columbus and other discoverers, and his untiring efforts to gather facts, make his Decades our indispensable, authentic and primary source for the history of the discoverers. The first three decades relate exclusively to America. He gives us a wonderful epitome of Pigafetta's Narrative of Magellan's Voyage around the World, Gomara's description of the Conference of 1524 to determine the Demarkation Line, Gomara's own account of Columbus and the earlier explorers, etc.

Monette (Dr. J. W.) Bartow (Hon. Francis S., member of First Confederate Congress from Ga.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Montgomery, Feb. 5, 1861, addressed to War Gov. Brown of Ga. 2 pages, 8vo. $40.00. 1691

An exceedingly interesting historical document written from the first session of the Confederate Congress regarding the formation of the provisional government, stating that the plans for its formation were being discussed in secret session; relates to the furnishing of men for Fort Pulaski by the planters, donation of money to slaves, etc.

Benning (Col. Henry L., of 17th Ga. Regt.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Columbus, Ga., Feb. 21, 1861, addressed to War Gov. Brown of Ga. 3 pages, 4to. $45.00. 1692

A very important historical document regarding the granting of letters of marque and reprisals, the granting of such letters irrespective of the fact that the Confederate Congress had taken no action. The letter especially urges such action against New York, as New York had already seized arms belonging to Ga. The recommendation is made to seize every New York vessel with its cargo belonging to New York state or its citizens now in Savannah harbor. The letter shows strong resentment.

Bourget (Paul) Outre-Mer: impressions of America; portrait. Thick 8vo, pp. 424, wrappers, uncut. London, 1895. $1.50. 1693

Contains much on Ga.

Brent (Col. George W.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Confederate States Hdqrs., Mil. Div. of West Augusta, Ga., Feb. 4, 1865, addressed to Major Norman W. Smith of Field Transportation. 2 pp., 4to. $17.50. 1695

Most interesting historical document showing to what straits the Confederate States were reduced at this time. On account of lack of funds, certificates only were given and, although coming from Hdqrs., the letter admits that the seizure about to be performed is not strictly according to the impressment law. Relates to the impressment of 120 wagons and 480 mules for service between Washington, Georgia and Abbeville, S. C., from counties of Oglethorpe, Clarke, Greene, Wilkes, and Taliaferro. The order admits that this will annoy and irritate the people, so Smith is to use as much diplomacy as possible. In lieu of payment, the teams are to be returned as soon as possible.

British Government Diplomatic and Consular Reports: U. S. Report for 1911 on trade of Consular district of Savannah; folding map. 8vo, pp. 43, sewn. London, 1912. $1.00. 1696

Brown (Hon. Joseph E., War Gov. of Ga.) An important original autograph letter signed, dated Milledgeville, Ga., May 14, 1861, addressed to War Gov. Letcher, of Va. 3 pp., 4to. $50.00. 1697

A very important historical document in which the Gov. discloses the serious plight of Ga. through lack of guns and ammunition. The letter is an attempt to borrow from Va. needed guns and ammunition to defend the sea coast of Ga.

——— Another, dated Clinton, Ga., Sept. 26, 1862, addressed to Gov. Z. B. Vance of N. C. 2 pp., 4to. $15.00. 1698

Important historical document regarding general proclamation on extortions in the South, recommends its suppression, use of grain in spirits prohibited, commends Gov. Vance for stopping speculators and extortioners in N. C., etc.

——— Another, dated Millidgeville, Ga., March 23, 1864, addressed to Gov. Z. B. Vance of N. C. 2 pp. 4to. $20.00. 1699

A most important historical document regarding exemption of state officers from conscription, the Confederate Government charging N. C. duty on exports and imports, commandering of tonnage on vessels, payment of export and import duties of private individuals, etc.

Cleveland, 1917-19. $15.00. 1701

The most valuable history yet published of family institutions in the United States. It deals with marriage customs, controlled fecundity, the status of parents, servants, sexual morality, education, economic and moral conditions, relation to the state, industry, society, courtship and marriage in the various states, the woman question, the new industrial order, negro relations, the old south, etc. Deals with family and social conditions in almost every state of the Union, especially New England, N. Y., N. J., Del., Pa., Ore., and the Southern States.

Cobb (Thomas R. R.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Montgomery, May 8, 1861, addressed to War Gov. Brown of Ga. 2 pages, 8vo. $15.00. 1702

Cobb was Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee of Confederate States. The letter relates to the defense of the coast of Ga.

Crown Collection of Photographs of American Maps, selected and edited by Archer B. Hulbert. Second series, both volumes, a series of 100 plates, carefully reproduced from manuscript maps, exclusively from British manuscript sources, covering New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, New England, Georgia, New France, etc. 2 vols., folio, in portfolios, each map separate. $60.00. 1703

Only 50 copies of each map were printed.

Elliott (Stephen, Bishop of Georgia) Our Cause in harmony with the Purposes of God: Sermon preached at Savannah, September 18, 1862, being the day set forth by the President of the C. S. A. as a day of Prayer and Thanksgiving for our manifold victories, and especially for the Fields of Manassas and Richmond. 8vo, pp. 24, a fine copy in the original wrappers. Savannah, 1862. $7.50. 1704

"I cannot conceive anything more hateful to God than the infidelity which has revelled in the Eastern States for the last forty years, having its centre and its seat in the Modern Athens, as the Bostonians have proudly called themselves. . . And out of this defiled nest have flown the birds of evil omen who have scattered discord and confusion over the lands."—Page 22.

Hariot (Thomas) Narrative of the First English Plantation of Virginia, first printed at London in 1588, now reproduced after De Bry's illustrated edition printed at Frankfort in 1590, the illustrations having been designed in Virginia in 1585 by John White. Small 4to, pp. 178, Roxburghe, as new. London, 1893. $3.50. 1803

The above is the beautiful reprint made in London in 1893, which reproduces the many quaint and curious plates, and map. It is entirely out of print and becoming scarce, as only a small number were printed.

It records contemporaneously the history of the first English settlement in the U. S., established by Sir Walter Raleigh, and its failure. Virginia at that time covered all of the country North of Florida and South of Labrador.

GEORGIA.

pp. 48, newly bound in half brown morocco gilt, uncut, gilt top. London, 1733. $45.00. 1830

A remarkably choice, clean and tall copy (7¼ by 9⅛ inches), with the two scarce engravings by Pino, and the rare map. In addition, the present copy contains the rare postscript, regarding the charity schools and the documents covering the establishment of the Colony of Georgia. Apart from its interest as one of the earliest Georgia items, it is of even greater interest as an early British Colonial item relating the curious causes and conditions leading to the establishment of this colony.

This second edition is of especial interest as it contains letters of General Oglethorpe, (the founder of Georgia) with restrictions of the assembly relative to his arrival. It is a well written document, plausible in its arguments, glowing in its descriptions, valuable for its information and pertinent in its appeals to the philanthropic and benevolent.—Sabin's Dictionary of Books relating to American Colonies.

[Oglethorpe (James Edward)] New and Accurate Account of the Provinces of South Carolina and Georgia: with many curious and useful observations on the Trade, Navigation and Plantations of Great-Britain, compared with her most powerful maritime Neighbors. 8vo, pp. 76, newly bound in crushed red morocco extra, paneled gilt sides, and full gilt edges. London, 1733. $35.00. 1835

A remarkably fine, clean and choice copy of this very rare and curious work. An unusually tall copy, 4½ by 7 13/16, with unusually wide margins. In fact, the tallest copy of the work we have ever seen.

Apart from its great interest as one of the earliest and most authentic histories of early South Carolina and Georgia, it is of exceeding interest as an early Colonial item, particularly illuminating as to British Colonial trade and conditions, by General Oglethorpe, the Founder of Georgia. Copies even in poor condition rarely occur for sale. The volume is becoming of great rarity.

Peck (Wm. H.) The M'Donalds; or, the ashes of Southern homes: a tale of Sherman's march. 12mo, pp. 192, cloth. New York, 1867. $1.50. 1836

Semmes (Paul J.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Washington, D. C., Dec. 8, 1860, addressed to Gov. Brown of Ga. 7 closely written pages, 4to. $50.00. 1841

Semmes was P. A. for Ga. The present is a most important historical document, giving very extensive details regarding the difficulties he is experiencing in purchasing arms and equipment in the North and the difficulties placed in his way of both securing and shipping them. He gives in very great detail his various plans and reasons for purchasing military equipment and gives comparative prices charged the U. S. and the exorbitant prices asked of Ga. He suggests that Fts. Pulaski, Jackson and Augusta be immediately occupied by state troops simultaneously with secession of the states and that all preliminary preparations should be made.

Sheffield (John, Lord) Observations on the Commerce of the American States, with Appendix of Tables of the Imports and Exports of Great Britain to and from all parts, 1700 to 1783, also, the Exports of America, etc., with remarks on those tables, on the Trade and Navigation of Great Britain, and on the late Proclamations, etc.

The sixth and best edition. 8vo, original boards, with edges entirely uncut. London, 1784. $7.50. 1842

The most valuable contemporary account of Colonial and Early American Commerce throwing much light on Colonial conditions and American commerce immediately following the Revolutionary War.

Sherman (Gen. W. T.) as College President. A collection of letters, documents, and other material chiefly from private sources, relating to the life and activities of Sherman, to the early years of Louisiana State University, and to the stirring conditions existing in the South on the eve of the Civil War, 1859-1861, edited by Walter L. Fleming. Numerous portraits, facsimiles, views. Large 8vo, pp. 379, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Cleveland, 1912. $5.00. 1843

The letters herewith will give a far better understanding of the private thoughts and feelings of the men who afterward bore conspicuous parts in the Civil War than any naked narrative.

Southern Christian Advocate Gazette (Augusta, Ga.) Published by the M. E. church South, edited by E. H. Myers. For January 19, 1865, in fine condition. $2.00. 1844

An exceedingly interesting issue containing account of the church conference at which the resolution was adopted regarding the marriage of slaves and other valuable Civil War material.

Buckner (Gen. S. B.) An exceedingly interesting historical autograph letter signed, dated from office of Illinois Central R. R., New York, March 8, 1861, addressed to Gov. Magoffin of Kentucky. 4 pp., 4to. $25.00. 2837

A most interesting historical document reflecting spirit of times and public sentiment in the North toward the South. In it he states that if the South will avoid an attack on the forts, public feeling in the North will compel Lincoln to keep the peace if the South remains in a defensive attitude, the large majority of Illinois would take up arms against the Republican party if Civil War ensued. "Should the South aggress, it will unite public sentiment in the North and Civil War will ensue. Public sentiment in the North is entirely opposed to coercion."

He refers to Gov. Magoffin's declaration of neutrality and states the Republicans will be swept from power as by a tornado, which will annihilate their party. The letter further refers to Buckner's efforts to secure arms and ammunition for Kentucky, etc.

Born in Kentucky, graduated at West Point, was Adjutant General of Kentucky during the Civil War.

This letter contains considerable material of local historical interest on Kentucky and Illinois.

Beauregard (General G. T.) Original autograph letter signed, 2 pp., 8vo, dated from Charleston, March 14, 1861, addressed to Col. E. Manigault, Chief of Ordnance of Confederate States. $35.00. 3020

An important historical letter regarding the urgent necessity of increased artillery and ammunition to be located before the afternoon of March 15 at Morris Island, Sullivan Island, and Castle Pinkney.

Gen. Beauregard was born at New Orleans, graduated from West Point, served in the Mexican War, resigned from West Point on secession of La. to accept appointment as Brigadier General in the Confederate States army. The preparations urgently called for in this letter were part of his efforts leading to the capture of Fort Sumpter.

——— Another. 3 pp., 8vo, dated Charleston, S. C., Nov. 30, 1863, addressed to Mrs. O. W. Sebert, Mobile, Ala. $35.00. 3021

A most interesting historical document relating to the defense of Charleston in which Beauregard intimates that defeat will probably ensue owing to the lack of ammunition, gunboats, torpedoes, etc., laying blame for lack of supplies to lack of energy and stating "What a glorious result we might yet attain here, but I cannot galvanize the dead." He refers to the defeat at Chattanooga, calls attention to Bragg's bad move in dividing his forces in the face of so powerful a foe, etc.

Myers (J. C.) Sketches on a Tour through the Northern and Eastern States, and Canadas, and Nova Scotia. 12mo, pp. 476, in the original full sheep binding. Privately printed at Harrisonburg (Va.), 1849. $10.00. 3226

An exceedingly rare volume of American Travel, privately printed in a very small edition. It is entirely unknown to the bibliographers, including Sabin and Larned. Only threee copies have occurred for sale in the last ten years, tne last of which sold at auction in New York, for $12.50.

The volume is of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's views of the Institutions, People and Conditions in the Northern States, prior to the Civil War. It contains most interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South—the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.

The volume is particularly valuable on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia.

A remarkably interesting copy containing an extensive presentation inscription by the author to Earl Mansfield. The inscription covers eight lines. Apart from this, the copy is an unusually fine, clean, and tall copy.

Relates to Va., New England, Carolina, Md., R. Is., Pa., N. H.

"It is an immense task to explain the legal history of the different colonies of America. It should be consulted on all such points. The leaves should be turned over,for curious particulars often occur, and the nature of the first settlement and original laws of each colony should be known. The right to tax the colonies became a great point of dispute. Chalmers means to show that the sovereignty of the British Parliament existed over America, because the settlers, though emigrants, were still English subjects and members of the empire."—Prof. Smyth's Lectures on Modern History.

One thousand copies were printed, now out of print and scarce.
This hitherto unpublished MS. was written by a young Englishman of excellent education who assisted Morris Birkbeck in establishing his Illinois settlement. Landing at Baltimore, he reached the West by way of Philadelphia, Pittsburg, and the Ohio River to Cincinnati. He made numerous journeys for new emigrants, into Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky. He never omits the opportunity to make frank and pointed comment on society; manners, and morals as well as careful observations on the face of the country and industrial conditions. His journey gave him unusual opportunities for contact with the pioneers. His journal is rich in personalia of early settlers, state of trade, agriculture, prices, etc. In Kentucky he studies slavery; and finally reached the conclusion that the slave states offered better chances of successful settlement than the free states.

Myers (J. C.) Sketches on a Tour through the Northern and Eastern States, the Canadas, and Nova Scotia. 12mo, pp. 476, in the original full sheep binding. Privately printed at Harrisonburg, (Va.), 1849. $10.00. 3805

An exceedingly rare volume of American Travel, privately printed in a very small edition. It is entirely unknown to the bibliographers, including Sabin and Larned. Only three copies have occurred for sale in the last ten years, the last of which sold at auction in New York, for $12.50.

The volume is of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's views of the Institutions, People and Conditions in the Northern States, prior to the Civil War. It contains most interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South—the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.

The volume is particularly valuable on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia.

Stedman (C.) History of the Origin, Progress, and Termination of the American War. By C. Stedman, who served under Sir W. Howe, Sir H. Clinton, and the Marquis Cornwallis. 2 vols., 8vo, original old mottled calf. Dublin, 1794. $100.00. 3870

An absolutely unique and very interesting copy of this exceedingly scarce and valuable work. It formerly belonged to Sir Charles James Napier, "the Conqueror of Scinde." Both volumes are copiously annotated by him, the notes being remarkably severe on the conduct of the war from the British side. A few specimens will show the nature of the criticisms:

"Served them [the officers of the British army] right. Why did they give a feast to that beast Howe and his brother, after Sir Wm. Howe had covered our army with infamy."

"The Junior Officers of the Army seem to have been as active as our Generals were imbecile."

"A good attack by 30,000 men would have done more good than this verbose composition, this cowardly sniveling (sic) proclamation."

"Cannot men of sense understand that a general [i. e., Cornwallis] may be an idiot, if not, let them read history."

"We seem in this war to have had a bad cause, bad generals, and an admirable army."

"How glorious for Genl. Washington, how infamous for Howe! Infamous Howe! Howe Infamous!"

Napier served in the War against America in 1813. The following note occurs on p. 427, Vol. II: "It [Portsmouth] was attacked by us and we were beaten! 1813 C. J. N., but we ought not to have been beaten, C. J. N."

Featherston (Gen. Winfield S.) Original autograph letter signed, addressed to Gen. C. W. Sears, dated Demopolis, Ala., March 24, 1864. 2 pp., 4to. $15.00. 4048

An interesting letter in which he states "I am decidedly of the opinion for reasons too numerous to mention that this unholy war will end before the close of this year in the acknowledgement of our independence by the Lincoln Government." In spite of this, further on in his letter he states that he has not heard from his family for some time and that "my property I fear is all in Yankee land."

Gen. Featherston was a Mississippian, General Sears to whom the letter was addressed was a West Point graduate and formerly Prof. of Mathematics at Illinois University before his enlistment in the Confederate army.

Laws of State of Mississippi passed at Session of Legislature held in Jackson, Nov. and Dec., 1861, and Jan., 1862. 8vo, pp. 332, sewn. Jackson, 1862. $30.00. 4054

An excessively rare volume, some of the copies were issued without the state constitution, which comprises pp. 17 to 43. The present is one of these copies. Only one copy is known containing the state constitution. The laws are absolutely complete, including both the Index of general and public acts, and the Index of local and private laws, the latter lacking from most known copies.

Exceedingly interesting as showing the most unusual financial measures adopted to finance the war, such as the issuance of treasury notes as advances on cotton, railroad companies permitted to put out notes, special military-taxes, the raising of companies of volunteers, appropriations for same, the equipment of a company known as "Yankee Hunters," the appropriation of supplies, 60-day troops, slave regulations, quartering of soldiers, amendments to the Confederate constitution, etc.

——— passed at a called session of Legislature, Aug., 1864. 8vo, pp. 64. A very fine copy in the original wrappers as issued. Meridian, 1864. $22.50. 4055

A remarkably fine copy of this exceedingly rare document. The present copy is complete with both the table of contents and the index. Contains a large number of special acts relating to the Civil War, exemptions from military duty, empressment of provisions, sale of Confederate bonds, indigent families, public relief, steps to repel invasion, etc.

Pettus (John J., War Gov. of Miss.) Original autograph letter signed; dated Jackson, Jan. 23, 1863, addressed to Joseph E. Brown, Gov. of Ga. 4 pp., closely written, 4to. $25.00. 4063

A most interesting historical document regarding raising money for payment of vessels, etc., for Confederate States; the fact the Confederate states were not recognized by European governments caused capitalists to be unwilling to advance money. Gov. Pettus believes if each state will guarantee the bonds and interest, an amount will be forthcoming. Mississippi had passed an act at one legislature to guarantee $200,000,000 of Confederate Bonds in conjunction with other states, but it was necessary that two legislatures approve it. As immediate action must be taken to establish a navy, Pettus requests Brown to recommend such an act to Ga. legislature. He also assures Brown that Miss. will assume equal responsibility. This letter is also endorsed by T. O. Tupper, Maj. Gen. of Miss. States Troops; and by T. J. Wharton, Attorney-Gen. and member of Miss. State Senate.

Phillips (Ulrich B.) Plantation and Frontier Document: 1649-1863; illustrative of industrial history in colonial and ante-bellum South. With facsimiles. 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1910. $12.50. 4064

New York, n. d. $2.00. 4299

——— The Original Manuscript as dictated by Kit Carson upon which Colonel DeWitt Clinton Peters, U. S. A., founded and wrote "Kit Carson's Wild West; an authentic record of the romantic life and daring exploits of Kit Carson and his companions from his own narratives." Colonely Peters was U. S. A. surgeon and a warm personal friend of Carson's. The notes were dictated by Carson at various dates between 1858 and 1860, at Taos, N. M. It contains many corrections by Colonel Peters in pencil. It is the Manuscript referred to in the printed volume as "The only authentic biography of himself and his travels that has ever been written . . . and for months, during his leisure hours, he was engaged in dictating his life." The manuscript comprises 113 pages, large 4to, and is dated from Fort Union, N. M., May 28, 1868. Price $150.00. 4300
An unusually interesting manuscript, both on account of its historical value, as well as of the character that it covers. It gives a very graphic account of life and adventures on the Southwestern frontiers, and of the daring exploits of the frontiersmen, Indian scouts, etc.
The Manuscript relates to the Southwest, New Mexico, California, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Colorado, the Rocky Mountains, and the various Indian tribes of that region; the hunters and trappers, Indian captivities, the Columbia River, Fremont, etc. A copy of the printed volume accompanies the manuscript.

A very interesting account of travel in New Mexico and northern Mexico.

Gregg (Josiah) Commerce of the Prairies; Journal of a Santa Fe Trader, during eight expeditions across the Great Western Prairies and a residence of nearly nine years in Northern Mexico. Maps, plates, and other illustrations. 2 vols., 12mo, original cloth, entirely uncut edges (most copies had the edges trimmed). New York, 1844. $30.00. 4308

An unusually clean set of the first edition of this rare work.

"The value of Gregg's account of the early trading expeditions over the famous Santa Fe Trail, of pioneer life in the southwest prior to its acquisition by the United States, of the condition of affairs in New Mexico, and of the manners and customs of the aborigines of New Mexico and Texas can scarcely be overestimated. The narrative is interesting, truthful almost beyond criticism, and withal is one of the best contributions to southwestern literature that has ever appeared."—Larned's Guide to American History.

Kino (Father Eusebio F., S.J.) Historical Memoir of Pireria Alta: a contemporary account of the beginnings of California, Sonora and Arizona; by Father Kino, pioneer missionary, explorer, cartographer, and ranchman: 1683-1711. Translated, edited and annotated by Dr. H. E. Bolton, Professor of American History, University of California. With extensive historical introduction, bibliography, analytical index, plates, facsimiles of rare early maps, plans, etc., and a new and carefully prepared folding colored map. 750 sets printed direct from the type and the type distributed. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague hand-made, deckle-edged paper. 2 large vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1919. $12.50. 4316 fine condition, including the very scarce Moll map of the route. 8vo, pp. 512, full calf, newly rebacked. London, 1726. $75.00. 4322

The publication for the first time of Kino's long-lost history is of the utmost historical importance. Its existence contemporaneously is known only by the constant reference thereto in early historical works. This manuscript is the basic source for the history of that period. The Historical Memoir is virtually a history of the entire Southwest and of the Indian tribes for the period covered. It is the source of practically all that has been known and contains much that never has been known before of the Southwest.

An unusually fine, clean, and tall copy of this very rare voyage. Of great interest in regard to the early discoveries on the American continent, including California and New Mexico, West Indies, Central and South America, the American bucaniers, Buenos Aires, Mexico and its mines, the barbarous natives, the South Seas, the cruelty of the Spaniards, etc.

Apart from the importance and accuracy of the descriptions contained in this extended voyage, covering four years, it is of great literary interest as being the original account of Alexander Selkirk's living alone on an isle in the Pacific, upon which Daniel Defoe based his celebrated story of "Robinson Crusoe." Selkirk was found during this voyage on the Isle of Juan Fernandez and was rescued by Captain Rogers, and his story is herein published for the first time.

Bound at end is a contribution entitled "A small treatise against usury."

A fine copy of this extremely rare work. One of the most important and reliable of the source works relating to trade between Great Britain and the American Colonies, including the West Indies, containing much curious information regarding naturalization, taxes, stamp duties, Colonial settlements, the trade to Greenland, East India trade, trade with Chinese, the trade of Surrenham, the trade of Menades or New York, of Virginia, Guiny, Barbadoes, New England, Jamaica, Newfoundland, the competition and difficulties with the Dutch traders, especially on the American tobacco trade, etc.

Many pages are devoted to the American Plantations, in which the author makes many statements of great interest.. ". . . That all Colonies, or Plantations, do endamage their Mother-Kingdoms, of which the trades of such plantations are not confined by severe laws, and good execution of those laws, to the Mother Kingdom." . . "That New England is the most prejudicial Plantation to the Kingdom of England," "New England . . . was originally inhabited . . . by a sort of people called Puritans," etc.

Post; and Journal relative to his thrilling experiences upon the Maumee, 1764, by Captain Thomas Morris, of H.M.'s XVII Regiment of Infantry; edited with notes, introductions, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with portrait of Morris. Large 8vo, pp. 328, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $5.00. 4440

Admirably portrays the history of English relations with the French and Indians upon the western borders during the important epoch of the last French War, and its sequel, Pontiac's Conspiracy. Weiser was the first official of Pennsylvania to penetrate the country beyond the Allegheny Mountains; while his successor, Croghan, summed in his own career the history of the frontier. For fifteen years he was concerned in every important Indian negotiation, and his marked success in terminating the Pontiac War is told in a journal replete with unexpected incidents. The journeys of Post, the Moravian missionary, are referred to by every writer of the period. He kept a daily diary in which he detailed his negotiations with the Indians, and their ultimate success. Morris's Journal would be interesting even if less dramatically told, and its historical value is considerable.

Long (John) Voyages and Travels of an Indian Interpreter and Trader; describing the manners and customs of the North American Indians; with account of the posts situated on the River Saint Laurence, Lake Ontario, etc.; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with facsimile and folding map. Large 8vo, pp. 330, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00. 4528
The value of the journal of Long, Indian interpreter and trader for twenty years in North America, is threefold: first, for its sidelights upon the Canadian campaigns of the American Revolution; second, for information concerning the settlement of the Loyalists in Upper Canada at the close of that war; third, for a most faithful picture of the life and manners of the Indian and Canadian traders, especially in the period of cut-throat competition that ensued before the fur-trade was consolidated and regulated by the great Companies that later controlled it. He also took part in the British expedition that raided Prairie du Chien toward the close of the Revolution.

An exceedingly rare volume of American Travel, privately printed in a very small edition. It is entirely unknown to the bibliographers, including Sabin and Larned. Only three copies have occurred for sale in the last ten years, the last of which sold at auction in New York for $12.50.

The volume is of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's view of the Institutions, People and Conditions in the Northern States, Prior to the Civil War. It contains most interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South - the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.

The volume is particularly valuable on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia.

Bound in 3 runs: in strong half morocco, good condition; in strong half calf, good condition; and in the original half morocco, of which 5 vols. have the joints cracked. New York, 1873-1889. $140.00. 4576

The above set has been collated by first and last number of each volume, and lacks only March 1 to April 30, 1884 (Nos. 3394-3446), otherwise it is believed to be absolutely complete, but not having been collated throughout, it is not sold subject to collation.

The above is a fine set, in good clean condition throughout, of the first American illustrated newspaper, following the style of the Illustrated London News and Graphic. It contains thousands of illustrations, including portraits, cartoons, etc. It is rich in material covering the world's events from 1873 to 1889, and is especially rich in American materal, including the panic of 1873; Sioux War; the various presidential administrations; the Bering Sea controversy; tariff revisions, etc.

——— Daily News from January 1st, 1859, to and including December 31st, 1860. Bound in 4 large and thick vols., folio, strong half buckram. $22.50. 4577

The above run is in good condition except one page has had some items cut out, otherwise it is believed to be perfect. It is not, however, sold subject to collation.

——— Daily Times from January 1st, 1852, to and including August 31, 1854. Bound in 5 large and thick vols., folio, strong half buckram. New York, 1852-4. A very cheap lot. $17.50. 4578

The above run is in good condition throughout. It lacks August, 1852, and five other numbers, otherwise it is believed to be perfect, but is not sold subject to collation.

——— Daily Tribune from January 1st, 1855, to and including December 31st, 1857. 6 large and thick vols., folio, strongly bound in half buckram. New York, 1855-57. $35.00. 4579

The above set is in good and clean condition throughout. It is believed to be perfect, but is not sold subject to collation.

——— Same, from Jan. 1853 to April 1865. 29 large volumes, folio, 18 volumes bound in half leather and 11 volumes in half cloth, covers of one volume broken. $185.00. 4580

An unusually long file of one of the most important newspapers published in the U. S. It covers a most important period in our history. The Civil War years are especially scarce and difficult to find.

The set lacks 1853, January 4, 6 to 23, 25 to February 18, 20 to April 10, July 6. 1854, May 23 to 27, 29, October 27, November 7, 10, 23, 30, December 27 and all of June. Otherwise the set is believed to be perfect but is not sold subject to collation.

——— Eastern Christian Conference; minutes of the 48th session, held at South Westerlo, N. Y., June 7, 1866. 12mo, pp. 24, sewn. Dayton, Ohio, 1866. 75c. 4581

——— Herald; January 31 to October 11, 1847: also, New York Weekly Herald, January 2, 1846, to August 21, 1847. The whole bound in one large and thick volume, folio, strong half buckram. $3.50. 4582

The above volume is not complete, many numbers are missing. It is valuable, however, in completing volumes where numbers are missing and has been marked at a low price on this account. If list of numbers needed to complete volume are sent to us, we shall be glad to check and see if contained in the present volume.

——— Same. A run from May 1, 1862, to August 1, 1867, bound in 7 large and thick volumes, folio, in half leather. $27.50. 4583

The above run lacks 1866 complete; July and August, 1862; June, 1863; November and December, 1864; September to December, 1865; and scattering numbers. A good set for breaking to complete other sets, as many of the months are absolutely complete and the numbers as a rule are in excellent condition. The set is offered at a very low price, and sold not subject to collation.

NEW YORK.

New York Herald from July to December, 1852. 1 large and thick volume, folio, old half calf. New York, 1852. $7.50. 4584

——— Same from May 9 to December 31, 1849. 1 large and thick vol., folio, old half calf. New York, 1849. $10.00. 4585

Believed to be complete but not sold subject to collation.

Contains interesting material relating to the Discovery of gold in California, Free soil convention at Cleveland, Conditions of American Navy, America and the Hungarian war, Riot at the Astor Place Opera House, Steam Marine of the United States, etc.

——— Same from January, 1840, to December, 1880, inclusive. 69 large and thick volumes, folio, strongly and uniformly bound throughout in half buckram. In good condition. New York, 1836-1880. $500.00. 4586

The above run also includes 1836—March 10 to December 30. It lacks 1841, 1846, and 1848. These three years, however, are likely to come into our hands at any time, and if desired by the purchaser of this set, we shall be glad to supply, on a pro rata basis of price, these three volumes later. The above is an exceptionally long run, in unusually good condition, of this, perhaps the most important New York daily newspaper. The set comes from an old library where it was bound up as issued. It is believed to be complete, but has not been carefully collated, so is sold not subject to collation.

Sickles (Gen. D. E.) Three original autograph letters signed, dated New York, Feb. 21, 28, and March 1, 1913, written by Gen. Sickles to his comrade, A. G. Peterson, in all 9 pages closely written, 8vo; the carbon copy of a letter from a friend to Gen. Sickles to John McElrey, Esq., National Tribune, Washington, regarding newspaper articles about Gen. Sickles, 4 pp. single space typewriting; a two-column in memoriam newspaper clipping from the National Tribune regarding Gen. Sickles, together with his picture—in all 5 items. $10.00. 4661

The three autograph letters, of intense human interest, written by General Sickles in his 92nd year, discuss quite frankly his financial straits, the estrangement between him and his fickle wife, her methods of seeking revenge, her "degenerate" son, and the fact that in his declining years his old comrades have deserted him and the newspapers are printing "lies" about him. The typewritten letter gives details regarding Gen. Sickles's affairs and asks the editor to change his attitude.

Gen. Sickles was U. S. Senator from N. Y. and distinguished himself in the battles of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg.

Narrates the details of the first victory, gained over Indian forces by English troops, after the savages had been taught the use of fire-arms. Nearly twenty years elapsed before the whites gained another, during which period they suffered such dreadful defeats in thirteen battles at the hands of the Indians, that the blood thickens with horror at their narration. Col. Bouquet, by his judicious arrangements, first laid down the plan, in following which Gen. Wayne secured the same result.—Field.

Hulbert (Archer B.) Historic Highways of America: or the history of America as portrayed in its highways of war, commerce, and social expansion; illustrated with numerous maps, views, facsimiles, etc. Printed in large type on Dickinson's paper. 1,000 sets made. 16 vols., crown 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1914. $39.00. 6077

The author shows how a road through Cumberland Gap made possible the settlement of Kentucky. Nemacolin's Path across the Alleghenies over which Washington made his terrible night's march from Fort Necessity leads us to a clearer understanding of the first campaign of the war which won America for England. It is of interest to learn that the buffalo originally marked out the routes that are today followed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash, and other great railroads.

The history of these pioneer roads is full of romance. They give us new light on the difficulties encountered by Washington, Braddock, Forbes, Bouquet, Sullivan, Crawford, St. Clair, Lewis, Clark, Wayne, Harrison, and many others. The study of each road, whether of land or water, includes a study of the expansive movement in which it became an important factor.

OREGON

with portraits, views, maps, plans and facsimiles. 8 vols., large and thick 8vo, including the separate atlas, gilt cloth, uncut, gilt tops. New York, 1904-5. $90.00. 6493

Sets of this magnificent and only complete edition are now becoming very scarce and almost unprocurable. It will not be many years, considering the rate of absorption by public and college libraries, before this set is bringing two or three times the present price.

Before this edition was issued, the one edited by Nicholas Biddle, published in 1814, was already accepted by the general public as being the actual journals of the explorers. As a matter of fact, however, Biddle's edition is but an abbreviated paraphrase skillfully constructed, but very far removed from the original journals themselves as written by the explorers, and pays but small attention to the abundant scientific records of the expedition. These latter are of vast importance in the history of American science, for many of the plants and animals seen by the explorers were first recorded by them, and their full notes in the fields of geography, ethnology, and meteorology are also of very great value.

——— Travels to the Source of the Missouri River and across the American Continent to the Pacific Ocean; performed by order of the Government of U. S., 1804-1806. With the large folded map of the route in unusually fine and perfect condition and all of the maps prepared for this edition. 3 vols., octavo, full brown calf. London, 1815. $50.00. 6494

A fine set of the best of the original editions of this important work. A full set, with all the maps in fine condition.

Author's presentation copy.

Oregon Historical Society Quarterly; an absolutely complete set from its beginning March, 1900, to and including March, 1916. Very numerous plates and other illustrations. 16 vols. and 1 part, large 8vo, the set throughout in the original parts as issued and in exceptionally good and clean condition. Portland, 1900-1916. $70.00. 6524

An exceedingly valuable historical periodical, without question the most important publication in regard to Oregon and Pacific Northwest history. Most of the volumes have long been out of print and the set is becoming very scarce and difficult to find, especially complete.

——— Native Son and Historical Magazine: devoted to the history, industries and development of the original Oregon, comprising Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and part of Montana. An absolutely complete set from its beginning in May, 1899, to its termination March 1901. Illustrated with portraits, views, etc. 21 numbers bound in 20, in the original wrappers as issued. Portland, 1899-1901. Very scarce. $55.00. 6525

One of the very rarest of the Oregon historical magazines. Issued in a very limited number, it has become exceedingly scarce. It contains a large amount of important historical material which is not available in an other form. It was the official organ of the Oregon Pioneer Association, Indian War Veterans, and Historical Society.

OREGON.

Oregon Pioneer Association Transactions. An absoluteley complete set from its beginning in 1873 to and including 1915 (the last issued). 41 issues, 8vo, in the original wrappers, a fine clean set throughout. Salem and Portland, 1875-1918. $85.00. 6526

An exceedingly rare set. The earlier issues are practically unobtainable. Includes a large amount of Northwestern Historical Material, Diaries of Oregon Pioneers, accounts of Early Settlers, local historical material, Indian wars of the Northwest, chiefly of Oregon and Washington; etc.

——— Sec'y of State Biennial Report to 20th. Legislative Assembly for 1897-1898; frontispiece. 12mo, pp. 250, morocco. Salem, 1899. $5.00. 6527

——— Statutes of a General Nature passed by Legislative Assembly of Territory of Oregon at Second Session begun and held at Oregon City, December 2, 1850. 8vo, pp. 302, in the original sheep. Oregon City, 1851. $37.50. 6528

The laws and statutes of the Second Oregon Territorial Legislative Assembly are now exceedingly scarce. The present copy bears the autograph of L. F. Grover, 1851. At this time, Mr. Grover was clerk of the Territorial Supreme Court, subsequently he became Governor of the State for two terms, and later U. S. Senator from Oregon.

——— Statutes of Oregon enacted and continued in force by the Legislative Assembly at Session commencing December 5, 1853. Large 8vo, pp. 392, in the original sheep. Oregon, 1854. An unusually good copy of this excessively rare edition. $37.50. 6529

The above is one of the rarest of the Oregon Statutes, of which all but 100 copies were immediately destroyed. The contract for printing this was given to a New York Printer. When completed 100 copies were shipped by caravan across the plains, and the remainder dispatched by steamer via Panama. The steamer sank, and only those shipped overland remained. Many copies have since been destroyed and it is now becoming exceedinly rare.

——— Territory; Hudson Bay Co., and Red River Settlement: a collection of excessively rare papers and documents relative to the Hudson Bay Company's claims and rights to Vancouver's Island and the Red River Settlements, as below. With colored map and numerous wood engravings. 8vo, pp. 164, newly bound in full buckram, leather label and gilt top. London, 1891. $7.50. 6532

This very valuable report has become exceedingly scarce. The committee consisted of Dr. E. B. Tyler, W. Bloxam, Sir Daniel Wilson, Dr. G. M. Dawson, Sir H. Lefroy, and R. G. Haliburton. Perhaps our most valuable scientific report on these tribes, including their curious customs, religion, witchcraft, etc.

Palmer (Joel) Travels over Rocky Mountains to mouth of Columbia River, 1845-1846, with general description of Oregon Territory, Willamette, Umpqua and Clamet Valleys, etc.; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by Reuben G. Thwaites, LL.D. Facsimile. Large 8vo, pp. 312, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Cleveland, 1906. $5.00. 6533

General Palmer was one of the most enterprising and useful pioneers of Oregon. He went over the "Oregon Trail" in 1845, with one of the earliest bands of emigrants; and has given in his work a detailed description of the route, and directions for emigrants and their welfare. He brings vividly to mind the historic value of that memorable rush to Oregon, which secured that region for the United States. The author's ascent of Mount Hood was an intrepid feat, narrated in a simple and effective manner. The work is enlivened with anecdotes of mountaineering life, bear-hunting, fishing, and trapping.

Parker (Samuel) Journal of exploring tour beyond the Rocky Mountains, 1835-7; folding map. 12mo, pp. 372, original cloth. Ithaca, 1838. $5.00. 6534

OREGON.

Ross (Alexander) Fur Hunters of the Far West; Adventures in the Oregon and Rocky Mountains; folding maps, plates, etc. 2 vols., 12mo, newly and handsomely bound in half morocco extra, gilt tops. London, 1855. $35.00. 6546

"The narrations of an intelligent observer of the peculiarities of savage life, always attract an amount of interest, which increases in proportion to the truthfulness of his coloring or shading. In all the qualities which should attract and hold our attention, it is rare to find the superior of Mr. Ross. For fifteen years he traversed the wastes of the Rocky Mountains, and thus became as familiar with every trait of Indian character and phase of savage life, as a white man may ever expect to be. As an Indian trader pushing his commerce among friendly but treacherous tribes, and even among hostile ones who are to be placated by resistless finery, or the equally omnipotent firewater, he was often first white man to burst upon their wild fastnesses. The Appendix, pp. 313 to 333, contains a vocabulary of the Neb Perce language."—Field.

An unusually fine copy.

——— Same. Very choice copy in the original cloth, entirely uncut, in the cleanest condition we have ever seen. $35.00. 6547

——— Red River Settlement: its rise, progress, and present state, with account of native races and its general history; frontispiece. 8vo, pp. 432, cloth, uncut. London, 1856. $20.00. 6548

An exceptionally fine clean uncut copy of this scarce work.

"After many years of toil and adventure among the fierce tribes of the Northern plains of Oregon and Washington Terr., the author sought repose among his associates in the Red River Colony, etc. His pictures are of savage life and manners as seen by the adventurous voyagers and fur traders of the Hudson Bay Co."—Field.

Large folio, original wrappers, entirely uncut. [London, 1848.] $275.00. 6572

An unusually choice copy of this excessively rare work in the original wrappers and entirely uncut. Most copies of the work contain only eighteen plates. The above copy has the twenty plates, and includes the colored map. Captain Warre was in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company and these beautifully colored plates are among the best views of the north-western territory for that period. They comprise views of the American Village, of Fort Vancouver, Indian Tomb, Rocky Mountains, Prairie Fire, Buffalo Hunting, Falls of the Kamanis, Taquoio River, Fort Carry, Source of the Columbia River, the Dalles, Fort George, Cape Disappointment, Valley of the Williamette, Mt. Hood, Fall of Peloos River, etc.

The present copy is an unusually fine one throughout and is uncut.

Wilkes (Charles, U. S. N.) Narrative of U. S. Exploring Expedition, 1838-1842. A complete set with the scarce atlas volume; and all of the numerous engraved plates, woodcuts, etc. 6 large and thick vols., royal 8vo, calf. Phila., 1845. $30.00. 6576

The original and best edition. The only edition which contains all of the plates and engravings and in which the text has not been abridged. Next to the Lewis and Clark Expedition this was the most important expedition ever sent out by the U. S. Government. It relates extensively to the entire Pacific coast, from California to Alaska, especially Oregon, Washington, and British Columbia, to South America, Hawaiian Islands, Samoa, the Philippines, and the various islands of the Pacific. Captain Wilkes during this expediton made the first survey of the Columbia River.

——— Voyage of U. S. Exploring Squadron, 1838-1842, with explorations and discoveries made by D'Urville, Ross and others by John S. Jenkins. 8vo, pp. 517, full morocco. Auburn, 1855. $2.25. 6577

Wyeth (Capt. Nathaniel J.) Correspondence and Journals: record of two expeditions for occupation of Oregon Country, 1831-1836; edited with introduction, notes and index, by F. G. Young: with maps, large 8vo, pp. 282, fine copy in the original wrappers as issued. Eugene, 1899. $6.00. 6585

An unusually fine clean copy of this important work relating to the Pacific Northwest, out of print, and now becoming very scarce. Contains much regarding American fur trade, Columbia River, Bonneville, trading posts, Colonization Societies, Great Salt Lake, Hudson's Bay Company, Dr. John McLoughlin, Thomas Nuttall, Rocky Mountain Fur Company, and the Wyeths—Charles, Jacob, John, Leonard, and Nathaniel.

——— Oregon; or, short history of long journey from Atlantic Ocean to Pacific, by land: also John K. Townsend's Journey across Rocky Mountains, to Columbia River, 1832-1834; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by Reuben G. Thwaites, LL.D.; facsimiles and plates. Large 8vo, pp. 370, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Cleveland, 1905. $5.00. 6586

The expedition of Nathaniel Wyeth to convey a trading company to Oregon in 1832 was second in importance only to the Astorian for that territory. The narrative has much charm and sprightliness, and well and simply portrays the difficulties of the "Overland Trail."

Young (Edward) Special report on Immigration; accompanying information for immigrants relative to the prices and rentals of land, the staple products, facilities of access to market, cost of farm stock, kind of labor in demand in the Western and Southern States, etc. 8vo, pp. 259, cloth. A remarkably interesting copy containing an extensive presentation inscription by the author to Earl Mansfield. The presentation covers eight lines. Apart from this, the copy is an unusually fine, clean, and tall copy. Relates to Va., New England, Carolina, Md., R. I., Pa., N. H., etc.

"It is an immense task to explain the legal history of the different colonies of America. It should be consulted on all such points. The leaves should be turned over, for curious particulars often occur, and the nature of the first settlement and original laws of each colony should be known. The right to tax the colonies became a great point of dispute. Chalmers means to show that the sovereignty of the British Parliament existed over America, because the settlers, though emigrants, were still English subjects and members of the empire."—Prof. Smyth's Lectures on Modern History.

——— [Wollaston (William)] Religion of Nature Delineated. 4to, pp. 220, in the original calf, a tall and clean copy. London, 1725. $10.00. 6783

This edition of this work, the purest and most impressive deistical work ever written, is of great interest to Benjamin Franklin collectors. Benjamin Franklin arrived in London on December 24, 1724, having been sent by Governor Sir William Keith to purchase material with which to set up a printing office in Philadelphia. The Governor abandoned him, and he was forced to secure employment in S. Palmer's printing shop. He was set to work as compositor on this work. These facts related by Franklin in his autobiography. It was the great interest he took in this work, while setting it that led to his rejection of Christianity. Based upon this work he wrote his Dissertation on Liberty and Necessity, Pleasure and Pain, of which 100 copies are supposed to have been printed as a 32-page pamphlet in 1725, but it was suppressed and only two copies are known one being the Huth copy.

Privately issued by the author in an edition of 500 copies only. We have recently purchased from him the entire small remainder consisting of less than 75 copies.

The First Reformed Church of Easton was founded during the earliest period of the settlement at "The Forks of the Delaware" and has been closely identified with the history of that vicinity. Its record books, which possess the rare distinction of being continuous and unbroken for nearly a century and a half, are contemporaneous in their origin with the early beginnings of the settlement, and contain information of greatest value to the many thousands of the descendants of "The First Settlers of the Forks of the Delaware." In this volume are recorded in the neighborhood of 20,000 names representing some 1,300 distinct families from 1760 to 1854. From a genealogical standpoint the publication is an invaluable one, containing information which clears up many an unknown or doubtful family record.

An exceedingly rare volume of American Travel, privately printed in a very small edition. It is entirely unknown to the bibliographers, including Sabin and Larned. Only three copies have occurred for sale in the last ten years, the last of which sold at auction in New York for $12.50.

The volume is of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's view of the Institutions, People and Conditions in the Northern States, Prior to the Civil War. It contains most interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South—the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.
The volume is particularly valuable on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia.

Rev. Porter was one of the early ministers of Western Pa.

Pottsville (Pa.) Evening Chronicle. Complete from its beginning, April 17, 1876, to and including October 16, 1899, bound in 46 large and thick volumes, folio, in half sheep. The bindings are somewhat worn and in some instances the hinges are cracked. $175.00. 7048

The set has been roughly collated and is believed to be perfect except it lacks from October 17, 1878, to April 1, 1879; also from October 17, 1889, to October, 1890, and about 50 scattering numbers. It is not sold subject to collation. This is the first file we have even seen of this paper. It is of great general Pennsylvania interest but being published in the heart of the Molly Maguire region, it is full of authentic information regarding this murderous gang of outlaws, including their trials, conviction and execution. It is also of great interest in regard to the anthracite coal field, labor troubles, and contains much on labor conditions in general.

Pownall (T., late Governor of Massachusetts Bay & South Carolina) Six Remarkable Views in the Provinces of New-York, New-Jersey, and Pennsylvania in North America; sketched on the spot by his Excellency Governor Pownall, painted by Paul Sandby, and engraved by Sandby, Elliot, Benazech, etc. Oblong folio, size 1 ft. 10½ in. x 1 ft. 5 in. London, 1761. $325.00. 7049

A work of great rarity.

An absolutely complete copy of this exceedingly rare work, of which we are only able to find record of one other set as having previously been offered for sale. The above copy contains all the six plates in the original state and in exceptionally fine and clean condition, one of them having been very carefully inlaid. It also contains the original title page. The views included are: A view in Hudson's River of the Entrance of what is called the Topan Sea; a view of the Falls on the Passaick or Second River in the Province of New Jersey; a view in Hudson's River of Pakepsey and the Catts-Kill Mountains; a view of the Great Cohoes Falls on the Mohawk River; a view of Bethlem, the great Moravian Settlement in the Province of Pennslyvania; a Design to represent the beginning and completion of an American Settlement or Farm.

Johnson (Capt. Charles) History of the Pyrates from their first rise and settlement in the Island of Providence, to the present time, with the remarkable actions and adventures of the two female pyrates, Mary Read and Anne Bonny! also, of Captains Martel, Vant, Rackam, Low, Smith, Kidd, Fly, etc., and their several crews; the natural hatred and cruelty of the inhabitants to all whites; their Laws, Manners, Customs, Government and Religion, with appendix of the Tryal and Execution of the Pyrates at Providence, under Governor Rogers. Collected from Journals of Pyrates, brought away by a Person who was taken by, and forced to live with them 12 years. With the scarce maps and plates in perhaps almost unique condition, namely as clean and crisp as when first published. 2 vols., 8vo, paneled calf. London, 1726. $120.00. 7218

A remarkably fine, clean, tall and crisp copy of this most curious and entertaining work. The operations of these various pirates covered the complete Atlantic Coast from Newfoundland to the Northern Shores of Brazil. The volumes are full of curious and quaint information regarding the Natives and their conditions, the dare devil risks assumed by the pirates, their cruelties, captures of prizes, stratagem, etc. The volumes contain much curious early information on Nova Scotia, Maine, the Massachusetts Colony, the Dutch settlements at New York, Delaware, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, the West Indies and Central America.

An exceedingly rare volume of American Travel, privately printed in a very small edition. It is entirely unknown to the bibliographers, including Sabin and Larned. Only three copies have occurred for sale in the last ten years, the last of which sold at auction in New York for $12.50.

The volume is of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's view of the Institutions, People and Conditions in the Northern States, Prior to the Civil War. It contains most interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South—the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.

The volume is particularly valuable on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia.

Catesby (Mark) Natural History of Carolina, Florida and the Bahama Islands, containing the figures of Birds, Beasts, Fishes, Insects, and Plants, particularly the Forest Trees, Shrubs, and other Plants not hitherto described, or very incorrectly figured by Authors; with descriptions in English and French; revised by Edwards. With large colored map and 220 beautifully colored plates. 2 vols., folio, full mottled calf extra. London, 1754. $125.00. 7243

An exceptionally fine and clean copy of the best edition of this excessively rare and most valuable work, with unusually brilliant impressions of the plates. Of this edition Lowndes says, "the plates are colored with superior care."

Catesby, after having lived in Virginia, from 1712 to 1719, studying its natural history, returned to England when he was induced to take another voyage to America, for the express purpose of collecting and describing its natural productions. The fruit of his voyage was this Natural History of Carolina, perhaps the most curious and elegant performance of its kind that has anywhere appeared in Europe.

Drayton (General Thomas F., of S. C.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Columbia, Dec. 3, 1860, addressed to Col. A. R. Lewton of Ga. 4 pp., closely written, 4to. $50.00. 4249

——— Another, signed, dated Charleston, S. C., Dec. 8, 1860, addressed to Gov. W. H. Gist of S. C. 10 pp., 4to. $50.00. 7250

Two exceedingly interesting and very important historical documents. Of very great interest as showing the efforts of the South to secure arms and ammunition preceding the attack on Fort Sumter. The two documents detail at great length that, while the Federal Government did not absolutely prohibit the sale and shipment of arms and munitions to the South, difficulties were placed in the way, many subterfuges were adopted to postpone shipments due, as Drayton states "to the Secretary of War's changeableness and forgetfulness." In one case the price was materially advanced and Drayton himself assumed responsibility for the difference. He details the difficulties of shipment, the attempts to substitute other arms, the attempts to supply arms that required varieties of ammunition and machinery, etc. He also compares the prevailing costs of equipment in the North and England with prices charged S. C. and Ga. Drayton was a graduate of the U. S. M. A., very active in S. C. politics and at the time the war broke out was President of the Charleston and Savannah Railroad.

——— Another, addressed to Gov. Pickens, war governor of S. C., dated from Charleston, S. C., April 18, 1861. $20.00. 7251

An interesting historical document giving detalis in regard to the "Hamilton Guards," an incorporated company of volunteers who were engaged in defense of unprotected seacoasts and islands. Letter is indorsed by Gov. Pickens in which he urges supply of arms to these guards "particularly as the President's proclamation for marque and reprisal will immediately expose all our coasts." A native of S. C. and graduate of West Point. On the outbreak of the War he joined Confederate States. He was in command of the Confederate troops on Hilton Head Island at the time of the Port Royal Expedition in which his brother Percival, was in command of a federal vessel. Letters of General Drayton are very unusual.

[Dunkle (Capt. J. J., of 25th Va.)] A narrative of the Miseries, Sufferings, etc., of 600 Confederate prisoners sent from Ft. Delaware to Morris' Island to be punished; written by Fritz Fuzzlebug, one of their number. 8vo, pp. 48, in the original wrappers. Singers Glen, Va., 1869. $5.00. 7252

An exceedingly rare item of which only a small number were privately printed. Written to refute the idea that Confederate prisoners were not ill-treated in Federal prisons and to show "the suffering and miseries of prison life during the late dreadful struggle for constitutional liberty." Among the names listed is Major Lamar Fontaine of Mississippi, the greatest bragger in the Confederate Army.

England (John, First Bishop of Charleston, S. C.) Works, edited by Archbishop Messmer. Printed in large, clear type, with portraits. 7 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut. Cleveland, 1908. $30.00. 7253

The first publication other than a newspaper describing this historic event—of especial interest as giving a detailed contemporaneous account, of course, exclusively from the Confederate standpoint. It is compiled in great detail from the narratives of Confederate participants and eye-witnesses, when their impressions and memories were fresh and vivid. An excessively rare Confederate item. The only copy we can trace in any of the bibliographies.

Gibbes (Dr. R. W.) Documentary History of the American Revolution; consisting of Letters and Papers relating to the Contest for Liberty chiefly in South Carolina. 1764-82. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth. New York, 1855-57. $8.00. 7259
Composed chiefly of original papers relating to the early period and leading up to the Revolution, some of which have never before been published. The author includes additional valuable material not published in the preceding edition.

Green (Nathaniel) Memoirs of life and campaigns by Chas. Caldwell; portrait and facsimiles of letters. 8vo, pp. 475, newly and handsomely bound by Riviere in half green morocco extra, gilt top. Philadelphia, 1819. $10.00. 7260

Hariot (Thomas) Narrative of the First English Plantation of Virginia, first printed at London in 1588, now reproduced after De Bry's illustrated edition printed at Frankfort in 1590, the illustrations having been designed in Virginia in 1585 by John White. Small 4to, pp. 178, Roxburghe, as new. London, 1893. $3.50. 7265
The above is the beautiful reprint made in London in 1893, which reproduces the many quaint and curious plates, and map. It is entirely out of print and becoming scarce, as only a small number were printed.
It records contemporaneously the history of the first English settlement in the U. S., established by Sir Walter Raleigh, and its failure. Virginia at that time covered all of the country North of Florida and South of Labrador.

Harper (Robert G.) Observations on Dispute between U. S. and France. 8vo, pp. 110, half calf, Roxburghe style, edges entirely uncut. Philadelphia, 1798. $6.00. 7266
A most interesting contemporary volume in which the author, a prominent South Carolina lawyer and congressman, takes the stand that the action of France in regard to neutral vessels was piracy, and that France was the aggressor in the Revolutionary War. For correcting the contemporary views in the South by a well informed American, is of great historical interest. The present copy is a remarkably fine one and entirely uncut.

Higginson (Thos. W.) Army Life in a black regiment. 12mo, pp. 296, cloth. New York, 1896. $1.50. 7267
Records adventures of First S. C. Volunteers, the first slave regiment mustered into service of the U. S. during Civil War.

A very interesting historical document relating to transportation of materials needed in the erection of military prison at Columbia, with extensive endorsements of various officers showing the shortage of supplies in the Confederate States and opposing even small appropriations.

Mackay (Chas.) Life and Liberty in America, or sketches of tour in U. S. and Canada, 1857-8; illustrations. 2 vols., 12mo, cloth. London, 1859. $5.00. 7274
A fine copy of the best edition with the colored plates.
Contains much on Niagara Falls, Mormons, South Carolina, Ga., Va., Md., Slavery, etc.

Magrath (War Gov. A. G., of S. C.) Three original autograph letters signed, dated Executive Dept., Columbia, Jan. 26, 1865, addressed to War Gov. Brown of Ga., and to War Gov. Evans of N. C. 4 pp., 1 p., and 1 p., 4to. The three letters, $50.00. 7275
A most interesting and important series of historical documents on the secret mission of James Tupper, auditor of S. C., to the Governors of Ga., N. C., Ala., Miss., and Fla., relating to the terrible conditions and desolation brought about in S. C. by the invasion of the state in which Gov. Magrath admits the South has become disheartened and lost its impetus and vigor. He advises radical reforms in the administration of the war powers of the government to bring about a common defense; refers to the rights of the southern states to secede, states his views that the war would be a short one, the strong expectations of the South that Europe would intervene and that the Confederate States would be recognized, states the policy of the South has been most unwise both in its appointments and measures of administration, refers to the misconstruction of the motives of South and admits that the South has strayed very far from their great landmarks when the revolution was commenced, urges steps for the restoration of the Constitution of the Confederation, its dignity and efficiency and in general shows the straits to which the South had been reduced by Jan., 1865.

Manigault (Col. Arthur M.) Original autograph letter signed, dated Hdqrs., 10th S. C. Inf., addressed to Edw. Manigault, 2 pp., 4to. $15.00. 7276

[Oglethorpe (James)] New and Accurate Account of the provinces of South Carolina and Georgia: with many curious and useful observations on the Trade, Navigation and Plantations of Great Britain, compared with her most powerful maritime Neighbors. 8vo, pp. 76, newly bound in crushed red morocco extra, paneled gilt sides, and full gilt edges. London, 1733. $35.00. 7289

A remarkably fine, clean, and choice copy of this very rare and curious work. An unusually tall copy (4½x7 13/16) with unusually wide margins. In fact, the tallest copy of the work we have ever seen. Apart from its great interest as one of the earliest and most authentic histories of early South Carolina and Georgia, it is of exceeding interest as an early Colonial item, particularly illuminating as to British Colonial trade and conditions, by General Oglethorpe, the Founder of Georgia. Copies even in poor condition rarely occur for sale. The volume is becoming of great rarity.

Our World: or, the slave-holder's daughter; illustrations. Thick 12mo, pp. 597, cloth. New York, 1855. $2.75. 7290

A very important historical document relating to the necessity of the Confederate Government rendering assistance to the railroads on account of military necessity. At this time Pemberton was in command of the Dept. of S. C., Ga., and Fla. A West Point graduate, but resigned to join C. S. A.

Phillips (Ulrich B.) Plantation and Frontier Documents: 1649-1863; illustrative of industrial history in colonial and ante-bellum South; with facsimiles. 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1910. $12.50. 7292

Pickens (Francis W., War Governor of South Carolina) Six original autograph letters signed—five one-page, 4to, and 1 2-page, 8vo, dated between April and Nov., 1861. Altogether six documents, $30.00. 7293

The above documents are addressed to Col. Manigault, Col. J. J. Lucas and Gen. Saussure, Secy. of the S. C. treasury. They are chiefly orders for the supply to various offices of military equipment, guns, and ammunition, and authorizing payments.

——— Another. 4 pp., 4to, dated from Headquarters, State of South Carolina, July 25, 1861, addressed to Col. Manigault, Chief of Confederate Ordnance Department. $55.00. 7294

A most important historical document relating to artillery furnished by South Carolina, the rifling of many of her larger guns, the arming of the "Aid" in such a manner that she could efficiently attack the Union blockading squadron. Refers to amount of cannon and powder possessed by South Carolina and the amount located at Moultrie and Sumter, powder for Confederate Government for use in Army of Potomac. He refers to the great Confederate victory and regrets that on account of its not being pursued much heavy fighting is ahead. Governor Pickens was one of the most prominent of the Secessionist leaders at the beginning of the War.

Ramsay (David) History of South Carolina from 1670 to 1808; folding map. 2 vols. in 1, 8vo, cloth. Newberry, S. C., 1858. $6.00. 7295

Haywood (John) Civil and Political History of State of Tenn., from Earliest Settlement to 1796, including the Boundaries of the State. 8vo, pp. 504, old calf, newly and neatly rebacked. Knoxville, 1823. $50.00. 7351

Except for the fact that the title page and the margins of the last leaf have been very carefully repaired, the above is an unusually fine copy of this excessively rare work, and considerably less foxed than usual. The story of Indian conflict and massacre is narrated with great detail and minuteness, filling much the larger portion of the work. The story of the formation of the State of Franklin and the civil war which ensued is a chapter of American history but little known, although scarcely exceeded in interest by any other.

Very extensively illustrated with plates and other illustrations. Royal 8vo, pp. 286, newly bound in full buckram, leather label, uncut, gilt tops. Washington, 1896. $5.00. 7392

The origin and primitive meaning of this almost universal, curious and interesting symbol is lost in antiquity. It enters into religious rites and customs throughout the world, and is generally the symbol of good luck. It existed among the American Indians, is found on the earliest American prehistoric remains, in the temples of Central America and Mexico, in South America, and among the religious customs of China, Japan, Korea, Thibet, Persia, and India. It existed strongly among the Pima and Apache Indians of Arizona; is found among Indian remains in Arkansas; in the mounds in Ohio, in Tennessee and Kansas; among the Cliff Dwellers. Among theBuddhists it had high religious significance. In Egypt it was considered the key of life.

Crockett (David, of Tennessee) Narrative of the Life of, written by Himself (a few leaves stained), large 12mo, boards, uncut. London, 1834. $3.00. 7406b

A fine nature, full of grit from boyhood, and as amusing as the best of the professed American humorists. He was engaged in the wars with the Indians, in which he played the man, and tells some shocking tales of barbarity. Every now and then he makes some droll remark about a Senator, Congress-man, or what not. For instance: "'Not worth a notice,' as old Johnson said of the devil."

Crockett: Sketches and Eccentricities of Col. David Crockett, of West Tennessee. 12mo, half calf, uncut. London, 1834. $4.75. 7406c

A rough diamond indeed. This edition is stripped of the expletives which were too frequent in the Colonel's own narrative, although mainly composed from it.

Duval (John C.) Adventures of Big-Foot Wallace the Texas Ranger and Hunter; illustrations. 12mo, pp. 291, boards and cloth. Phila., 1871. Scarce. $4.75. 7410

Big Foot Wallace was perhaps the best known Indian fighter, hunter and ranger in Texas. He participated in almost every fight, foray and scrimmage with the Mexicans and Indians from 1836 to date.

——— Early Times in Texas. 12mo, pp. 254, newly bound by Riviere in half calf extra, gilt top. Austin, 1892. $3.75. 7411

Eickemeyer (Rudolf, author of "Down South," "The Old Farm," "Winter," etc., illustrator of Hamilton W[illegible]t Mabie's "Nature and Culture," and other volumes). An exceedingly interesting o[illegible]nal unpublished manuscript relating to Arizona, Texas and New Mexico; comprisin[illegible] private and descriptive letters dated from El Paso, Texas, and Santa Fe, New Mexico, addressed to Mr. Gorton and describing the country, people, manners, and customs, the natural resources, commercial prospects, etc. The manuscript comprises 272 quarto pages. Bound in half morocco, red edges, dated February 12 to May 15, 1893. $75.00. 7412

We have made careful search of the bibliographies, and also of the author's published works, but do not find that any portion of the manuscript has been published. On account of the author's ability the care with which the letters have been written and their splendid descriptions of existing conditions at the time they were written, this unique volume will become of increasing value and interest as time passes.

Flack (Captain) Hunter's experiences in southern states of America: natural history of various quadrupeds and birds that are objects of chase in those countries. 12mo, pp. 359, cloth. London, 1866. $3.50. 7413

The above is a good copy of the scarce first edition. It is a little spotted as usual, but otherwise in good condition. It contains both of the maps and both of the frontispieces, which are frequently wanting in copies.

——— Another copy in cloth of the first edition, absolutely complete with both maps and both frontispieces, but rather badly spotted throughout, hence offered at a very low price. $15.00. 7419

——— Same, edited by Thwaites; folding maps, plates, etc. 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, gilt top. Cleveland, 1907. $10.00. 7420

"The value of Gregg's account of the early trading expeditions over the famous Santa Fe Trail, of pioneer life in the southwest prior to its acquisition by the United States, of the condition of affairs in New Mexico, and of the manners and customs of the aborigines of New Mexico and Texas can scarcely be overestimated. The narrative is interesting, truthful almost beyond criticism, and withal is one of the best contributions to southwestern literature that has ever appeared."—Larned's Guide to American History.

Virginia; account of their origin, Language, Manners and other Particulars; the Conduct of our Colony Governors, Superintendents, Missionaries, etc.; also Description of the Floridas, and the Mississippi Lands, their Productions, Benefits of colonizing, Georgiana, etc.; folding map. 4to, pp. 464, newly bound in half levant morocco extra, gilt edges. London, 1775. $75.00. 7597

"James Adair resided among the Indians (principally the Chickasaws and Cherokees) from 1735 to 1775, and in the latter year published this work. In this he attempted to trace the descent of the Indians from the Jews, basing his assumption upon supposed resemblances between the customs of the two races. At that time such an hypothesis was regarded as visionary, but the idea has since found many supporters, among them being Boudinot in his "Star of the West."

Alvord (Clarence W.) and Lee Bidgood. The First Explorations of the Trans-Allegheny Region by the Virginians, 1650-1674; maps and facsimiles. 8vo, pp. 275, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Cleveland, 1912. $5.00. 7598

A stirring and graphic account of the war. It covers the most important period of the Civil War and reconstruction.

[Burke (Edmund)] Account of European Settlements in America: Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch, Danish, and English: their extent, climate, productions, trade, genius, and dispositions of their inhabitants, the interests of the several powers of Europe with respect to those settlements; and their political and commercial views with regard to each other; engraved folding maps. 2 vols., 8vo, old calf. London, 1757. Very scarce. $18.00. 7616

Published anonymously, there was much speculation as to its authorship. It has now been established beyond doubt that it was written by the great English statesman—Edward Burke, than whom perhaps no man in Great Britain had more political power or more deeply influenced the American Colonies. It shows a deeper and more far-seeing knowledge of the real conditions in the colonies, their relations with each other and European governments, than any other Pre-Revolutionary work. Contains much of value on Columbus, Mexico, Central America, Panama, Louisiana Territory, the Mississippi, Ohio, Settlements in Canada, Negroes, New England, Colonies, Witchcraft Delusion, Persecution of the Quakers, Ship-building Industry of New England, Indian Traders, William Penn, some curious accounts of the inhabitants and religions of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Lord Baltimore, French Settlements in Carolina, Settlements of Georgia, Hudson Bay Company, Discovery of the North-West Passage, etc.

Burton (R.) The English Empire in America; view of the dominions of the Crown of England in West Indies; namely, New Foundland, New England, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, Carolina, Bermudas, with account of the discovery, situation, product, and other excellencies and rarities of these countries; maps and engravings. 16mo, pp. 192, full calf. London, 1739. $17.50. 7617

An unusually fine, tall and clean copy of this exceedingly rare early American item. Contains an extremely quaint relation of the first discovery of the New World called America, and includes an account of "The Voyages of several Englishmen into America."

Bury (Viscount) Exodus of Western Nations. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth. London, 1865 $4.00. 7618

Cabell (N. F.) A List of Manuscripts Relating to the History of Agriculture in Virginia. 8vo, pp. 20, original wrappers. Richmond, 1913. 50c. 7619

Calhoun (Arthur W.) Social History of the American Family from Colonial Times to the present, with extensive bibliographies and analytical index; handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague hand-made paper. 3 large vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Cleveland, 1917-19. $15.00. 7620

The most valuable history yet published of family institutions in the United States. It deals with marriage customs, controlled fecundity, the status of parents, servants, sexual morality, education, economic and moral conditions, relations to the state, industry, society, courtship and marriage in the various states, the woman question, the new industrial order, negro relations, the old south, etc. Deals with family and social conditions in almost every state of the Union, especially New England, N. Y., N. J., Del., Pa., Ore., and the Southern States.

Case of the Planters of Tobacco in Virginia, as represented by Themselves; Signed by the President of the Council, and Speaker of the House of Burgesses; with a Vindication of the said Representation. 8vo, pp. 64, newly bound in boards. London, 1733. $18.50. 7621

An unusually tall and clean copy of this excessively rare work.

Cavada (Lieut. Col. F. F.) Libby Life, experiences of a Prisoner of War in Richmond, Va., 1863-64; illustrated. 12mo, pp. 221. Phila., 1865. $1.75. 7622

Chalmers (George) Political Annals of the present United Colonies, from their settlement to the peace of 1763; compiled chiefly from records, and authorized often by the insertion of State Papers. Book I (all published). 4to, pp. 703, half calf gilt. London, 1780. Excessively rare. $40.00. 7623

A remarkably interesting copy containing an extensive presentation inscription by the author to Earl Mansfield. The inscription covers eight lines. Apart from this, the copy is an unusually fine, clean, and tall copy. Relates to Va., New England, Carolina, Md., R. I., Pa., N. H., etc.

"It is an immense task to explain the legal history of the different colonies of America. It should be consulted on all such points. The leaves should be turned over, for curious particulars often occur, and the nature of the first settlement and original laws of each colony should be known. The right to tax tne colonies became a great point of dispute. Chalmers means to show that the sovereignty of the British Parliament existed over America, because the settlers, though emigrants, were still English subjects and members of the empire."—Prof. Smyth's Lectures on Modern History.

Chandler (J. A. C.) and Thames (T. B.) Colonial Virginia; portraits and plates. 8vo, pp. 388, cloth, gilt top. Richmond, Va., 1907. $2.50. 7623a

Child (Sir Josiah) A New Discourse of Trade, wherein is recommended several weighty points relating to companies of merchants, acts of navigation, naturalization of strangers, woolen manufactures, nature of plantations, etc. 12mo, pp. 278, calf. London, 1698. Scarce. $21.00. 7625

Bound at end is a contribution entitled "A small treatise against usury."

A fine copy of this extremely rare work. One of the most important and reliable of the source works relating to trade between Great Britain and the American Colonies, including the West Indies, containing much curious information regarding naturalization, taxes, stamp duties, Colonial settlements, the trade to Greenland, East India trade, trade with Chinese, the trade of Surrenham, the trade of Menades or New York, of Virginia, Guiny, Barbadoes, New England, Jamaica, Newfoundland, the competition and difficulties with the Dutch traders, especially on the American tobacco trade, etc.

Many pages are devoted to the American Plantations, in which the author makes many statements of great interest.. ". . . That all Colonies, or Plantations, do endamage their Mother-Kingdoms, of which the trades of such plantations are not confined by severe laws, and good execution of those laws, to the Mother Kingdom." . . "That New England is the most prejudicial Plantation to the Kingdom of England." "New England . . . was originally inhabited . . . by a sort of people called Puritans," etc.

Chilton (Gen. Robert H., of Virginia) Original autograph letter signed, addressed to War Governor Fletcher, dated Alexandria, Va., April 26, 1861. 1 page, 4to. $10.50. 7626

Coke (Capt. John A.) Original autograph letter signed, dated E. O. 3rd Congressional District, Richmond, June 9, 1864, addressed to Capt. Wm. A. Charters, Provost Marshall, Reserve Forces of Va. 2 pp., 4to. $17.50. 7629

An important historical letter relating to the complaints of conscripts detailed in Richmond being arrested by Charters guards and forced into the militia. Charters' authority is challenged. The letter was referred to Gov. Smith of Va., and after various endorsements Coke is advised that every man is needed in emergency. The letter also bears endorsement of the conscription office at Richmond.

——— Original list of men conscripted for light duty in 3rd Congressional District, Va. and transmitted to supply the places of the fit for the field, dated Richmond, June 10, 1864. The list covers 4 pages folio of over 100 names with their present duties. A valuable detailed historical document. $15.00. 7630

Confederate Broadside (Rare) Message from the Army of the Valley of Virginia. An excessively rare broadside dated "Camp of Smith's Brigade, Feb. 10, 1865." A copy of the excessively rare original accompanied by a copy of the facsimile which frequently pasess as the original, but a careful comparison of the two, side by side, shows many small, yet distinct differences. 2 items. $20.00. 7631

The message consists of a series of resolutions on the continuance of the war. One paragraph reads: "That while we will hail with joy the peace which brings to us the recognition of our scorn the arrogant and insolent propositions recently made to our commissioners by Abraham Lin- independence and assigns us our proper place in the family of nations, we cast from us with coln, as representative of the people of the United States, and respectfully urge our government to apply every resource of the country to the vigorous and untiring prosecution of the war as the only means of obtaining an honrable peace."

One thousand copies were printed, now out of print and scarce.

Forsky [?] (James) Original autograph letter signed, addressed to S. R. Brooks and dated from Richmond, Va., June 14, 1861. 4 very closely written pages, 4to. $10.00. 7662
A most interesting historical document evidently written by a banker or man of large commercial interests, it being a full and very detailed report of banking, commercial and general conditions in the South, most bitter in its expressions regarding the North, which he firmly believes will be defeated with an enormous public debt and bankrupt treasury, and no credit, that New York commerce will be a total wreck. He writes most encouragingly of general conditions in the South, states that no Southern companies will pay July dividends to any northern creditors, refers to the grossest of outrages committed by the North, etc.

Fredericksburg (Va.) Christian Banner, June 24, 1862. $1.50. 7663
A rare Confederate paper.

Garland (General Samuel, of Va.) Original autograph letter signed, dated from Manasses Junction, May 25, 1861, addressed to Gov. Letcher of Va. 1 page, 4to. $10.00. 7664

Hills (A. C., Civil War correspondent of N. Y. Evening Post) Original autograph letter signed, addressed to Edmund C. Stedman of the N. Y. World, dated from Camp on James River, Va., July 21, 1862. 4 pp., closely written, 4to. $25.00. 7681

A very important historical document in which Hills gives many historical details and in which he viciously assails the misstatements in the press "the newspapers lie about us like satan. They say we are in excellent health and spirits with plenty of food and full of enthusiasm for McClellan." "It is all a lie as barefaced and absolute a lie as was ever told. This campaign has proved a most absolute and miserable failure."

He refers to the various fights in which the regiment has been engaged, gives details of the discomforts of the newspaper correspondent, "Fair Oaks was a blunder and its advantages thrown away," "we have made a disastrous retreat," "we have been out-generaled and defeated," etc.

——— Another letter, from same to the same, dated from office of Evening Post, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1862. 3 pp., 8vo. $20.00. 7682

An important and rather bitter and pessimistic letter in which Hills confidentially advises Stedman that he fears Washington may fall into the hands of the rebels; he regrets the great humiliation and disgrace that the Federal army is now on the defensive, he lays the blame for the generally unsatisfactory situation to the fact that "it does not seem yet to have penetrated the thick skulls of our prime minister and his Washington associates that this country is really engaged in war." He refers to his mail being intercepted and captured by the Confederates during the retreat from Richmond, etc.

Message from the Army of the Valley of Virginia. An excessively rare broadside dated "Camp of Smith's Brigade, Feb. 10, 1865." A copy of the excessively rare original accompanied by a copy of the facsimile which frequently passes as the original, but a careful comparison of the two, side by side, shows many small, yet distinct differences. 2 items. Very rare. $20.00. 7728

The message consists of a series of resolutions on the continuance of the war. One paragraph reads: "That while we will hail with joy the peace which brings to us the recognition of our independence and assigns us our proper place in the family of nations, we cast from us with scorn the arrogant and insolent propositions recently made to our commissioners by Abraham Lincoln, as representative of the people of the United States, and respectfully urge our government to apply every resource of the country to the vigorous and untiring prosecution of the war as the only means of obtaining an honorable peace."

Sale (Edith T.) Manors of Virginia in Colonial Times, with 67 plates of these fine old Virginia homes, together with portraits and 22 coats of arms. Royal 8vo, pp. 310, in the original cloth, uncut, gilt top. Philadelphia, 1909. $35.00. 7774

Probably the most beautiful and extensive work on colonial homes ever published. It has long been out of print and has become exceedingly scarce. This is only the second copy that has occurred for sale in the past six years.

——— Old Time Belles and Cavaliers. Handsomely printed in large type on thick paper and beautifully illustrated with 61 photogravure portraits and plates of colonial homes, etc., large and thick 8vo, cloth, uncut, almost as new. Philadelphia, 1912. $5.00. 7775

A beautiful as well as valuable work now out of print and becoming rather scarce. One of the most charmingly written works relating to the famous women of Colonial America, including Martha Washington, Mrs. John Jay, Mrs. Alexander Hamilton, Mrs. Benedict Arnold, Dolly Madison, Theodosia Burr, Madam Jerome Bonaparte, etc. Includes views of celebrated country homes, chiefly in Virginia. Only one thousand copies were printed.

Scott (Col. John, of Fauquier, Warrenton, Va.) During the War and after the War. A very fine copy in the original wrappers. Privately printed, Warrenton, Va. [1897]. $9.00. 7776

A unique copy, being the author's presentation copy with autograph inscription to Chief Justice of Supreme Court of U. S., with numerous manuscript corrections and additions throughout. Only 100 copies printed. A very full and exceedingly interesting detailed account of the author's ruse which deceived General Butler and saved Richmond. The manuscript additions in a number of cases are of considerable importance.

Sedgwick (Gen. John) An original Unpublished Manuscript closely written on 13 pages, folio, giving a long and spirited historical account of the movements of the Sixth Army Corps around Fredericksburg, from April 28 to May 5, 1813. The manuscript is entirely in the General's hand-writing and is, in fact, his official report to Brigadier General S. Williams of the Army of the Potomac. It is dated from Headquarters, Sixth Army Corps, May, 1863. $100.00. 7777

The Federal forces were commanded by Hooker and Confederates by Jackson. The manuscript details fully Sedgwick's desperate attack upon the heights of Fredericksburg, together with the terrific slaughter of his troops by the Confederate artillerymen. It also details fully the pursuit of the enemy toward Chancellorsville. The General concludes his report as follows:

"The losses of the Sixth Corps in these operations were 4,925 killed, wounded and missing. We captured from the enemy 5 battle flags, 15 pieces of artillery and 1,400 prisoners including many officers of rank. No material of any kind belonging to the Corps fell into the hands of the enemy except two wagons and a forge that were passing through Fredericksburg at the time of its reoccupation by his forces. The conduct of the troops from the first crossing of the river until our return at Bank's Ford was such as merit my heartiest approbation."

General Sedgwick was born in Connecticut and was a West Point graduate.

Semmes (Raphael) Service afloat, or remarkable career of Confederate Cruisers Sumter and Alabama during war between the states; portraits and colored plates. Large and thick 8vo, pp. 834, half morocco. London, 1887. $8.50. 7778

"The narrations of an intelligent observer of the peculiarities of savage life, always attract an amount of interest, which increases in proportion to the truthfulness of his coloring or shading. In all the qualities which should attract and hold our attention, it is rare to find the superior of Mr. Ross. For fifteen years he traversed the wastes of the Rocky Mountains, and thus became as familiar with every trait of Indian character and phase of savage life, as a white man may ever expect to be. As an Indian trader pushing his commerce among friendly but treacherous tribes, and even among hostile ones who are to be placated by resistless finery, or the equally omnipoent firewater, he was often the first whiteman to burst upon their wild fastnesses. The Appendix, pp. 313 to 333, contains a vocabulary of the Nez Perce language."—Field.

Engraved folding maps. 2 vols., 8vo, old calf. London, 1757. Very scarce. $18.00. 8169

Published anonymously, there was much speculation as ot its authorship. It has now been established beyond doubt that it was written by the great English statesman—Edmund Burke, than whom perhaps no man in Great Britain had more political power or more deeply influenced the American Colonies. It shows a deeper and more far-seeing knowledge of the real conditions in the colonies, their relations with each other and European governments, than any other Pre-Revolutionary work.

Contains much of value on Columbus, Mexico, Central America, Panama, Louisiana Territory, the Mississippi, Ohio, Settlements in Canada, Negroes, New England Colonies, Witchcraft Delusion, Persecution of the Quakers, Ship-building Industry of New England, Indian Traders, William Penn, some curious accounts of the inhabitants and religions of Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Lord Baltimore, French Settlements in Carolina, Settlements of Georgia, Hudson Bay Company, Discovery of the North-West Passage, etc.

New York, 1904-5. $200.00. 8453
The above is one of the handsome large paper editions which were beautifully printed on Van Gelder hand made paper, of which only 200 copies were printed, each numbered. This edition contains the series of plates which were not included in the small paper edition, in addition to which the two large portraits are colored.

Sets of this magnificent and only complete edition are now becoming very scarce and almost unprocurable. It will not be many years, considering the rate of absorption by public and college libraries, before this set is brining two or three times the present price.

Before this edition was issued, the one edited by Nicholas Biddle, published in 1814, was always accepted by the general public as being the actual journals of the explorers. As a matter of fact, however, Biddle's edition is but an abbreviated paraphrase skillfully constructed, but very far removed from the original journals themselves as written by the explorers, and pays but small attention to the abundant scientific records of the expedition.

The bets contemporary history on the American Revolutionary War. While written from the English standpoint by the contemporary English historian, James Murray, the work is unusually impartial and still one of our best authorities, not only on the Revolutionary War but on that period of American unrest and difficulties.

Myers (J. C.) Sketches on a Tour through the Northern and Eastern States, the Canadas, and Nova Scotia. 12mo, pp. 476, in the original full sheep binding. Privately printed at Harrisonburg (Va.), 1849. $10.00. 8613

The volume contains much of historical value on New York, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, New Jersey, Maine, Rhode Island, Canada and Nova Scotia. It is also of peculiar interest as being a Southerner's views on the Institutions, People and conditions in the Northern States, prior to the Civil War; with interesting comparisons between labor conditions in the North and South—the white labor of the factories and the negro of the fields.

Privately printed at Harrisonburg, Virginia, in 1849, it is one of the most interesting accounts of travel in the United States and Canada, of its period. Issued in a very limited edition, it has become exceedingly scarce. It is entirely unknown both to Sabin and Larned. During the past 10 years, only 3 copies are recorded for sale, the last of which sold at auction in New York, in 1915, for $12.50.

The above is a set of the original edition in every way far superior to the cheap reprint which has been made in recent years. The original edition was well printed on thick paper and contains all of the hundreds of maps and illustrations. In the original edition, both the type and illustrations are far superior to the reprint in which the plates have become worn and the impressions very unsatisfactory. The original edition is becoming scarce and beginning to rise in price.

CHIEFLY RELATING TO

HISTORY, TRAVEL, AND ECONOMICS

INCLUDING SOME BOOKS PRIVATELY PRINTED FOR THE AUTHORS AND A FEW IMPORTANT REMAINDERS

The Arthur H. Clark Company
CLEVELAND, U.S.A.

ALL works of quality must bear a price in proportion to the skill, time, expense, and risk attending their invention and manufacture. Those things called dear are when justly estimated the cheapest. They are attended with much less profit to the artist than those things which everybody calls cheap. Beautiful forms and compositions are not made by chance nor can they ever in any material be made at small expense. A composition for cheapness, and not for excellence of workmanship, is the most frequent and certain cause for the rapid decay and entire destruction of arts and manufacture. — Ruskin.

"In harmony with the great value and interest of the book, it has been prepared by the publishers, The Arthur H. Clark Co., in a most attractive manner and provided with many plain and colored plates." – Chicago Tribune.

"The documents have been ably edited and are published in an attractive and enduring volume. Type, paper, and press-work are excellent." – Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"The attractive print, paper, and fine illustrations, partly in color, make a handsome volume" [Merriam's Dawn of the World]. – American Library Association's Booklist.

"Gotten up with the exquisite care which always marks the publications of The Arthur H. Clark Co." – Catholic World.

"The paper, print, and binding are as worthy of the permanent value of their contents, as they are of the reputation of the publishers, The Arthur H. Clark Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, who have had much experience in publishing such valuable works of reference." – The Survey.

"The stately series of reprints [Early Western Travels] octavo in size, and typographically very open and handsome with broad margins." – New York Evening Post.

"These volumes [History of American Industrial Society] are models in paper, print, and binding." – New York Times.

ABEL (ANNIE HELOISE) THE AMERICAN INDIAN AS SLAVEholder and Secessionist: an omitted chapter in the diplomatic history of the Southern Confederacy; with bibliography and analytical index. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, large 8vo, pp. 394, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $5.00 net.

¶ The first of a series of three volumes dealing with the slaveholding Indians as Secessionists, Participants, and Victims of the Civil War. Volumes 2 and 3, to be published later, will be entitled (Vol. II) The Slaveholding Indians as Participants in the Civil War (Vol. III) Indian Territory under Reconstruction. The volumes are sold separately at $5.00 net, or as a set at $12.50 net.

"A brief summary cannot do justice to the care and detail of the investigation. The salient points are the conditions and influences leading up to the treaties of alliance between the Confederacy and the five leading tribes, especially the neglect of the Federal government, and the influence of missionaries, of Indian officials of Southern sympathies, and of agents from Texas and Arkansas; and a careful and thoughtful analysis and discussion of these remarkable treaties, negotiated almost as between equals, and granting the Indians not only relief from the numerous blunders and injustices of the United States, but even a delegate in the Confederate Congress and a pledge of ultimate statehood. The book closes with enlistment of the Indians in the Confederate army, and the hesitating and doubtful refusal of the Federal government to adopt a similar policy with the loyal Indians who had fled to Kansas." — American Historical Review.

"Opens up an altogether neglected field of Civil War history, and proves the importance of the civilized Indian natives as a factor in diplomacy and war. . . The political and social conditions existing in the Indian Territory for some years preceding the outbreak of the Civil War are here for the first time adequately portrayed." — The Dial.

"Written not only with historical accuracy, but interestingly and forcefully. The publishers have given it a most attractive format. . . Its notes are particularly valuable to the student who wishes to pursue any phase of the subject still further." — Boston Evening Transcript.

ALLIOT (DR. HECTOR) BIBLIOGRAPHY OF ARIZONA: BEING THE record of literature collected of Dr. J. A. Munk, and donated by him to the Southwest Museum. With fine portrait and other illustrations. 8vo, pp. 430, cloth. $3.50 net.

¶ A new and greatly enlarged edition of the most complete and extensive bibliography yet compiled on Arizona, arranged by author and subject, and with index. Printed in an edition of 500 copies, each numbered and signed. It is already out of print and becoming scarce. The collection is unquestionably the largest in existence, and contains over 7000 titles.

Privately printed in a limited edition.

ALVORD (CLARENCE W.) THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY IN BRITish Politics: a Study of the Trade, Land Speculation, and Experiments in Imperialism culminating in the American Revolution. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra deckle-edged paper, with specially prepared colored maps and an extensive analytical index, 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $10.00 net.

¶ One of the most important yet revolutionary historical works, published in many years. Historians have assumed that the causes leading to the American

Revolutionary War arose from the controversy with the seaboard colonies over the Stamp Act and tea tax, and that this controversy with the seaboard colonies occupied exclusively the attention of the British ministries. Now it appears that the ebullitions of New York and Boston only intermittently distracted British statesmen from the consideration of the real American problem that was to them of far greater importance — the development and organization of the western empire, which Great Britain had won in the French and Indian War. Actually, the Stamp Act was merely a measure to finance western expansion – the Townshend Act a minister's revolt from the western policy of his colleagues.

Here is told the story of Connecticut projectors intriguing against Pennsylvania projectors and Virginia projectors against both; how the interests in land speculation of such men as Governor Dunmore, Benjamin Franklin, and George Washington were shaping the course of colonial politics, how Samuel Wharton, a wily Philadelphia merchant, was scheming against all and enlisting the cupidity of British politicians and capitalists in support of his schemes until the ministry, honeycombed with his intrigues, narrowly escaped dissolution.

In this historical investigation many points had to be borne in mind: the Indians' rights; the claims of the various colonies to the West; the influence of the great land companies of different colonies; the opposition of the fur-traders to western colonization; the fear of British and American speculators in eastern lands; and the conservation of the imperial interests.

ALVORD (CLARENCE W.) AND LEE BIDGOOD. FIRST EXPLORATIONS of the Trans-Allegheny Region by the Virginians, 1650-1674. With bibliography and analytical index. Printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, with facsimiles and maps, large 8vo, pp. 275, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

An important contribution to the history of early western explorations beyond the Alleghenies, in the Ohio Valley, and extending as far south as Florida. Herein is recorded the hitherto inaccessible original accounts of the first explorers — Englishmen, who were in this region almost as early as the French were on the Mississippi waters. If priority of discovery be the proof of dominion, then the territory in dispute between France and England, culminating in the French and Indian War, belonged by right to the latter; because two years before Joliet and Marquette made their famous journey down the Mississippi River, Thomas Batts and Robert Fallam camped by the side of the New River, a branch of the Great Kanawha.

"This carefully edited collection of original documents relating the adventures and discoveries of the English explorers prominent in the early expeditions to the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys is the first authoritative work on the subject and in view of the facts for the first time presented should prove an important contribution to the history of western exploration." — AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION'S Booklist.

"It is singular enough that two such painstaking historians as Francis Parkman and Justin Winsor should have denied the authenticity of these discoveries; but as the most essential link in the chain of evidence was buried in the Public Record Office in London, there is perhaps some excuse for their mistake. . . Not the least valuable part of the work is the full and scholarly introduction, in which the editors succeed in throwing a very clear light not only upon the lives and achievements of the discoverers, but also upon the circumstances and conditions that impelled them to cross the mountains — the first pathfinders in the restless and resistless movement toward the west." — The Dial.

"There is much of the Hakluyt spirit in the original records given verbatim in this volume, for they were written to narrate great facts, though frequently in the halting phraseology of men who knew better how to act than to think. As authentic sources, that must win wide recognition with all fair lovers of history, the several letters copied in this book will be of great value." — Boston Evening Transcript.

ASHBURN (JOSEPH N.) HISTORY OF THE 86TH REGIMENT Ohio Volunteer Infantry. Portraits and plates, 8vo, pp. 150, cloth. $3.00 net.

¶ Of the above volume 250 copies were privately printed for the author. 4 copies remain for sale. A well and interestingly prepared regimental history, with a complete roster.

AUDUBON (JOHN W.) WESTERN JOURNAL, 1849-1850: record of a trip from New York to Texas, and an overland journey through Mexico and Arizona to the gold-fields of California: with biographical memoir by his daughter, Maria R. Audubon: edited with introduction, notes, and index by Frank Hodder. Printed in Caslon type on Dickinson's paper, with folded map of the route, portrait, and facsimiles of Audubon's drawings, 8vo, pp. 251, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Out of print.

BAKER (ALBERT R., M.D.) COUGHS, COLDS, AND CATARRH: how to avoid. 8vo, cloth. 50 cents net.

¶ The third edition of this popular treatise.

Doctor Baker was professor of diseases of the eye, ear, and throat, in the Cleveland College of Physicians and Surgeons; occulist and aurist to the Cleveland General and St. Alexis Hospitals; ex-president of the American Medical College Association; etc.

BARKER (JOHN M.) COLLEGES IN AMERICA. With introduction by Sylvester F. Scovel. 12mo, pp. 265, cloth. $1.00 net.

¶ We recently purchased the entire small remainder, less than 50 copies.

The author has made an extensive study of American colleges, and in this volume gives the reader a brief survey of their growth, functions and work; The contents are: The Rise of Universities in the Old World; The Planting of Colleges in the New World; Characteristics of the American College; The Functions of the American College; Student Life in College; The Personal Factors in a College Education; The Practical Value of an Education; Our Indebtedness to Colleges.

BELL (GEORGE W.). ABRAHAM LINCOLN, see Lincoln.

BERARD (VICTOR) THE RUSSIAN EMPIRE AND CZARISM. Translated from the French by Davies and Pope. With map, large 8vo, pp. 300, cloth. $2.50 net.

¶ We purchased the few remaining copies of this valuable work.

Among the subjects covered are a history of the building of the empire and the annexation of its various races and their languages; the subjection of neighboring races, religions, and nationalities; Mohammedan influence, German, Polish, Armenian, Prussian, and Austrian influences; the Jews; its internal revolt; religious persecutions; its commerce and industries; its labor difficulties and strikes and how they are handled; its universities; the Russianization of its races; Czardom; etc.

"Sound and accurate. Nowhere in Europe, is there so large a number of men so closely tied together by creed, by historic tradition, and resignation to centralized authority." — London Athenæum.

BLAIR (EMMA HELEN) THE INDIAN TRIBES OF THE UPPER Mississippi Valley and Region of the Great Lakes as described by Nicolas Perrot, French commandant in the Northwest; Bacqueville de la Potherie, French royal commissioner to Canada; Morrell Marston, American army officer; and Thomas Forsyth, United States agent at Fort Armstrong. Translated from the French and edited; with bibliography and index. Printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, with portraits, maps, facsimiles, and views, 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $10.00 net.

The more important of the tribes herein described are: Algonkins; Amikoues; Assiniboins; Chippewas; Crees; Foxes; Hurons; Illinois confederacy; Iowas; Iroquois; Kickapoo; Mascoutens; Menominees; Miamis; Missisakis; Nepissings; Ottawas; Potawatomis; Sauks; Shawnees; Sioux tribes; Winnebagoes; Wyandots.

"Constitutes a general history of the Indian tribes of the Northwest, from their first intercourse with civilization to 1825. It also furnishes much material relating to the early history of the French and British in the Northwest — the fur-traders, coureurs de bois, guides, explorers, etc." — Literary Digest.

"The last work of one who, during her life, had become known as a careful and painstaking student in a limited field of research. Miss Blair has here made available for English readers two important, but little known, French sources of information about the Indians inhabiting the Great Lake region, and besides these, two later accounts of the Sauk and Fox Indians, written by Americans, a biographical sketch of Nicolas Perrot; notes on Indian social organizations and mental and religious life, by modern ethnologists. . . The whole work is provided with long and scholarly notes. . . The two volumes will be regarded by historians as a worthy and fitting monument to the memory of a faithful scholar. The publishers have given the work a beautiful setting through their choice of paper, printing and illustration." — New York Evening Post.

"A comprehensive presentation of first-hand material on Indian religion, folk-lore, organization, social relations, etc., translated with scrupulous fairness." — AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION'S Booklist.

"The creation myths, superstitions, marriage and funeral customs, wars undertaken, tribal relations, religious beliefs and customs, social organization of the Indian tribes, as well as the character of the Indian men and women, are treated with a wealth of detail, and frequently with picturesque setting. . . Of fairly equal value with the memoirs are the valuable gleanings appended in footnotes and appendixes, given with fullness and at the same time with scholarly discrimination." — American Historical Review.

"More learning, industry, and skill than often go to the making of independent works have here been exercised in bringing these component parts together so as to form a connected homogeneous whole and to present the entire subject of the Indian, his character and way of life, in the light of actual observation, past and present, and as it is now interpreted by the masters of scientific method who have made it a life study." — Athenæum.

"The editor has supplied an admirably exhaustive bibliography giving brief descriptive notes of many of the works named." — The Saturday Review, London, England.

"An excellent index completes the book, making it a treasure-house of knowledge." — Athenæum.

BOLTON (HERBERT E.) ATHANASE DE MEZIERES AND THE Louisiana-Texas Frontier, 1768-1780: documents published for the first time, from the original Spanish and French manuscripts, chiefly in the archives of Mexico and Spain; translated into English. Handsomely printed in Caslon type on Mittineague hand-made paper, deckled edges, with large folded map in colors and facsimiles, 2 vols., large 8vo (about 400 pages each), cloth, uncut gilt tops. $10.00 net.

¶ This work is intended as the first of a series of 10 or 12 volumes dealing with Spain in the West, should sufficient support warrant the publication of further volumes. The series will be issued in an edition of 750 sets only, printed direct from type.

The papers of Athanase de Mezieres are of exceptional importance and value regarding the history of the French and Spanish régimes in the great Southwest — during the period of the American Revolution, there is no other single group of documents in existence so important as the De Mezieres papers.

"One cannot speak too highly of the care and scholarship displayed by the editor in his task, and one will await with interest the appearance of succeeding volumes in a series that promises so much for the history of the Southwest." — American Historical Review.

"In his [De Mezieres] papers is to be found more historical information relating to the French and Spanish régimes than has ever before been published in the English language. These two volumes are a substantial contribution to the history of the Southwest." — American Review of Reviews.

"To Professor Bolton, whose untiring and exhaustive researches in the archives of Spain and Mexico for the material of these volumes, too much credit cannot be given for bringing to light a great deal of information concerning the Southwest. His long and scholarly introduction to the volumes interprets with masterly skill Southwestern Indian history and the Spanish policy." — Boston Evening Transcript.

"Professor Bolton is the leading authority to-day on the history of the Spanish Southwest. These two handsomely printed volumes afford us a great insight into the history of what are now Texas, western Louisiana, Arkansas, and Oklahoma.

"These documents tell us a great deal about certain unknown phases of our history, namely, the encroachments of American frontiersmen upon Spanish Territory; the lively trade in captives conducted between the French of Louisiana and the Indians of Texas; the trade between the same parties in horses and mules stolen by the Indians from the Spanish settlements; the life of the outlaws of Oklahoma and Arkansas; the fur trade of the Southwest conducted from Natchitoches to the Arkansas post among the tribes of the Red River Valley; the annual wood-cutting and cattle killing on the Guadalupe River and beyond by the residents of San Antonio." — Catholic World.

BOONE'S WILDERNESS ROAD; by Archer B. Hulbert. Printed in large type on Dickinson's paper, with frontispiece and maps, crown 8vo, pp. 207, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $2.50 net.

This roadway, the Wilderness Road to Kentucky from Virginia and Tennessee, was the longest, blackest, hardest road of pioneer days in America. The romance and discoveries of Walker, and Gist, and Boone, and the great social movement which was the marvel of the eighteenth century and resulted in the making of Kentucky, centers naturally around the study of the Wilderness Road marked out by Daniel Boone through Cumberland Gap.

"Mr. Hulbert makes his description of this ancient road the occasion for telling the story of the brave deeds, the privations, and the far-sighted patriotism of the pioneers who made it illustrious. What went on along this road and in the settlements to which it led makes a striking chapter of American history."
— The Living Age.

"As a study of pioneer traveling in general, and the first settlement of the West in particular, it will be found of the utmost interest."
— Portland Evening Telegram.

BOURNE (EDWARD G.) THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, THEIR DISCOVERY, CONQUEST, AND EARLY HISTORY. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with portraits, folded colored map, and numerous plates and facsimiles, large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Out of print.

¶ 500 copies printed direct from type. Published at $1.25 net. It is now very scarce. Copies rarely occur for sale and when they do sell for $5.00 to $7.00.

BRACKENRIDGE (H. M.) VOYAGE UP THE MISSOURI RIVER, 1811: also Gabriel Franchère's Voyage to the northwest coast of America, 1811-1814, or the First American Settlement on the Pacific; translated by J. V. Huntington, and edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's paper, with facsimiles and views, large 8vo, pp. 410, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

"Brackenridge was very observing. . . His journal is among our most reliable early authorities." — CHITTENDEN, American Fur Trade.

"His descriptions of the Indians, and of such scenery as he could see from the banks of the river are given with animation and will repay for the trouble of perusal." — North American Review.

"Franchère, a young French Canadian, was employed in 1810 by John Jacob Astor to help in founding Astoria. His modest little book was quoted from by Senator Benton in the boundary dispute of 1846, and was liberally drawn upon by Washington Irving. Franchère's Narrative of the famous and unfortunate voyage of the Tonquin, on which vessel he was one of the clerks, should always be read in connection with Irving's more brilliant but less accurate Astoria. There is an abiding literary charm about the story. — LARNED'S Guide to American History.

BRADBURY (JOHN) TRAVELS IN THE INTERIOR OF AMERICA, 1809-1811; including description of Upper Louisiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, the Illinois, and Western Territories; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with folding map and facsimile, large 8vo, pp. 320, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

"Bradbury was a remarkable man — one has only to read the journal of his voyage [with the Astorians] up the Missouri in 1811 to see that. His devotion to his pursuits was the wonder of all who observed them. There was no hardship too severe for him to undergo. . . His well known book, Travels in the Interior of America, is one of the most useful works of this period, and one which the careful student of history never fails to consult. It is the best existing authority on many points, and on some the only one." — CHITTENDEN'S American Fur Trade.

"A work of primary importance, and quoted as an authority by modern writers." — THOMSON'S Bibliography of Ohio.

"Of considerable value, not only for the spirit in which it is couched, but for the light which it sheds upon conditions at the close of the War of 1812." — Chicago Evening Post.

BRADDOCK'S ROAD AND THREE RELATIVE PAPERS; by Archer B. Hulbert. Printed in large type on Dickinson's hand-made paper, with maps, plans, and views, crown 8vo, pp. 213, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $2.50 net.

The hewing of Braddock's Road from the Potomac to the Monongahela was the first great step of material progress made in the West. Of even greater interest is the story of the half-century succeeding, in which Braddock's Road was the only highway into the upper Ohio Valley — the most important thoroughfare into the West. Material has been gathered both in this country and in England.

"The book is well supplied with maps and illustrations of parts of the road as it appears to-day. It is intensely interesting and is heartily recommended to all who are interested in colonial history." — New York Athletic Club Journal.

"Mr. Hulbert has gathered a wealth of information from every available source, both in this country and in England, and the results of his painstaking labor will stand as an enduring monument to his research and love of his subject." — Chicago Evening Post.

BRAINERD (HENRY C., M.D.) THE OLD FAMILY DOCTOR. Handsomely printed on Alexandra deckle-edged paper, with reproduction of Luke Fildes's famous painting, 12mo, pp. 117, cloth, gilt top. $1.00 net.

Humorous and pathetic experiences of an old country doctor in the fulfilment of his efforts to help the sorrowing, unfortunate, and needy.

"Stories which illustrate the light and shade of a doctor's life." — The Living Age.

"Some very pleasant, realistic sketches of a country practitioner's life." — New York Sun.

"A most delightful little book." — Pittsburg Christian Advocate.

BRUSH (EDWARD H.) THE IROQUOIS, PAST AND PRESENT; including sketches of Red Jacket, Cornplanter, and Mary Jemison, by E. D. Strickland. Numerous portraits of old Indian chiefs, views of stockades, reservation cabins, mission houses, etc., 8vo, pp. 96, original wrappers. Privately printed by the author, without place of publication or date. $1.25 net.

¶ Contents: A Seneca Village two centuries and a quarter ago; the Iroquois of the present; religious ceremonials of the Iroquois; New Year's festival or dance; burning of the White Dog; folklore and beliefs; Buffalo in early days, etc. A valuable little volume on Indian folklore, customs, ceremonies, etc. Only a few copies privately printed by the author, from whom we purchased the remaining copies.

BRYANT (ADJT. E. E.) HISTORY OF THE THIRD WISCONSIN Veteran Volunteer Infantry, 1861-1865; with eight large folding maps and plans, and numerous portraits, 8vo, pp. 464, cloth. $1.50 net.

¶ Privately published by the author, in a small edition, at $5.00 net per copy. Three copies remain for sale.

The regiment served throughout the entire war. It is replete with historical facts and descriptions of the important events of the war, accounts of the various skirmishes and battles including Bolivar, Harper's Ferry, the valley of the Shenandoah, Winchester, Cedar Mountain, Chancellorsville, Beverly Ford, Gettysburg, etc. Valuable as the viewpoint of a soldier engaged actively in the war from its beginning to end.

BULLOCK (W.) WESTERN STATES, see Gregg, Josiah.

BUTTERFIELD (C. W.) WASHINGTON-IRVINE CORRESPONDence: official letters which passed between George Washington and Brigadier-General William Irvine, between Irvine and others concerning military affairs in the West, 1781-1783. Arranged and annotated with introduction containing outline of events occurring previously in Trans-Allegheny country. Engraved portraits and maps, 8vo, pp. 436, cloth. $3.50 net.

¶ An exceedingly valuable volume throwing much important inside light on the most important events transpiring in the West during the last years of the struggle for independence. At the time, Irvine was in command of the Western Department at Fort Pitt. Presenting the original documentary material, it refutes many accepted erroneous statements in various histories of the period. The volume covers the War on the Western Border of Pennsylvania and Virginia, in Ohio, the Expedition against Detroit, and the progress of the Western Border Wars from 1779-1781. It includes much regarding Col. William Crawford, Col. De Pyster, Dunmore's War, the border forts, the border tribes, the expedition against Sandusky, also much material regarding George Washington not otherwise printed, etc.

Printed for the author at Madison in 1882, it has long been scarce. We recently secured a small remainder from one of the family, of which 7 copies remain for sale.

BUTTRICK (TILLY, JR.) VOYAGES AND DISCOVERIES, 1812-1819; also Estwick Evans's pedestrious tour of four thousand miles, through the Western States and Territories, 1818; edited with notes, introductions, etc., by R. G. Thwaites; printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with portrait and facsimiles, large 8vo, pp. 364, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

"A very interesting narrative, and but little known. Buttrick . . . was traveling through Canada on his way to Detroit when the War of 1812 commenced. Held a prisoner on parole for seventeen days, he was finally allowed by General Brock to cross the line, but did not reach Detroit. In July, 1814, in company with four others, he passed down the Allegheny to within thirty miles of Pittsburgh, in a canoe, the fourth night they slept at the house of a mighty Nimrod, whose twenty or thirty hounds ate up the provisions for the trip. This trip extended to Louisville and Cincinnati. In 1815, he embarked again at Olean, this time on a flat boat. There started at the same time no less than 1200 people, emigrants, mostly from the State of Maine. His trip on this occasion extended to New Orleans. This terrible journey from New Orleans through the Indian country to Cincinnati he performed entirely on foot, generally alone, always sick, often hungry, and sometimes nearly starved."

— THOMSON, Bibliography of Ohio.

Evans was a man of culture, and somewhat of a philosopher. He thus describes his object in undertaking his journey: I wished to acquire the simplicity, native feelings, and virtues of savage life; to divest myself of the factitious habits, prejudices and imperfections of civilization; to become a citizen of the world; and to find amidst the solitude and grandeur of the western wilds more correct views of human nature and of the true interests of man." These views do not deter the author, however, from making shrewd and practical observations on the regions through which he passed — along the shore of Lake Erie to Detroit, and down the Ohio and Mississippi to the Gulf.

"Both give vivid and truthful pictures of the regions which they visited and which they traversed painfully on foot or by primitive conveyances; and both of their narratives add to the reader's knowledge of the conditions out of which the great, bustling, prosperous middle West has emerged." — The Living Age.

"Both of the narratives seem wisely chosen, as well because of their rarity as their real worth." — The Independent.

CISCO (JAY GUY) HISTORIC SUMNER COUNTY, TENNESSEE: with Genealogies of the Bledsoe, Cage and Douglass Families, and genealogical notes of other Sumner County Families. Portraits, plates and illustrations, 8vo, pp. 331, cloth. $2.00 net.

The above is a volume of real historic value, prepared by a man who made a life-long study of the county, and not one of the cheap subscription biographical county histories. It deals with the earliest explorations, the first settlement of the county, its forts and stations, the early emigrants, its territorial laws, early land owners, its part in the Civil War, and authentic genealogies of the prominent early families, together with many portraits and views of early homes and historic places.

CLARKE (S. A.) PIONEER DAYS OF OREGON HISTORY. With numerous portraits and plates, 2 vols., 8vo, cloth. $5.00 net.

¶ Published by the author, who died leaving a few unsold sets.

The most interesting period of Oregon history is that of the Provisional Government, when the pioneers, having in vain appealed to the general government to recognize Oregon as part of the national domain, met and organized a Provisional Government, and under it not only enacted their necessary laws, but waged war against hostile Indians, etc. The present work is an important and interesting contribution to that period.

"The story of the growth of Oregon from the earliest days of discovery and exploration to the establishment of a territorial government, in an original and unconventional way, preserving chronological unity, but expanding the narrative by the inclusion of a mass of material not commonly found in historical works — reminiscences of missionary, fur-trader, trapper, and mountaineer, descriptions of Indian life and characteristics, Indian folk-lore, episodes of early settlement, etc." — The Outlook.

COLUMBUS (CHRISTOPHER) HIS LIFE, WORK, AND REMAINS, from original printed and manuscript records, together with an essay on Peter Martyr and Las Casas, the first historians of America, by John Boyd Thacher. Handsomely printed in large type, in a limited edition, and exhaustively illustrated with 300 beautifully executed plates, portraits, reproductions in facsimile of manuscripts and early views, and maps; and extensive analytical index, 3 large and thick volumes, royal 8vo, bound in full buckram gilt, uncut, gilt tops. Published at $27.00 strictly net per set. Offered at $18.00 net.

¶ The most extensive and important work ever published in English on Christopher Columbus, the discovery of America, and the earliest voyages thereto. The author's library of books and manuscripts on this subject was the most extensive ever gathered together. The set presents much hitherto inaccessible historical material taken from the original manuscripts, unique or excessively rare originals, much of which is translated for the first time from the Latin, Spanish, and Italian. Mr. Thacher presents for the first time facsimiles of many of these great rarities as well as of the early cartography. The extensive chapters, covering about 100 pages each on Peter Martyr and Las Casas, are unquestionably our best monographs on these two great early historians of America.

Mr. Thacher's purpose was to make available for libraries and students in the U.S. the original source material upon which the history of the discovery of America and the earlier history thereof is based. His volumes for this very early period rank with Winsor's "Narrative and Critical History."

"The most voluminous and sumptuous work on Columbus ever published in the U.S. Mr. Thacher has rendered to American students a great service."
— American Historical Review.

"Mr. Thacher's work brings within the range of libraries considerable material not accessible. . . An immense storehouse of material and a distinct addition to the literature of American history." — The Dial.

"The most important feature of Mr. Thacher's volumes is their facsimiles of early publications and manuscripts. Some of these had not before been reproduced, and most are nowhere else so readily accessible. All interested are under an inestimable debt of gratitude to Mr. Thacher for making these priceless treasures available." — New York Evening Post.

CREAGER (CHAS. E.) FOURTEENTH OHIO NATIONAL GUARD — Fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry: complete record of this organization from its foundation to present day. With full account of strike, riot, and complimentary duty, and campaign in Spanish-American War; etc. Complete roster of members at time of muster out of U.S. Service. Very numerous portraits, plates and plans, 8vo, pp. 330, cloth. $2.50 net.

¶ Privately printed for the author in a limited edition. A few copies only remain for sale. Covers the early history of the Company, its services in the Civil War, in labor difficulties, in Perry and Hocking Counties, at Gettysburg, in the Spanish-American War, its extensive services in Cuba, etc.

CROWN COLLECTION OF PHOTOGRAPHS OF AMERICAN MAPS: a collection of 250 Original Photographs, of maps important historically yet hitherto unpublished, contained in the British Museum and other foreign archives; selected and edited by Archer B. Hulbert. Each photograph was made direct from the original negative by a process which will never fade, and carefully mounted on special cards with full text; the preliminary text beautifully printed in Caslon type on Strathmore deckle-edged paper, 5 large volumes, Atlas 4to, strongly bound in three-quarters calf extra, uncut, gilt tops, each plate inserted on linen guards. [An index volume accompanies the set, 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt top.] Out of print.

¶ Twenty-five sets only issued, all of which have been permanently placed in the larger reference libraries here and abroad.

CUBA: STATISTICAL YEAR BOOK OF THE REPUBLIC: ANUARIO Estadistico de la Republica de Cuba, formado principalmente con datos facilitados por las oficinas del gobierno o contenidos en publicaciones oficiales, prepared under the directorship of Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Speaker of the House of Representatives and professor in the University of Havana, and edited by Luis Marino Perez, editor-in-chief, and Jorge le Roy y Cassa, Antonio J. de Arazoza, Jose Perez Arocha, and Fernando Ortiz. Royal 8vo, pp. 192, original wrappers. Havana and Cleveland, 1915. $1.50 net.

¶ The only reliable and statistical work dealing with Cuba, covering climate, population, immigration and emigration, births and deaths, marriages, cost of living, real estate, agriculture, sugar, tobacco, stock raising, mining, commerce, navigation, public expenditure and revenue, public debt, crimes, education, philanthropy, railroads, postal system, etc.

CUMBERLAND ROAD (THE); OUR FIRST NATIONAL ROAD; by Archer B. Hulbert. Printed in large type on Dickinson's paper, with views and maps, crown 8vo, pp. 207, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $2.50 net.

The Cumberland Road, built at last upon the ruins of both Washington's and Braddock's Roads from the Potomac River through classic Great Meadows to the Ohio River (1806-1850) is the most historic road used to-day in America. Perhaps no one road has played such an important part in our national history. It carried thousands of population and millions of wealth into the West and, more than any other material structure in the land, served to harmonize and strengthen, if not save, the Union.

"Not only is there a full account of the building, operation, and control of the road, but also an interesting report of the stage-coaches, freighters, and mails which passed that way in the early times. There are also descriptions of the taverns and tavern life." — Chicago Chronicle.

"As the old Roman roads were both a mark and a measure of the development and extent of the civilization of the Empire, so the roads of any people play an important part in its history. This recondite fact lends both interest and importance." — Literary World.

CUMING (FORTESCUE) TOUR TO THE WESTERN COUNTRY, through Ohio and Kentucky, a voyage down the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers and a trip through the Mississippi Territory and part of West Florida, 1807-1809; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with facsimile, large 8vo, pp. 378, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

In addition to careful observation and judicious reports, the work is valuable because of the pioneers whom Cuming meets and describes; also the participants in Burr's Conspiracy, and the attitude of the Western people thereto.

"This is one of the most interesting works relating to the West. . . The journey from Philadelphia to St. Clairsville, Ohio, and back to Pittsburgh was performed entirely on foot. The author gives a minute description of the towns and localities through which he passed." — THOMSON'S Bibliography of Ohio.

"Cuming was an alert observer and he was endowed with that sense of proportion in which many travellers are lamentably deficient. He does not weary his readers with unimportant personal details, but he gives them vivid pictures of the regions through which he passed and the social and industrial conditions of the population. The narrative is of historical value as well as of engaging interest." — The Living Age.

CUSHMAN (H. B.) HISTORY OF THE CHOCTAW, CHICKASAW, and Natches Indians; with a glossary of North American Indian names. 8vo, pp. 608, cloth. $3.00 net.

¶ Only a small number privately printed for the author. We purchased the remaining copies, of which 6 remain for sale.

The volume is unquestionably the most extensive and valuable historical work yet prepared on these tribes, in spite of the fact that the author has injected some material of little value. A volume containing much important historical material relating to the Great South-west, to Missouri, Mississippi, and other western states. It also contains an extensive chapter on the Mound Builders.

DAMPIER (CAPT. WILLIAM) VOYAGES; CONSISTING OF A NEW Voyage round the world, a supplement to the voyage round the world, two voyages to Campeachy, a discourse of winds, a voyage to New Holland, and a vindication, in answer to the chimerical relation of William Funnell; edited, and with life of Dampier, by John Masefield. Printed in large type by Ballantyne, with portrait, folded maps, and plates, 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $7.50 net.

¶ An excellent unabridged edition of one of the most valuable works of travel. Dampier covered practically the whole of the then known world (1697-1707).

In his writings curious and interesting matter will be found relating to Brazil, California, China, Cuba, the Indians, Jamaica, Japan, Mexico, Panama, Philippines, Malaysia, etc.

"John Masefield has done a good piece of work in preparing this edition. . . Through his crowded and active career, through all privations and perils, he (Dampier) doggedly kept a journal which he worked over into the volumes enumerated in the title. How he found time, energy, or inclination, surrounded as he was by pirates, logwood-cutters, and carousing and ignorant sailors, to note with such care the appearance and habits of every plant, fish, bird, or beast that he saw, and to chronicle the traits of the painted savages and the yet more savage Englishmen of his crews — is the mystery." — New York Evening Post.

"Full of popular interest and romance. Far more stirring reading than many a belauded work of modern fiction. There is material here among which contemporary romance-makers might delve profitably for years to come."

— Athenæum.

DAY (L. W.) STORY OF THE ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST OHIO Infantry. With numerous portraits and some views, 8vo, pp. 464, cloth. $1.00 net.

¶ A privately printed regimental history, now out of print except for 6 copies. The volume includes a complete roster, which has been unusually well prepared for details. Covers the services of the regiment in Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, and Tennessee. It also contains five exceedingly interesting chapters covering prison experiences of members of the regiment.

DE SMET (PERE P. J., S. J.) MISSIONS DE L'OREGON ET VOYages aux Montagnes-Rocheuses, aux sources de la Columbie, de l'Athabasca et du Sascatshawin, 1845-46. With absolutely clean and brilliant impressions of the 16 engraved plates and 3 maps, 12mo, pp. 390, in the original wrappers. $15.00 net.

¶ This is a copy of the genuine original first edition of this valuable work, published at Gaud in 1848. The volume has been exceedingly scarce and has been bringing from $30 to $35. Recently there was found in Paris a small remainder of 26 copies, which had been tied up and were in almost as fresh condition as when issued. We are offering these at about half the price at which the volume has been selling. 7 copies remain for sale.

DICKERSON (OLIVER MORTON) AMERICAN COLONIAL GOVernment, 1696-1765: A Study of the British Board of Trade in its relation to the American Colonies, political, industrial, administrative; with bibliography, analytical index and facsimiles of manuscripts. Printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, large 8vo, pp. 390, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Price $4.00 net.

The first adequate attempt to lay bare the workings of the British colonial office during the most important period of our colonial life.

"The first adequate discussion of the subject and one of the best treatises covering a much neglected period in our colonial history." — The Nation.

"Handled with skill and scholarly acumen." — American Economic Review.

"It is hardly too much to say that an understanding of the important preliminaries of the American Revolution is not possible without an understanding of the vital phase of it, which Dr. Dickerson has presented in this volume."

— Catholic World.

"Mr. Dickerson's volume enables one to understand the colonial administration of the eighteenth century in a manner which was in the past impossible. . . The chapter on the treatment of colonial legislation by the home authorities seems largely to break new ground." — English Historical Review.

"The appearance of Dr. Dickerson's account of the organization, functions, and work of the Board of Trade has brought to an end a period of waiting for a work that has been conspicuously and urgently needed. . . To understand at least three-quarters of the incidents and happenings of colonial history demands that we view them from the standpoint of Great Britain. . . Dr. Dickerson has presented his subject in all its aspects, dealing with the organization and personnel of the board, its relation to other departments of administration, the difficulties it encountered in administering colonial affairs, the features of its imperialistic policy, its treatment of colonial legislation, and its policy toward boundaries, trade, defense, and Indian affairs. His range is wide and his survey is practically complete. . . His attitude is that of a careful and cautious scholar, his judgment on men and affairs is sound, and his insight into the nature and tendencies of colonial control in England is in the main clear and true. . .

"Throws light into places hitherto dark, and gives life and reality to an institution that has never had in the past much meaning to students of our history." — American Historical Review.

"A good deal of light is shed on the power of the United States Supreme Court to declare laws unconstitutional and the inference is quite plain that the members of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 were guided by precedent and created very little entirely new in drafting the Constitution."

DOCUMENTARY HISTORY OF AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL SOCIETY [1649-1880]; edited by Professors John R. Commons, Ulrich B. Phillips, Eugene A. Gilmore, Helen L. Sumner, and John B. Andrews; with preface by Dr. Richard T. Ely, and introduction by Dr. John B. Clark. Prepared under the auspices of the American Bureau of Industrial Research, with the cooperation of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made deckle-edged paper, with numerous portraits of men prominent in labor movements, facsimiles, and other illustrations. 11 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $50.00 net.

¶ Printed direct from type, and the type already distributed, in an edition of 1000 sets. It will never be reprinted.

This set should be in every public and private library where intelligent thought or discussion is given to present day commercial, labor, and social problems.

While our political history has already been covered in many volumes, this is the only work adequately presenting our labor, industrial, and sociological history from the earliest to the present times.

The analytical index, giving a careful synopsis and classification by subjects, gives quick and full access to the most authoritative and reliable data on all matters pertaining to our social and industrial history.

"An indispensable tool in interpreting past events and solving the urgent questions of to-day essential to all libraries."

—AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION'S Booklist.

"To understand the background of the reform policies of Roosevelt, the labor movement, the land policy, and, in general, the trend of American democracy, this work has a special value. . . One of the serious gaps in American historical writing has been that of accounts of the social thought of the country." — FREDERICK J. TURNER, Professor of American History, Harvard University.

"In no country is the labor problem more complex or varied than in the United States. Sectional divisions, race divisions, protective tariffs, immigration, and the most extreme vacillations of prosperity and depression have contributed to the result as we find it . . . we have had no patient, calm, authoritative historical view of the movement of American laboring life yet given us." — The Commons.

"The work, as a whole, is perhaps the most comprehensive non-official compilation of sources upon any one aspect of our economic history that has so far been issued. The ten volumes will be indispensable to the future investigator of our industrial conditions." — New York Evening Post.

"For the first time American readers have placed before them everything concerning industrial conditions, labor unions, strikes, wages, and other points of interest in our industrial history. . . The connection of Professors Ely and Commons with the work insures that it will be done without bias."

— The Amalgamated Journal.

"The series will be recognized everywhere as one of the most remarkable products of American scholarly research. The hopes aroused by the first announcements are more than fulfilled. No library will be complete that does not contain this authoritative reference collection." — Chicago Tribune.

"It is essential to all libraries, for much of the material here collected has been drawn from rare files of newspapers and unpublished diaries and letters."

— The Independent.

"The appearance of this series of volumes is an event of first importance to students of American history and economics." — American Historical Review.

"All these documents are excessively rare, and, though involving the burning question known to-day as the 'open' and 'closed shop,' have heretofore been virtually a sealed book to all save a mere handful of determined publicists. . . Will richly repay reading on the part of every man desirous of being well informed touching these momentous problems, quite apart from students chiefly interested in the legal and economic aspects. . . We repeat that to students of economic and labour problems these volumes constitute a veritable store-house of information as to labour organization and contemporary politics."

EARLY WESTERN JOURNALS, 1748-1765: Journal of a tour to the Ohio, 1748, by Conrad Weiser; Letters and journals relating to tours into the western country, 1750-1765, by George Croghan; Two journals of western tours, 1758-1759, by Charles F. Post; and Journal relative to his thrilling experiences upon the Maumee, 1764, by Captain Thomas Morris, of H.M.'s XVII Regiment of Infantry; edited with notes, introductions, etc., by R. G. Thwaites. Printed in large Caslon type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with portrait of Morris, large 8vo, pp. 328, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

Admirably portrays the history of English relations with the French and Indians upon the western borders during the important epoch of the last French War, and its sequel, Pontiac's Conspiracy. Weiser was the first official of Pennsylvania to penetrate the country beyond the Allegheny Mountains; while his successor, Croghan, summed up in his own career the history of the frontier. For fifteen years he was concerned in every important Indian negotiation, and his marked success in terminating the Pontiac War is told in a journal replete with unexpected incidents. The journeys of Post, the Moravian missionary, are referred to by every writer of the period. He kept a daily diary in which he detailed his negotiations with the Indians, and their ultimate success. Morris's Journal would be interesting even if less dramatically told, and its historical value is considerable.

"The journals and letters, here grouped from sources which to most readers are inaccessible, present a more vivid picture of the conditions which existed when all this western territory was debatable ground between the French and English than can be found in any formal history. Read either as tales of adventure or as pages of the history of the period when this country, politically, was in the making, they are of absorbing interest." — The Living Age.

EARLY YEARS ON THE WESTERN RESERVE; WITH EXTRACTS FROM letters of Ephraim Brown and Family: 1805-1845; prepared and edited by George C. Wing. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague hand-made deckle-edged paper, with folded genealogical chart of the Ephraim Brown family, 1637-1916, 8vo, pp. 142, cloth, gilt top. $3.00.

The volume is valuable as a documentary historical source, descriptive of early life and conditions in the Western Reserve. It deals with economic conditions, early educational methods, has some material relating to Pennsylvania, especially Pittsburg, to the Brown family in New England, and to early transportation methods.

ENGLAND (JOHN, FIRST BISHOP OF CHARLESTON, S.C.), Works, edited with biographical introduction, notes, and index under the direction of Archbishop Messmer. Printed in large, clear type, with portraits, 7 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut. $30.00 net.

¶ The edition was limited and but few sets remain for sale. It was printed direct from type and will not be reprinted.

This edition contains much material not in the original. Under Archbishop Messmer's direct supervision, and largely his own work, have come the valuable annotations, the life and literary labors of Bishop England, and especially the carefully prepared index, which for the first time makes the extensive and valuable contents quickly available.

"He is one of the fathers of our American Catholic Church. In the centuries to come it is his writings that will furnish the truest summary of the conditions that confronted the pioneers of Catholicity in the United States. . . He was a master of good English. His polemical writings furthered mightily the cause of Catholicism in the new republic of the West without offending unreasonably the numerous adversaries of his faith."

— VERY REV. THOMAS J. SHAHAN, Catholic University of America.

"Aside from the importance of his works because of the theological dissertations with which they are filled, they possess a distinctly historical value."

— Charleston News and Courier.

"Practically the entire hierarchy of America have hailed with profuse expressions of satisfaction the proposal to republish Bishop England's Works. . . A true summary of the conditions which confronted the pioneers of Catholicity in the United States." — Catholic Union and Times.

"Besides depicting vividly the country traversed by him [Farnham], his work is notable for the amount of preciseness of information with regard to the numerous Indian tribes in the northwest. Father de Smet, greatest of Jesuit missionaries, was the superior of the Indian missions in the region described in this book, and his opportunities for securing useful notes of the customs, manners, traditions and history of many tribes, were unique. As a contribution to the history of the American aboriginal, it stands in the front rank."

— Chicago Evening Post.

Farnham reached Oregon by a more southern route than any of his predecessors, touching the borders of what was then Mexican territory. "As he was led over ground scarcely before trodden, and never described by civilized man, so is his narrative fraught with more intense and unflagging interest. Mr. Farnham's style is vigorous and buoyant, and brings the trappers of the mountains, the aborigines, his own little band with their perils, sufferings, and pleasures, and the sublimely rugged and sterile country through which they warily penetrated most vividly before the reader." — Knickerbocker Magazine.

"The story of adventure is told with very unusual literary skill. . . These volumes are well edited." — American Historical Review.

The "War of the Reviewers," the bitter controversy between the British magazines and those edited in America, ranged from the close of the second war with England to about 1825. It evoked much sarcasm and acrimony on the English side of the water; and much bitterness and sensitiveness on the part of Americans. In this controversy both the above works played a prominent part. It is interesting, at the beginning of another century, to discover how a rather frank and somewhat unfavorable and brutal portrayal of certain phases of social life in America, was used to dissuade English farmers from emigrating to Illinois. Making allowance for this object, Faux's strictures are amusing rather than annoying. Welby wrote with a similar purpose in view, but with better taste and judgment in selecting material. Both were Englishmen of the middle class, and despite their prejudices, give a hopeful view for the outlook of American industry and growth.

"Faux was brutally frank, and generalized, to the disadvantage of the west, from exceptional cases of depravity and injustice. Welby's account was also unfavorable, due possibly to his conservative disposition. Both, however, throw valuable light on western conditions." — Americal Historical Review.

FLAGG (EDMUND) THE FAR WEST: ALSO FATHER PIERRE J. DE Smet's Letters and Sketches during a year's residence among the Indian tribes of the Rocky Mountains; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. G. FLEMING (W. L.) CIVIL WAR AND RECONSTRUCTION IN ALABAMA; with numerous portraits, maps, and other illustrations, large 8vo, pp. 838, cloth, gilt top. $5.00 net.

¶ Published in an edition of 850 copies. We have recently purchased the entire remainder, of which less than 200 copies remain for sale.

The first scholarly and critical account of one of the most important epochs in American history. While the work deals especially with Alabama, the conditions obtaining there were general throughout the south, thus, in reality it is a general history of the south during that period. Primarily a scholarly work, yet a most interesting and readable picture of ante-bellum conditions, social, economic, and political. It gives a graphic account of the society and institutions that went down during the Civil War and Reconstruction; and shows the forces which have shaped and are still shaping the social and industrial life of the south.

"Students of Southern history have awaited a book like the one under consideration for a long time. . . The author is to be commended for a scholarly and critical treatment of a highly important historical epoch."

— Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"It shows evidence of intimate knowledge based on wide research, is fair and judicial, yet sympathetic in tone, and is altogether a most interesting picture of life during and immediately following the Civil War. . . Particularly instructive is Professor Fleming's account of social and economic conditions. . . Interesting and unique is the author's description of the effect of the Reconstruction policy upon the educational and religious life of the people." — The Dial.

"It is an admirable piece of work — a picture of conditions which is human rather than academic in character. Although his book is of the sort which the student of the Civil War and Reconstruction will wish to have on his shelves, it is one which the reader of history will find interesting." — The Outlook.

Professor Fleming presents in these volumes many very valuable documents and records hitherto unknown, also some very rare documents relating to the Ku Klux, White Camelia, Union League, and other southern secret societies, both white and black, to schools and churches, local black laws, private papers of Lincoln relating to reconstruction, military commissions and courts martials, to enfranchisements and disfranchisements, the public debt, public frauds, bond issues, industrial conditions, election methods and frauds, freedmen's bureau, documents relating to the evasion and nullification of reconstruction, etc.

"Professor Fleming . . . knows more of the specific facts of Reconstruction than any other scholar in the country." — New York Evening Post.

"Throws much light on the relation of the races, the real condition of the negro, and the difficulties of industrial reorganization. . . To anyone who wishes to make a thorough study of Reconstruction, these volumes will be invaluable." — The Dial.

Flint was a well-to-do Scotchman of acute, active temperament, whose descriptions are embodied in a series of letters written to friends in Scotland, picturing in a pleasing manner, what he saw. His representations are fair and honest, his style attractive and entertaining. He is a trustworthy, candid authority for the Mississippi Valley in the high tide of early emigration.

"The best possible source of information. . . He was one of the fairest critics that America had in her early, callow days before she had won the respect of other nations." — The Independent.

FLINT (TIMOTHY) PIONEER, MISSIONARY, AUTHOR, EDITOR, 1780-1840: the story of his life among the Pioneers and Frontiersmen in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys and in New England and the south, by John E. Kirkpatrick, PH.D., professor of history, Washburn College: with complete chronological list of his writings, bibliography, and analytical index. Handsomely printed in Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, with plates, 8vo, pp. 331, cloth, uncut, gilt top. Price $3.50 net.

Contains a great deal of new material pertaining to the early history of the central, western, and southern parts of the United States, from 1780 to 1840. It was during these years that the great central section of the United States was first opened to immigration. He held a foremost place among the writers of the first half of the nineteenth century. His historical works still furnish some of our most reliable sources for the study of that period.

"No more significant man crossed the great Western valleys in the first quarter of the nineteenth century or lived within their reaches. . . This biography contains much of interest, not only about the man who is its subject, but about the life of the times and the social conditions that prevailed during these formative years." — Boston Christian Register.

"The author, by diligent research work, has brought to light a great deal of new material pertaining to the early history of the United States, and the book should prove a distinct addition to our permanent historical data." — The Dial.

"Professor Kirkpatrick has written more than a biography in this handsome volume. He has brought to light a great amount of new material dealing with the history of the central and southern Mississippi Valley." — Boston Transcript.

FLOWER (R.) LETTERS FROM LEXINGTON AND THE ILLINOIS, containing an account of the English settlement in the latter territory, and a refutation of the misrepresentations of Mr. Cobbett: Letters from Illinois, 1820-21, by the same: Two years' residence in the settlement on the English Prairie, in the Illinois Country, by John Woods: and Journal of a Tour in the West (Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois), in 1818, by Thomas Hulme; edited with notes, introduction, etc., by R. One of the most interesting experiments in colonization was that of the English and Scotch communists, who tried in American settlements, to embody the theories of Robert Owen and other early socialists. Emigration to this settlement was vigorously opposed by William Cobbett, who made the journal of Thomas Hulme a part of his weapon for attack. Hulme, a quiet English farmer, gave, however, an account eminently fair and just, which was wrested from its meaning by the acrimony of Cobbett. Flower was one of the chief founders of the Illinois settlement. These letters are written avowedly to encourage emigration to Illinois. They are, nevertheless, vivid and well-written descriptions of the region. The journals are not confined to the Illinois settlements, but picture the entire voyage of an emigrant seeking a new home in the Western prairies. Thus they have more than local value, and make a distinct contribution to the history of American expansion.

FOUNTAIN (PAUL) THE ELEVEN EAGLETS OF THE WEST. 8vo, pp. 374, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $3.00 net.

A most important and exceedingly interesting record of travels in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and Nevada when these states were still considered as the Wild West and the entire territory looked upon as a wilderness.

He tells the story of his travels and adventures in a simple, straightforward manner and with the genuine love for nature born of an outdoor life. In places he is somewhat intolerant of those who have studied nature from books, instead of in the wilderness, and who have written their accounts in well-appointed libraries, instead of in the storm and rain-beaten tents in the heart of nature. Those who know and appreciate the call of the wilderness will find in him a sympathetic companion.

". . . It will have permanent interest as an account of the extreme West as it was forty years ago." — London Athenæum.

¶ Now out of print. We have purchased the few remaining copies .

A most interesting account of travels and outdoor life in the forests and on the streams, principally of the Northwest, the Great Lakes Region, and in Canada. The author, at heart a lover of the woods and a natralist, describes his travels, which were partly for fishing and hunting, very entertainingly. It deals with the region of the Ottawa River, the Red River and its settlement, the Winnipeg Region, the Great Canadian Wilderness, Fort Severn, the Coast of James's Bay, and the River of Abbitibbe, the Shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the lumber camps, the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, the woods of Michigan, the Northern and Southern shores of Lake Superior, one chapter is devoted to the Shakers and other religious mummers in America, etc. The work contains a great deal regarding the natural history of the region through which he passed.

The only authoritative study of Russian Expansion on the Pacific published in any language during the last century and a half. Several phases of the subject, such as, the Administration of Siberia, and the Cartographical History of the whole Northern Pacific Ocean have never before been treated. Professor Golder's new views on the Deshnef voyage will demand careful attention. The Bering voyages have for the first time been worked out critically and scientifically in their important bearing on Siberian Expansion. The work is of such importance that the Russian Government has already translated it and will shortly issue the volume in Russian.

"Students of American development as well as students of Russian development will be interested in Mr. Golder's volume. It is an authoritative and important contribution to the early intercourse of Russia with China and Japan, to the early history of Siberia, and to the history of the discovery and exploration of the western shores of our own continent. In it we see how Peter the Great encouraged explorations for the sake of science, and the Russian Government for the sake of tribute." — The Outlook.

Canals played an important part in the later pioneer movement westward in America. This field has been practically untouched. Life in the heyday of the canal boats, when canals were the great immigrant and freight routes, is here pictured. These two volumes present an interesting account of their promotion, the early promoters' dreams, their building, influences, history, life along their course, etc. They show their influence in directing trade and immigration in the days when they were controlling factors in our national development.

"The narrative is interesting, and Mr. Hulbert has brought together every scrap of relative information upon his subject. . . The volumes are copiously illustrated with maps and prints." — Chicago Evening Post.

"Very entertaining, giving us in some respects a more vivid impression than is to be gained from more formal histories." — Catholic News.

"The first of these two volumes describes the attempt of the 'Potomack Company' to make that river navigable to Cumberland, and its failure, the history of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal to the same point and its rivalry with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, and of the Pennsylvania Canal from Philadelphia to Pittsburg. The second volume deals with the early attempts to improve the Mohawk and the history of the Erie Canal, including the agitation for its enlargement."

GREGG (FRANK M.) THE FOUNDING OF A NATION: THE STORY of the Pilgrim Fathers, their Voyage on the Mayflower, their early Struggles, Hardships and Dangers, and the Beginnings of American Democracy, as told in the Journals of Francis Beaumont, Cavalier. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, and illustrated with colored maps specially prepared for this work and plates, some in colors, and other historic illustrations, 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $7.50 net.

A narrative history of the Pilgrims of Plymouth has long been needed. Here for the first time it is told in the form of an historical romance. No epoch in our history is fraught with greater importance and influence than the coming of the small band of Pilgrims on the Mayflower to the untried wilderness of America.

Entirely new maps in colors have been especially prepared by The Matthews-Northrup Company. These maps we believe to be the best and most accurate extant. Special paintings have been made by Lucius W. Hitchcock. A bird's-eye view of Plymouth Plantation in 1621 giving the location of the various buildings, etc., has been prepared to give an accurate historical setting for the colony during their first summer. These are reproduced in colors. No illustrations have been included that do not bear the stamp of historic accuracy.

"The oft-told tale of the Mayflower Pilgrims is here told with realistic freshness and fullness of details in the form of a historical romance. A clever piece of fiction accounts for their discovery, far at sea, of an unwelcome stowaway fleeing from enemies. Francis Beaumont, a cavalier, whose journal tells the Pilgrims' story with impartial fidelity to historical facts, and his own attachment to a winsome maiden; beginning on the perilous voyage, this ripened into a love for her and a sympathy with her friends that made him their partner in all the toils and hardships of the infant colony, till his marriage with her after three years of such probation. This strikingly novel form of the old story of those heroic pioneers of American democracy is likely to gain readers not yet attracted to it. It is finely illustrated with maps, photographs, and copies of original paintings."

— The Outlook.

"The title, The Founding of a Nation, is justified, for our great nation in its political principles, its democracy and its moral and religious life, is founded not on the settlement at Jamestown, nor on the Dutch settlement at Manhattan, nor on the merchant colonies of northern New England, but on the loftier purposes of the Plymouth Pilgrims and the kindred spirits that in 1630 and 1634 settled in Salem and Boston." — The Independent.

"Clinging close to the historical accounts, the author portrays the difficulties of the sailing, the loss of the Speedwell, the hardships of the voyage, the storm at sea, the signing of the 'Mayflower Compact,' the dangers and sufferings on land, the perils of the savages, the expedition of discovery, the fire, the great sickness, the founding of Thanksgiving Day, the great drought and famine."

Ogden, with the predispositions of a New Englander, found much to interest him, and much to disapprove. His style is clear and straightforward.

Bullock, a distinguished English naturalist, was the first to visit and adequately describe the Mexican nation. The journal is a delightful bit of description of early Mississippi voyaging.

"The value of Gregg's account of the early trading expeditions over the famous Santa Fé Trail, of pioneer life in the extreme southwest prior to its acquisition by the United States, of the condition of affairs in New Mexico, and of the manners and customs of the aborigines of New Mexico and Texas can scarcely be overestimated. The narrative is interesting, truthful almost beyond criticism, and withal is one of the best contributions to southwestern literature that has ever appeared." — LARNED'S Guide to American History.

These volumes contain the history of the more important highways and historic waterways which were the thoroughfares of the pioneers who made our West what it is to-day. The story of a road, which shows its rise, difficulties and dangers, history and present value, is of great interest. A clear understanding of many of our Indian campaigns cannot be had without a study of these highways and the strategic points they covered or connected.

The author shows how a road through Cumberland Gap made possible the settlement of Kentucky. Nemacolin's Path across the Alleghenies over which Washington made his terrible night's march from Fort Necessity leads us to a clearer understanding of the first campaign of the war which won America for England. It is of interest to learn that the buffalo originally marked out the routes that are to-day followed by the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash, and other great railroads.

The history of these pioneer roads is full of romance. They give us new light on the difficulties encountered by Washington, Braddock, Forbes, Bouquet, Sullivan, Crawford, St. Clair, Lewis, Clark, Wayne, Harrison, and many others. The study of each road, whether of land or water, includes a study of the expansive movement in which it became an important factor.

"The readable qualities of these monographs which give them the charm of story-telling is coupled with historical accuracy which make them the standard works on the subjects covered." — The Chautauquan.

"The author writes of the early highways and the experiences of early wayfarers thereon, very entertainingly." — American Historical Review.

"In all the history of Europe the roads and waterways are duly considered. But of the paths hewed out by pioneers through the trackless forests of the North American continent we have but scant record; and among our historians none has seemed to appreciate the true significance of these routes of trade and war, and the strategic points they covered and connected." — Chicago Evening Post.

"Mr. Hulbert has entered a new field of American research and scholarship. In it ethnology, archæology, and history blend in a most fascinating way. As good Americans, we should have a deep interest in the historic ways trod by our ancestors and the Indians before them, and the animals of forest and prairie first of all." — Chicago Inter Ocean.

JANDUS (WILLIAM) SOCIAL WRONGS AND STATE RESPONSIbilities. With six plates, 12mo, cloth. $1.50 net.

¶ The volume is based on the theory that industrial equity is incompatible with the private ownership of economic fundamentals.

Among the contents are: Value and the Economic Formula; Money Basis and the "Quantity Theory"; Self-liquidation of Land Values, and Rents of Equalization vs. Taxation; The Solvency of Values the Key to the Socialization of Economic Fundamentals; Private Capitalism and Effortless Income; Private Finance a Monopoly of Solvent Functions; Economic Responsibilities of State; The Marginal Value of Gold; The Depreciation of Gold; Land Values; The Distribution of Wealth under Private Finance; The Income of Private Finance and the Outgo of the Unpropertied Producer; The Law of Money Volume and the Law of Solvent Functions.

The discovery of the law of solvent functions and the formulation of the economic equation mark a new departure in economic thinking, and in their deductions constitute not merely a challenge to, but a refutation of current theories and doctrines.

The sponsors of these interpretations face the dilemma that the pretentious legal edifice reared upon them is purely a class product, based in class advantage, and does not reflect the collective interests of men. That, hence, our present political institutions, and the civic activities based in them, have no warrant in science and therefore no social permanency. That these social arrangements and their economic interpretations contain the germs of their own self-destruction and must give way to institutions based in the equalization of industrial opportunities.

KIEFFER (HENRY M.) SOME OF THE FIRST SETTLERS OF "THE Forks of the Delaware" and their Descendants, 1760 to 1852; translated from the German with historical Introduction. With portraits, plates, and facsimiles, large 8vo, pp. 404, cloth. $5.00 net.

¶ Privately issued by the author in an edition of 500 copies. We have recently purchased from him the few copies unsold.

The First Reformed Church of Easton was founded during the earliest period of the settlement at "The Forks of the Delaware," and has been closely identified with the history of that vicinity. The church building was erected in 1776, and is the only public building remaining from the days of the Revolution. Its record books, which possess the rare distinction of being continuous and unbroken for nearly a century and a half, are contemporaneous in their origin with the early beginnings of the settlement, and contain information of greatest value to the many thousands of the descendants of "The First Settlers of the Forks of the Delaware." The settlement having from the first been prevailingly German, nearly every family in the community, at some time or other in its history, left some trace of itself in the records of this old German Reformed Church. In this volume are recorded in the neighborhood of 20,000 names representing some 1300 distinct families from 1760 to 1854. From a genealogical standpoint the publication is an invaluable one, containing information which clears up many an unknown or doubtful family record.

The volume is alike of great interest to the genealogist and the historian, and especially to all who are interested in the early settlers of our country, in Pennsylvania, and in the German element in America. It is a volume which unquestionably should be in all reference libraries.

The value of the journal of Long, Indian interpreter and trader for twenty years in North America, is threefold: first, for its sidelights upon the Canadian campaigns of the American Revolution; second, for information concerning the settlement of the Loyalists in Upper Canada at the close of that war; third, for a most faithful picture of the life and manners of the Indian and Canadian traders, especially in the period of cut-throat competition that ensued before the fur-trade was consolidated and regulated by the great Companies that later controlled it. He also took part in the British expedition that raided Prairie du Chien toward the close of the Revolution.

MARKS (MARY A. M.) ENGLAND AND AMERICA, 1763 to 1783; the History of a Reaction. 2 vols., 8vo, cloth, gilt tops. $6.00 net.

¶ Of this interesting and valuable work, published in 1907, we have purchased the few remaining copies. It appeals strongly to all readers of American history and especially to those interested in the critical period embraced by these volumes.

Among the contents may be mentioned: the Stamp Act; "The Boston Tea Party;" the Dismissal of Fox; the First Continental Congress; Bunker Hill; the Indians; the State of the Navy; the Armed Neutrality; the Gordon Riots; the South; Arnold and Andre; King's Mountain; the Surrender of Cornwallis; etc.

"Mrs. Marks writes in the opening sentence "The history of the loss of America is the history of a Tory reaction," and the two volumes of closely printed pages, in which this thesis is defended, form, in certain respects, a highly meritorious study of English politics during twenty critical years. The wealth of personal and political detail is imposing, while the parliamentary debates have been so liberally transcribed or summarized as to relieve all but the special student from the necessity of consulting originals. The style is readable and often lively. To students of American history, in this country particularly, the story of the Revolution set forth in terms of English politics cannot but prove enlightening." — The Nation.

"The present edition is more complete than the London edition, in that it gives the twenty-three Indian vocabularies, which appeared in the original German edition, and also Maximilian's account of the Indian sign language, his catalogue of birds for both the Missouri and Wabash River valleys, and a summary of his meteorological observations on the upper Missouri. These add materially to the scientific value of the present edition." — The Living Age.

"One of the most important contributions that have been made to our knowledge of the Indians of the northern plains." — The Critic.

"The work was originally of such great cost ($120) that its contents never became available to the general student; yet Maximilian saw everything in America from the coal mines and early railways at Mauch Chunk to Cantonment Leavenworth and the posts of the Upper Missouri." — The Independent.

Speaking of this work before this edition was published —

THE NATION (July 10, 1902) said: "That very unusual treasure, the adventures of the Prince of Wied, the only reliable authority concerning the earliest period."

CHITTENDEN (in his History of the American Fur Trade) said: "The Prince published the results of his labors in the most complete and elaborate work ever prepared upon this region. It is much to be regretted that it is so inaccessible to the public. . . The work covers a great variety of subjects — narrative, anecdote, history, ethnology, geology, natural history."

"The atlas consists of 81 plates from drawings by Charles Bodmer. It is one of the most interesting publications ever issued from the press; the details of the costume of the various tribes of Indians, between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, their warlike and musical instruments, smoking apparatus, etc., are given with the utmost minuteness; the bison, dog, scalp, and other dances, with their huntings, are represented in the most spirited manner, and the extraordinary natural features of the country are delineated with the greatest truth.

— SABIN, Bibliotheca Americana.

"Bodmer's drawings share with Catlin's pictures the honor of being the most valuable depictions of the American Indian extant. It was nearly impossible to secure a good copy of the atlas of plates, even if the seeker were able to pay an exorbitant price. It is therefore a matter of much importance to students of the history of western America and of the Indians to have these fine plates made available in the present form." — Chicago Evening Post.

¶ It is our custom to go abroad for the early beliefs of mankind and to teach our children the mythologies of foreign lands, unmindful of the wealth and beauty of our native American myths and folk-tales. This present volume, consisting of stories obtained by the author (the chief of the U.S. Biological Survey) direct from the Indians of California, presents some of the most entertaining of the folk-tales of our American Indians.

As a contribution to Ethnology, Mythology, and Folk-lore, their value can hardly be overestimated since they consist of the creation myths and other curious tales, heretofore unpublished and unknown, of a group of tribes composing one of the great linguistic stocks. To the Naturalist, Psychologist, and student of Religions they are of surpassing interest — affording a clue to the mental processes of aboriginal man and showing his ideas as to the creation of the universe and the life upon it.

The various Mammals, Birds, Reptiles, Trees, and Shrubs have never before been correctly identified. Their Indian and English names are here given, and in an appendix their scientific equivalents — a material addition to the permanent scientific value of the book.

"These tales, in addition to the inherent charm of their own poetic beauty, have serious claims on the anthropologist and the psychologist."

— San Francisco Argonaut.

"The tales are a contribution to mythology, ethnology, and folklore, and as they are transcribed in popular form will be interesting as a specimen of primitive creative art and useful as a story teller's source book. The attractive print and paper and fine illustrations, make a handsome if expensive volume."

The travels recounted in this volume are of especial interest as describing conditions in the West between the formation of the Constitution and the purchase of Louisiana. This was a time of enormous emigration to the Mississippi Valley, consequent upon the close of the Indian wars and the growing prosperity of the region. The two Michauxs, father and son, were men of trained observation, and a judicious sympathetic spirit.

"Michaux was a careful observer and discriminating writer. He gives clear and trustworthy descriptions of the states named in the title — their inhabitants and products, and the occupations of the people."

The routes of the armies which accomplished the conquest of the West have nearly passed from human recollection. The story of these campaigns, is of particular importance. Mr. Hulbert has had signal success in this work. Such roads as those hewn by Marin, Bouquet, Lewis, McIntosh, George Rogers Clark, Crawford, Harmar, St. Clair, and Wayne are outlined and described in this volume, with the modern roads built over them in later days. This volume makes much of the pioneer period easier to understand.

"His study of the routes is undoubtedly the most authoritative that has ever been made, and its result modifies accepted opinion in some important points."

General Palmer was one of the most enterprising and useful pioneers of Oregon. He went over the "Oregon Trail" in 1845, with one of the earliest bands of emigrants; and has given in his work a detailed description of the route, and directions for emigrants and their welfare. He brings vividly to mind the historic value of that memorable rush to Oregon, which secured that region for the United States. The author's ascent of Mount Hood was an intrepid feat. The work is enlivened with anecdotes of mountaineering life, bear-hunting, fishing, and trapping.

"Its very simplicity and directness give it a charm and vividness which a more finished narrative would have lacked." — The Living Age.

This volume treats of the distribution of the mound-building Indians — the earliest Red Men who found and opened the great land thoroughfares of America — and of the roads of the buffalo and great game animals before them, showing also the use made of these animal and Indian roads by early explorers and pioneers.

"Mr. Hulbert's intimate knowledge of the ground he covers, combined with an interesting style of narration, is sure to recommend his work to all classes of readers." — Public Opinion.

"Mr. Hulbert avoids the error, common to many previous writers on the subject, of detaching the mound-builders as a distinct race, remotely antecedent to those Indians with whom the whites first came in contact. . . The work is useful and enlightening, soberly written, free from violent assumptions, and has the additional virtue of being simple in narrative." — The Independent.

PATTERSON (ISAAC F.) THE CONSTITUTIONS OF OHIO: AMENDments, and Proposed Amendments including the Ordinance of 1787, the Act of Congress dividing the Northwest Territory, and the Acts of Congress creating and recognizing the State of Ohio; complete original texts, with historical data, records of the vote cast, contemporary newspaper comment, detailed comparisons and historical introduction. Printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckled edges, large 8vo, pp. 358, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $4.00 net.

¶ The full text of the various constitutions, of all amendments, and of all proposed amendments has been included. The majority of the proposed amendments and much of the historical data have never before been published, nor even printed. They are only available by careful search among the state papers.

The volume traces, both in the historical introduction and in the documents, the constitutional history of Ohio from the dividing of the Northwest Territory; through the framing under Governor St. Clair of the very inadequate Constitution of 1802; through the period following, when Ohio would seem to have lacked state consciousness and integrity; the period of reaction with its overwhelming burden of state debts; the greed and abuse by the special interests; the inadequacy of the centralized power; the wild debauch of the treasury; the development of the state as a political unit with higher social, economic, and political solidarity; the efforts of corporate, vested, and special interests to retain their advantages and acquire new privileges; dissatisfaction with the judicial system, with taxation, with railroad and corporation influences; the repeated efforts to adopt amendments and their rejection, etc.

"A landmark in the unorganized field of American state constitutional documents. In addition to furnishing complete, verified, original tests of the several constitutions of Ohio, amendments and proposed amendments, helpful detailed comparisons, historical data, records of votes cast on the numerous measures, and contemporary comment, Mr. Patterson has also supplied a valuable historical introduction, which is sufficient alone to claim the attention of students of politics and constitutional development." — American Political Science Review.

"Of practical as well as of historical value." — Political Science Quarterly.

"The first attempt to trace the development of constitutional ideas and practices in Ohio. . . The author has performed a public service in the collection of the original texts and in the scholarly introduction." — Case and Comment.

"Pattie's expedition and captivity has more than the ordinary interest and value which attaches to the stories of adventurers. He crossed the continent on a route which his party was the first to pursue. He encountered tribes of Indians who then saw a white man for the first time, and his narrative has the merit of being given a candid unexaggerated style, which impresses us with its veracity. An exceptionally interesting volume, showing how an investment of $332,059.07 became a fund of $4,636,370.40, and how this fund was used to cancel a city debt of nearly $1,500,000.00, purchase land for the site of the group plan, repave streets, and develop a park system.

In concluding his study the author says:

"It is doubtful if anywhere else in the history of American cities a parallel to this undertaking can be found. It is preëminently to the credit of Cleveland that such a work could be done; and too much cannot be said in commendation of the men who accomplished it. They were conservative business men who without remuneration gave their time and their abilities, because of civic pride, to accomplish their work for future generations; civic patriotism of the highest type and of the kind that should have emulation in other American cities alone explains their fidelity to their trust and gives promise of like good work from others in the future."

An elaborate inside view of perhaps the most neglected great subject in American history, the industrial society of the Old South. It is not a description written by a present-day historian, but something very much more important — a series of writings by those who dwelt in the régime — the planters, the overseers, the white redemptioners, the negro slaves, the free negroes, the town artisans, the slave traders, the European immigrants, the westward emigrants, the frontier farmers, the Indian fighters, and the desperadoes.

These volumes contain the best result of a five-year-long systematic exploration of the field, by Professor Phillips of the University of Michigan. The peculiar richness of the collection is in its large proportion of newly discovered manuscript material. The introduction of about fifty pages describes the historical processes of settling the country and developing industry in the several important portions of the South.

"It has called for laborious industry and shrewd diplomacy to extract these documents from their hiding places in cellar and attic, or, worse yet, the strong-boxes of southern households." — New York Evening Post.

The life on these famous old highways in pioneer days and in the later coaching days is interestingly described. The subject is of permanent importance and has never been treated. The tavern life of the central west, the network of stage lines, the life "along the road," and the mail and express systems, have, it can almost be said, gone begging for an historian.

These little paths, which were the keys to the interior of the continent to explorers, missionaries, traders, and pioneers, were considered of priceless importance, those of the central west being declared "highways forever free" by the Ordinance of 1787. They are of double interest when the struggles and dangers of the portage paths are fully considered. As boundary lines and sites of forts and trading-stations these pathways are of permanent historical importance.

¶ We have purchased the small remainder of this, the only work presenting a complete view of protection in this country. Of great value to all interested in the tariff question and the economic history of our country. Divided into three parts: (I) English Commercial Policy in the North American Colonies. (II) The Causes of the Commercial Policy of the United States. (III) The Theory of Protectionism in the United States and the historical circumstances of its Development.

The last part comprises sketches of the lives and theories of Alexander Hamilton, Fredrick List, Henry C. Carey, and Simon N. Patten. The author fully covers the entire tariff controversy from the colonial period to our own times.

The second portion of the book is devoted to the subsequent history. The most notable feature is a full discussion of the subject of trusts and monopolies, in which the learned author shows an intimate acquaintance.

"There is always a gain in objectiveness when political and economic questions are approached by a foreigner; and in the present case the gain is made the more distinct by the qualities of the foreign observer. . . Unquestionably the most comprehensive bibliography ever compiled on the Philippine Islands, or likely to be compiled for many years to come, as the expenses of traveling, examination of documents, time, etc., are totally inadequate to the possible returns.

It gives: 1. Full particulars regarding all important Mss., extant. 2. The locations in libraries and archives, both here and abroad, with section, shelf, bundle, and document number. 3. The titles of all books and articles which give bibliographical information. 4. A brief digest of the nature and contents of the document, its value and reliability; if transcripts or translations exist, by whom, their accuracy, completeness, etc., and where located; by whom cited; biographical notes; collations; etc. 5. It is classified and arranged chronologically and is followed by two very valuable indexes.

ROBERTSON (JAMES A.) LOUISIANA UNDER THE RULE OF Spain, France and the United States; social, economic, and political conditions of the territory represented in the Louisiana Purchase as portrayed in hitherto unpublished contemporary accounts by Dr. Paul Alliot and various Spanish, French, English, and American officials. Translated from the French and Spanish, or transcribed from the original manuscripts and edited; with bibliography and index. Printed in large Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made paper, deckle-edges, with colored map of the territory and early maps and plans, 2 vols., large 8vo, cloth, uncut, gilt tops. $10.00 net.

The period covered by these volumes is from shortly after the peace of 1783 to and through the first period of American organization in Louisiana. The importance of this period is very great, for it witnessed in the United States before 1803 the beginnings of an independent government and its organization, while in Spanish Louisiana before 1803 it witnessed the scene of a conflict between Americans and Spaniards. This is the period in which the navigation of the Mississippi River played such an important part in the destinies of both Spain and the United States. The period is also involved in the Napoleonic scheme of a great colony for France "which would clip the claws of the English." Louisiana during this period was the center of the real world movement.

"Illustrates one of the most interesting, dramatic, and portentous events in the history of the United States, namely the passing of all the country west of the Mississippi River from Spain to France, and from France to the United States. The selection of the documents has been careful, made by an editor who understands all the conditions that entered into this historical problem. They illustrate in a graphic way the social and economic conditions of the territory." — The Nation.

"All the documents are well annotated, and the work will doubtless find a place in every library with pretensions to affording facilities for historical study and investigation." — Outlook.

"It has been easier to find books about Louisiana than to reach the sources upon which alone they could be founded. Many of the contributors to the portentous list of 'Louisianana' have proved in their writings how rare has been the knowledge of the source. With Dr. Robertson's volumes before him, none need now accept the secondary word." — The Independent.

This biography, by one of the leading authorities on American Naval History, constitutes in no small measure a history of the American Navy, 1798 to 1838, and contains much important historical material relating to this period, chiefly from unpublished manuscripts and scarce documents. It also gives much valuable and picturesque information relating to the ships, officers, and seamen.

Commodore Rodgers was closely associated with Decatur, Hull, Lawrence, Perry, Porter, Bainbridge, and MacDonough. It brings to light many of the inner facts of the administrations of Jefferson and Madison, and affords much valuable new data upon John Quincy Adams, Jackson, Van Buren, Clay, Napoleon, Jerome Bonaparte, Generals Leclerc, Moreau, and Tarleton, Colonel Tobias Lear, Toussiant L'Ouverture, Lafayette, Robert Fulton, and others.

Aside from its historical value, it possesses abundant interest for all who are stirred by clearly delineated accounts of life in the great silent places of earth. Dangers from Indian treachery, perils of the forests and the waterways, thrilling escapes of every sort, wilderness life, the sharp contrasts between civilization and savagery, the obstacles which beset man's progress through the vast solitudes of the Northwest, the forbidding aspects as well as the beauties of primeval nature, all these are described with force and accuracy.

"The narrations of an intelligent observer of the peculiarities of savage life always attract an amount of interest, which increases in proportion to the truthfulness of his coloring or shading. In all the qualities which should attract and hold our attention, it is rare to find the superior of Mr. Ross. For fifteen years he traversed the wastes of the Rocky Mountains, and thus became as familiar with every trait of Indian character and phase of savage life, as a white man may ever expect to be. As an Indian trader, pushing his commerce among friendly but treacherous tribes, and even among hostile ones who are to be placated by resistless finery, or the equally omnipotent fire-water, he was often the first white man to burst upon their wild fastnesses."

SHELLENBERGER (CAPT. JOHN K.) BATTLE OF FRANKLIN, Tennessee, November 30, 1864: a statement of the erroneous claims made by General Schofield, and an exposition of the blunder which opened the battle. 8vo, pp. 42, wrappers. $1.00 net.

¶ 125 copies privately printed for the author. 75 only for sale.

SHELLENBERGER (CAPT. JOHN K.) BATTLE OF SPRING HILL, Tennessee, Nov. 29, 1864. With map, 8vo, wrappers. $1.00 net.

¶ 125 copies printed privately for Captain Shellenberger. Written "to refute the erroneous statements made in Scofield's Retreat from Pulaski" and Reid's Ohio in the War. 75 copies were distributed by the author among his associates in the battle; 50 were left with us for sale.

SHERMAN (GENERAL W. T.) AS COLLEGE PRESIDENT: A Collection of letters, documents, and other material chiefly from private sources, relating to the life and activities of General William Tecumseh Sherman, to the early years of Louisiana State University, and to the stirring conditions existing in the South on the eve of the Civil War, 1859-1861; collected and edited by Walter L. Fleming, Professor of History, Louisiana State University; with index. Handsomely printed in Caslon type on Alexandra hand-made, deckle-edged paper, with numerous portraits, facsimiles, and views, large 8vo, pp. 399, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $5.00 net.

General Sherman, himself, planned this work in 1889. A considerable amount of the material was collected by him, for which he wrote the following prefatory statement:

> "In my Memoirs will be found a brief statement of the public events in Louisiana with which I was connected, and which immediately preceded the great Civil War. I now supplement that statement by preparing in advance, not for immediate publication, a series of letters which seem to me may become of value to posterity. . .
> "The letters herewith will give a far better understanding of the private thoughts and feelings of the men who afterward bore conspicuous parts in the Civil War than any naked narrative, and I merely intend this as a preface to them."

"What makes the book of live value to-day is that it contains a large number of General Sherman's letters in which appear vividly and fearlessly his views and those of many prominent southern men on the national problems which were just reaching their crisis." — The Outlook.

"It throws a clear light upon local and sectional matters."

— American Historical Review.

"The reputation of Sherman can not but be enhanced by the intimate revelation of himself contained in these letters. . . A tremendously hard worker, coolly intellectual, calm and dignified, stern in discipline, ever ready to repress insurrection among the cadets in any form, but a fair friend to all.

— Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"Not only shows the views of these men [prominent Southrons] upon national problems, but throws new light upon the social and political conditions upon the eve of the war as well as upon the opinions and actions of the Southern leaders." — American Review of Reviews.

"It is a very interesting and valuable contribution to our southern history."
— THOMAS D. BOYD, President Louisiana State University.

"His personal and official correspondence for those two years is now for the first time brought to light by one enjoying exceptional facilities for the collecting and editing of these interesting documents." — The Dial.

"We learn from it the condition of education in the South during antebellum and postbellum days. The position, attitude, and temper of the South before the war are illustrated in many particulars. The whole compilation is one of those without which an historical library would not be complete."
— The Literary Digest.

SYLVESTER (HERBERT M.) INDIAN WARS OF NEW ENGLAND. Beautifully printed in large type at the Everett Press on a special grade of Exeter deckle-edged paper, in a limited edition of 1000 sets, 3 large and thick volumes, royal 8vo, Colonial blue cloth, uncut, rubricated labels, gilt tops. Published at $15.00 net for $10.00.

¶ Contents: Topography of Indian Tribes; the Early Settler and the Indian; the Pequod War; Wars of the Mohegans; the Land of the Abenake; the French Occupation; King Philip's War; St. Castin's War; Queen Anne's War; Lovewell's War (Seven Years' War); Governor Shirley's War (known as the Spanish War, or Five Years' War, War of the Austrian Succession, King George's War); French and Indian War; with extensive analytical indexes.

Apart from the great historical value and interest of this set on the early history of the New England states and the various Indian tribes of New England, the set is especially rich in material relating to New France and its extensive relations with the New England Colonies; to the early Catholic work and missions in New England and New France; the early English and French settlers; to the mythology, folklore, witchcraft and superstition of the Indians and the early settlers; to the Dutch settlements in New York; to the early settlements of the French and English in the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys; to the French in Pennsylvania; the Pilgrim Fathers; to Rhode Island and its part in the invasion of Canada, etc.; the early affairs of Virginia. There is much of great value regarding George Washington and his early work among the Indians, his expeditions, defeats and successes, etc.; upon the Quakers; the Jesuit missions; slavery among the Indians; the early Dutch settlements and expeditions; early history of Maryland, Georgia, Louisiana, and South Carolina, etc.

"The most important work on the subject yet written . . . a splendid addition to any library."—Cambridge (Mass.) Tribune.

"The only complete story of the Hundred Years' Conflict with the Indians yet written. . . This fact, coupled with Mr. Sylvester's inimitable piquancy and charm of style, renders the work invaluable to all who are interested in the initial history of the New England colonies. . . Conspicuous features of the work are the sumptuous indexes and the copious footnotes. . ."

— PROFESSOR THOMAS E. CALVERT of Oxford University.

"The author has mastered the very difficult problem of Indian topography and has shown himself a skilful narrator. What he has done will not have to be done again." — New York Evening Post.

"The Story of the Indian wars of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries has never been told completely in a single work. . . Mr. Sylvester has had access to much material not known to those who have toiled in various parts of his field. . . It is notably clear, concise, scholarly, and entertaining. Richly merits commendation for its excellence in all the qualities that are essential in a history." — New York Times (Saturday) Book Review.

"Mr. Sylvester is one of the best authorities on New England historical subjects, and a charming writer . . . easily the first work in his chosen field." — Boston Herald.

Analytical and subject Index to the Series in two large volumes.

¶ 750 sets only were printed, each numbered and signed. The work will never be reprinted.

An almost inexhaustible historical reference work concerning the United States and its people through the hundred years of its most rapid development. Only works of acknowledged authority are included. A complete set of the originals, if obtainable, is worth about $3,000.00, and they are steadily advancing in price, as also will this series as soon as the remaining sets are disposed of. Most of the sets are permanently located in Public and College Libraries.

It contains much hitherto unpublished material, and two translations into English for the first time.

To those preparing speeches, essays, theses, special monographs, editorial articles, or seeking data, or verifying facts, or further information on any subject pertaining to the United States for this century, the Index volumes will prove of immediate value. This Index makes available a vast mass of source material in history, economics, sociology, political science, religious work, commercial life, agriculture, geography, travel, the natural sciences, etc. The facts here accessible are authentic, and not as depicted by the writer of fiction or ephemeral literature.

The student will turn to this Index for generations to come. It makes this set the most accessible historical work covering this century.

"For the first time we have in a form adapted to easy use a great mass of material that will enable the investigator who has not many books, to study from the sources the main facts of western social and economic history. . . In fact these thirty volumes and this ample index open up to all of us opportunities for knowing the West and the processes of American settlement as many of us could not have known them before. We cannot be too thankful for the copious index to the Early Western Travels, which Mr. Thwaites has so carefully and attentively edited." — American Historical Review.

"A series which the casual reader will find interesting, and the historian, teacher, and scholar will find invaluable, as it makes available sources of information without which the development of the West, its history, and its people, can not be fully understood." — Cumulative Book Review Digest.

"Places before the general public important documents hitherto inaccessible save to the very wealthy, or those in touch with the largest libraries."
— Literary World.

"It has made available some travel books, not merely useful to the historian, but filled with tales of such strange and thrilling adventures as to hold the attention of the veriest schoolboy." — The Independent.

"The exhaustive notes and introductions are by Dr. Thwaites, the foremost authority on Western history." — The Dial.

"The two index volumes are a distinct contribution to the history of the West, and are so important in their nature as to demand special notice. Scholars have at times suggested the utility of a coöperative index covering a well defined field of history, but the suggestion has never before materialized. . . Only scholars who have turned the pages of scores of unindexed, or worse, badly indexed, books can know how great is this service which prepares the series for instant reference." — The Independent.

¶ Printed for the author.

"A brilliant account of an almost unknown period. Commencing with the causes of the Mexican War, it traces the wonderful marches of Kearny and Doniphan from Missouri to Chihuahua, graphically describes the occupation of New Mexico, and illustrates the whole with a series of portraits and views, which it has required years to collect. Brilliancy of style, combined with conscientious care as to matter, produce a result of the utmost interest and value."

sketches of south-western Pennsylvania to the year 1800; with portraits and plans, 8vo, pp. 259, cloth. $5.00 net.

¶ The original edition of this work was privately printed for a few friends of the author, these have long been very hard to obtain, even at prices ranging from $30.00 to $40.00 per copy. It has recently been reprinted, in a small edition for private distribution.

An interesting work, containing much of valuable material relating to Fayette County, not to be found in any other form.

The chapter headings are: Antiquities; Settlers' forts; Indian trails, Traders' paths, army roads, etc.; The French War — Washington's campaign; Braddock's campaign; Early settlements; Memoirs of early settlers; List of settlers in Fayette County and the adjacent parts of Greene, Washington and Westmoreland, 1772; Mason and Dixon's line; The boundary controversy with Virginia.

WASHINGTON AND THE WEST; BEING GEORGE WASHINGTON'S diary of September, 1784, kept during his journey into the Ohio basin, in the interest of a commercial union between the Great Lakes and the Potomac River; with a commentary upon the same, by Prof. Archer B. Hulbert. Printed in large type by De Vinne, with characters to conform to the peculiarities of the original manuscripts, with frontispiece and maps, crown 8vo, pp. 217, cloth, deckled edges. $2.00 net.

¶ We purchased the entire remainder of this interesting volume.

Gives a full account of Washington's journey into the western country, made for the purpose of looking after personal interests and opening up a means of communication by water between the east and the west, to afford an outlet for the products of the trans-Appalachian settlers to the seaboard, of facilitating emigration to the western country, and of firmly establishing for all time a commercial union between the two sections.

"The real importance of the 'Diary' is in the light it throws on Washington's least known side, the 'unknown' Washington, not Washington the general and the President — but Washington the man. He appears in these pages as America's first expansionist. In the thoughtful and exhaustive commentary which Mr. Hulbert has written on the 'Diary,' he points out with discriminating emphasis the manner in which Washington foresaw where and wherein America's greatness was to lie." — New York Tribune.

"A valuable portrait of Washington in an aspect comparatively disregarded hitherto, a portrait drawn by himself. The careful investigation of the economist and the foresight of the statesman are equally conspicuous in these pages, and interesting side-lights are cast upon his character." — The Outlook.

"It well depicts the attitude of the great statesman toward public improvements in which his confidence had been enlisted. It is an invaluable contribution to Washingtonia, and contains a scholarly comment by Archer B. Hulbert." — Boston Globe.

WASHINGTON'S ROAD: THE FIRST CHAPTER OF THE OLD French War; by Archer B. Hulbert. Illustrated with maps, plans, and plates, printed in large type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, crown 8vo, pp. 215, cloth, gilt top. $2.50 net.

¶ Historic Highways series. 200 printed separately. Nearly out of print.

The story of the Delaware Indian Nemacolin's Path, widened by Washington in 1754, is one of the most interesting in our early history. Mr. Hulbert tells the story as a part of Washington's life, bringing out in the most original way the character of the young man and the beginning of his great interest in the central west. The author's personal knowledge of every foot of this historic ground, and the vividness of style and argument makes this work of unusual interest.

"The evolution into the pathways of commerce of to-day is extremely interesting. . . Because Mr. Hulbert has not seen fit to make this story a dry-as-dust chronicle, it will probably not take the place it deserves to take among the histories of our country, but it will have all the more readers among those to whom the author specifically appeals — the general public." — Public Opinion.

"Mr. Hulbert's volume will be of especial interest to students of Washington, his time, and his work." — Boston Transcript.

"Mr. Hulbert's narrative enables us to know better than ever the true story of the war which won America for England." — Chicago Evening Post.

WATERWAYS OF WESTWARD EXPANSION: THE OHIO RIVER AND its Tributaries; by Archer B. Hulbert. Printed in large type on Dickinson's deckle-edged paper, with folded maps, crown 8vo, pp. 220, cloth, uncut, gilt top. $2.50 net.

¶ Historic Highways series. 200 printed for sale separately.

In the latter pioneer period, beginning about 1800, the waterways became the great highways of immigration. The history of the part played by rivers in the expansive movement has been slighted; the life and times of the barge and keel-boatmen are no better known than are the old coaching days which have so far passed from popular knowledge. Even the little rivers of the West have played a part in our national economic and social development which has never been formally acknowledged. The dawning and influence of the era of slack-water navigation is also treated.

"All the varied types of boats which were propelled up and down the river are described in detail, and interesting information is adduced concerning surveys and statistics of navigation." — Chicago Evening Post.

"The chapter in this book on the evolution of river craft furnishes a remarkable illustration of the peculiar economic development of the central west. Indeed the book abounds in points of curious and instructive interest."

The expedition of Nathaniel Wyeth to convey a trading company to Oregon in 1832 was second in importance only to the Astorian for that territory. The narrative has much charm and sprightliness, and well and simply portrays the difficulties of the "Overland Trail."

Wyeth was accompanied by John K. Townsend, a young naturalist who was sent out on the joint account of the American Philosophical Society and the Academy of Natural Sciences.

"This long and perilous journey, so well described, is replete with interest and adventure." — American Philosophical Society's Proceedings.

YEARY (MAMIE) REMINISCENCES OF THE BOYS IN GRAY, 1861-1865, numerous portraits and plates, large royal 8vo, pp. 904, cloth. $5.00 net.

¶ One of the few permanently valuable works relating to the South in the Civil War. It is, in reality, a biographical dictionary of the hundreds of members of the Texas Division of the United Confederate Veterans, giving brief sketches of their lives, record of the part taken by each in the Civil War, the name of the company, command, and division, etc. The work was actually compiled by Miss Yeary after many years of painstaking correspondence with each member and much personal research work. While the work covers the Texas Division, men active in the War from all parts of the South are now members of this Division.

A work which will prove of permanent and great value to all engaged in biographical, genealogical, and historical research. It should prove of great value to the descendants of the hundreds of names given therein. It is the only work in which this material is preserved.

The Contributors have given vivid descriptions of the War as they saw it, in capacity of trooper, foot-soldier, sharp-shooter, scout, spy, courier, color-bearer, and officer of every rank. Anecdote, narrative, humor, pathos, courage, patriotism, and sacrifice, commingle in the record of hard fighting, daring captures, hair-breadth escapes, forced marches, prison and hospital experiences, and those incidents that make the reminiscences of that War of absorbing interest to us at this time.

Only 1000 copies were printed and it is doubtful if it will ever be reprinted.

A SOCIAL HISTORY

OF

THE AMERICAN FAMILY

FROM COLONIAL TIMES TO THE PRESENT

BY

ARTHUR W. CALHOUN, PH.D.

In three large volumes, 8vo., with Bibliographies and Analytical Index. Handsomely printed in large Caslon type on Mittineague special handmade paper, deckled edges; cloth, uncut, gilt tops. Price for the set, $12.50 net; separately, $5.00 net, per volume.

AN attempt to develop an understanding of the forces that have been operative in the evolution of family institutions in the United States. It sets forth the nature of the influences that have shaped marriage, controlled fecundity, determined the respective status of father, mother, child, attached relative, and servant, influenced sexual morality, and governed the function of the family as an educational, economic, moral, and spiritual institution, as also its relation to state, industry, and society in general in the matter of social control. The work is primarily a contribution to genetic sociology.

It has been undertaken to fulfil a need realized by every student and reader, viz: the absolute dearth of connected and systematic material on the general history of the American family as a social institution. In this, as in so many other vital fields of human interest and action, everything has hitherto been taken for granted. In view of the increasing attention given in recent years to the problems of the modern family, such as conditions of marriage, the birth-rate, the waning of home activities, the insurgency of the child, the economic independence of woman, sexual morality, divorce, and general family instability, it seems that the main lines of family evolution in the United States should be made accessible not merely to the professional student of sociology but to the thinking public. The present work is in answer to that realized need.

The first volume covers the colonial period and sets forth the germination of the American family as a product of European folkways, of the economic transition to modern capitalism, and of the distinctive environment of a virgin continent. Usages imported from Europe are detailed and their gradual modification or overthrow under the influence of economic progress and the sway of the wilderness is exhibited. Variations between the geographical sections are traced to mesological and population differences. The characteristics of the family in the English colonies receive accentuation from a view of the French settlements by the Gulf.

The second volume covers the period from Independence through the Civil War under five main heads: the influence of pioneering and the frontier, the rise of urban industrialism, the growth of luxury and extravagance, the culmination of the regime of slavery, and the consequences of the Civil War. All of the alarming problems of to-day were present in some degree in ante-bellum days.

The third volume analyzes the factors that have consummated the revolution of the family during the past fifty years—the advance of industrialism, urban concentration, the growth of large capitalism, the immigrant invasion, the passing of the frontier, the intensification of the struggle for existence, the rise of the standard of living, the movements of rebellion and revolution represented by such manifestations as feminism and socialism, the development of volitional control of family, etc.

Years of research, analysis, and rumination have gone into the preparation of these volumes. Exhaustive investigation of source writings and secondary works together with painstaking reconstruction and interpretation of the course of events warrant the assurance that the present work is the most complete, fundamental, and authoritative treatment of the field that it covers.

Among the chapters in volumes 1 and 2 are:

Courtship and Marriage in colonial New England.
The Position of Women in the New England colonial Family.
The Status of Children in the New England colonial Family.
Sex Sin and Family Failure in colonial New England.
Sex and Marriage in colonial New York.

AN account of the first overland expedition to the Pacific coast by a different route to that followed in general by Lewis and Clark. The expedition of William Henry Ashley in 1824-1825 up the South Platte, across what is now northern Colorado in the dead of winter, over the continental divide, and through the perilous cañons of Green River in rudely constructed boats, and finally still further westward to the vicinity of the Great Salt Lake, forms the first stage in the discovery and utilization of the famous overland route to California.

From the Interior Basin, in 1826, Jedediah Strong Smith pushed on across the deserts of Utah and Nevada and over the Sierras to San Gabriel and San Diego – the first American to reach California by land. Journeying north to the Stanislaus River, he recrossed the Sierras and retraversed the deserts of Utah and Nevada to the Great Salt Lake. These two expeditions together form a single enterprise – the discovery of the central and southwestern route to the Pacific.

A second expedition carried Smith, the first white man, the entire length of California and Oregon.

Original Narratives. The Ashley narrative gives in vivid detail a thrilling account of his remarkable journey. There have been but four descents of Green River to be recorded with any degree of minuteness and this is the first and most detailed of the four. The existence of this narrative was not even suspected until Professor Dale ran across it in the archives of the Missouri Historical Society. The Smith narrative has never before been published in English. The two Harrison G. Rogers journals, kept by the clerk of Smith's expeditions to California, give a careful and frequently exciting record of the adventures of Smith and his intrepid body of early American explorers. The volume also contains a description of the wonders of the Yellowstone National Park, antedating the first hitherto known description by fifteen years. Neither Ashley nor Smith were illiterate trappers but educated men with scientific minds and ardently interested in the progress of geographic knowledge.

Manuscript Sources. Professor Dale has based his work on a detailed study of the sources. Many of his conclusions are drawn from hitherto unused manuscript material preserved in the archives of the Missouri Historical Society, the Kansas Historical Society, the Academy of Pacific Coast History, and elsewhere.

Geographic Discovery and Cartography. The author throws much new light on the discovery of the South Pass, the Overland Trail, Great Salt Lake, Bridger's Pass, the Yellowstone National Park, northern California, and Oregon. The progress of discovery and of geographic knowledge of the west previous to Ashley and Smith is analysed at length on the basis of the latest researches and of much new manuscript material. Professor Dale has conducted extensive researches in western cartography and interprets the early geographic knowledge of the west on the basis of early maps. There is also a careful discussion of the contributions of Ashley and Smith to western cartography.

Lives of Ashley and Smith. The work contains the only life of Ashley, whose importance as an explorer has hitherto been scarcely suspected. Also the only life of Smith, who deserves to rank with the foremost American explorers and geographers.

The Fur Trade. Much fresh material on the history of the American and British fur trade is included. The development of this industry is discussed on the basis of the geographic factors which determined its growth and the progress of attendant discoveries. The wanderings of such men as Manuel Lisa, John Colter, Ezekiel Williams, the Astorians, James Bridger, Thomas Fitzpatrick, Etienne Provot, William Sublette, Donald M'Kenzie, Alexander Ross, and Peter Skene Ogden are traced and their share in the progress of discovery decisively estimated.

California and the early Catholic Missions. The Rogers journals throw much new light on life in California and at the Catholic missions in the early nineteenth century. During his sojourns Smith visited San Diego, San Pedro, Los Angeles, San José, Monterey, and San Francisco. Rogers includes pen pictures of many of the famous earliest American residents on the coast. The work is of unusual importance to students of Californian history and exploration.

Illustrations. The frontispiece map is the first to show accurately the routes of Smith and the only one to indicate the route of Ashley. The Mission of San Gabriel is from an early wood cut made not long after Smith's visit to California. The Summer Rendezvous, likewise from an old print, is fanciful but typical. Ashley established the rendezvous on a large scale as a means of conducting the fur trade. The Cañon of Lodore well illustrates the perils encountered by Ashley in descending Green River. The Gallatin map has never been reprinted since it first appeared in the Transactions of the American Antiquarian Society in 1836. It is surprisingly accurate and far surpasses many that followed it.

THE publication for the first time of Kino's long-lost history is of the utmost historical importance. This extensive manuscript has never been published, even in the original Spanish. Its existence contemporaneously is known only by the constant references thereto in the works of the early Jesuit historians of the West and Southwest. It was extensively used and referred to by Father Venegas in writing his histories, by Alegre in his "Historia de la Compania de Jesus en Nueva España," by Father Ortega in "Apostolicos Afanes," etc. The manuscript is the basic source for the history of that period. The manuscript has for almost a century and a half been lost. That Bancroft appreciated its great importance, although unknown to him, is evident from his references to it in his History. However, he did not know how little of that wealth of material had actually been used. The publication of this precious and long-lost manuscript puts on a new basis the early history of a large part of western America.

Kino's Unique Career. Kino's career was remarkable. For two years (1683-1685) he made heroic attempts to convert and civilize the natives of sterile Lower California. In March, 1687, the very month when the great French explorer, La Salle, was assassinated in the wilds of Texas, Kino began his work in the country of the upper Pimas (Pimería Alta), on the Sonora River, near the present Arizona line. From his mission of Dolores as a base, the hardy Jesuit led one of the most interesting missionary careers in the annals of America, and made himself a place beside Marquette, Margil, Salvatierra, and Serra.

Missions Founded by Him. A score of missions were established on both sides of the Sonora-Arizona line; among them was Mission San Xavier del Bac, that exquisite and famous old shrine still in use near Tucson. The occupation of California by the Jesuits was the direct result of Kino's former residence there. It was from Kino that Salvatierra, founder of the permanent California missions, got his inspiration for that work.

His Explorations. To Kino is due credit for first traversing in detail (1687-1711) and accurately mapping the whole of Pimería Alta, the name then applied to southern Arizona and northern Sonora. His work of exploration was astounding. During his twenty-four years of residence at Dolores (1687-1711) he made more than fifty journeys inland. These journeys varied from a hundred to nearly a thousand miles in length. He crossed and recrossed repeatedly all of the country between the Magdalena and the Gila, the San Pedro and the Colorado. They were made through country inhabited by unknown tribes which might, but fortunately did not, offer him personal violence. One of the routes was over a forbidding, waterless waste, which has since become the graveyard of scores of travelers who died because they lacked Father Kino's pioneering skill. The reference is to the Camino del Diablo, or Devil's Highway, from Sonóita to the Gila. Kino's energy and hardihood were almost beyond belief; his endurance in the saddle was worthy of the most seasoned cowboy.

Kino's Historical Memoir. Historians have long known and had access to a diary, three "relations," two or three letters, and a famous map, all by Kino, and all important for the history of the region where he worked. His map published in 1705 was the first of Pimería based on actual exploration, and for nearly a century and a half was the principal map of the region in existence. There has now come to light, discovered by Doctor Bolton in the archives of Mexico, this vastly more important work—a complete history, written by Kino himself at his little mission of Dolores, covering nearly his whole career in America. It was known to and used by the early Jesuit historians, but has lain forgotten ever since. It is now found to be the source of practically all that has been known of the work of Kino and his companions, and to contain much that never has been known before. Kino, therefore, was not only the first great missionary, ranchman, explorer, and geographer of Pimería Alta, but his book was the first and will be for all time the principal history of this region and his quarter century.

Wealth of Historical Material. The Historical Memoir is virtually a history of the entire region. Much data is contained in the work concerning the Indian tribes of the Southwest, notably the Apaches, Pimas, Pápagos, Maricopas, and Yumas. It tells of Apache depredations; of bloody wars of the Apaches with Pima Indians and Spanish soldiery; of Kino's efforts to prove California a peninsula and not an island, and, as a corollary, the feasibility of establishing a land route from Arizona to the Jesuit missions in Lower California.

Index. The systematic and extensive Index is a veritable dictionary of Southwestern history and biography, bringing out the work of numerous worthy associates of Kino, religious and secular.

Introduction and Bibliography. The Introduction of eighty-two pages gives an authentative sketch of Kino's life, based, in large part, upon manuscript materials not hitherto available. The account, while scholarly, is vivid, and gives a real portrait of the great missionary. It is followed by an analysis of the Kino manuscript, its identification, its relation to the work of the older Jesuit historians, and its value as an historical source. In this section the broad and critical scholarship of the editor is seen at its best. The Bibliography of printed and manuscript sources is the most complete for the period and region ever brought together.

Translation. The translation combines an unusual degree of faithfulness to the original with freedom and grace of expression. The book, indeed, far from being heavy, is a human document which will grip the attention of the general reader as well as of the scholar.

The Map. On the basis of original data the editor has prepared a detailed and accurate map to illustrate Kino's work, showing exploration routes, Indian tribes, Indian villages, missions, and Spanish settlements. This map is in itself an important contribution to history.

The Editor is the best known historian of the Southwest, and a recognized authority on the archives of Mexico, and on Spanish-American and Western history. He has made this field peculiarly his own.

Spain in the West Series is now completed by the publication of these (two) volumes. Volumes one and two of the series comprise:

The American Indian as Slaveholder and Secessionist: An omitted chapter in the diplomatic history of the Southern Confederacy is the first of a series of three volumes dealing with the Slaveholding Indians as secessionists, participants, and victims of the Civil War. The series treats of a phase of American Civil War History which has heretofore been almost entirely neglected, or when dealt with, misinterpreted.

No history of the American Civil War that has yet appeared has adequately recognized certain facts connected with that period of frontier development; among these, that the Indians fought on both sides in the great sectional struggle; that they were moved to fight not by instincts of savagery, but by identically the same motives and impulses as the white men.

The first volume is an important contribution to the diplomatic history of the Southern Confederacy. It shows the determined efforts made by the Confederate States to secure the aid of the great Indian nations. The Federal government believed that the Indian nations had no interest in a sectional conflict and left them at the critical moment. While the authorities at Washington neglected the Indians even to the extent of actual dishonor, the Confederacy offered political integrity and equality, and established a bona fide protectorate. The Indians thus fought as solicited allies. Treaties were made with them as with foreign powers and not in the farcical, fraudulent way that had been customary in times past. They promised alliance and were given in return political status. The control of Indian territory was of vital and strategic importance.

Of especial significance is the fact that Texas and Arkansas interested themselves in the secession of the great slaveholding nations, the Choctaw, Cherokee, Chickasaw, Creek, and Seminole, before they actually seceded themselves.

The second and third volumes are now in preparation and will be issued later. These volumes, dealing with the part taken by the Indians in the Civil War and later during reconstruction, will prove volumes of even greater interest than the first. They cover a virtually untouched phase of that important period of our history. The whole subject is one that is not only of historical importance but of absorbing interest.

Sources: The material for this work has been drawn chiefly from documentary sources. Among such are the Leeper, or Wichita Agency papers, the Fort Smith papers, etc. The Fort Smith papers, with a lot of manuscript rubbish, had been set aside, presumably for destruction, when discovered by Doctor Abel. These with many other important papers are now made available to students for the first time.

The annotations are extensive and carefully prepared. Bibliographies are furnished and extensive analytical indexes.
